

Brother Perkins was initiated at Doniphan, Mo., on January 23, 1899, at which time he was connected with the Doniphan Lumber Company. He left Doniphan about the middle of May last for St. Louis to look after some personal business, and since that time the Doniphan Lumber Company has not known his whereabouts. His name was on the "Unknown List" in the Scrivenoter's office, and at the time of his death correspondence was being carried on in an effort to locate him. Brother Perkins leaves a wife, who resides at Naylor, Mo., and who is a cripple for life. The case is a very sad one. The remains were interred at Birmingham, in Elm Leaf Cemetery. The grave was carefully marked at the instance of Mr. French, and is grave No. 5, Section 1, Division C. The only particulars we have of the way in which Brother Perkins met death came from the railroad people, who hint at suicide, saying the man stood directly in front of the locomotive and facing it until it struck him. In a letter about the sad affair Brother Stewart says:

"In many ways Brother Perkins was a wonderful man. He was educated in England, and was a man of wonderful memory, which made him at all times a most pleasant companion, both in the office and in the parlor. As a lawyer, he was a man of no small ability. He was in the employ of the Doniphan Lumber Company for a number of years, and always attended to his duties faithfully and well. We all regret his sad and tragic end."

Thomas West Lynn (No. 3814).

Brother C. W. Goodlander, of Fort Scott, Kan., reports the death of Brother T. W. Lynn, who was associated with him in business. Brother Goodlander writes:

"Fort Scott, Kan., December 6, 1900.—T. W. Lynn, Hoo-Hoo No. 3814, died on December 1, 1900. Mr. Lynn had been manager of my lumber and grain business here for twenty-five years. He was sixty-two years of age. He leaves a wife and two grown daughters. Mr. Lynn was a high type of man—sober, reliable, and competent. 'Tom' Lynn was liked by all who knew him."

The New Handbook.

During the latter part of December a correction blank was mailed to each member of the Order in good standing calling for official data for revising the handbook. These blanks have been returned by the hundreds and by the thousands, and the work of revising the book has gone on rapidly and without a hitch. The book is about ready to go to press. If any member has not received a blank, or if, having received one, he has neglected to fill it out and mail his address in the 1900 handbook is not correct. We strongly urge him to write at once, giving the following information:

- 1. Hoo-Hoo number.
2. Full name, written thus: William Henry Harrison.
3. Business address—the place where you can be found if a man is looking for you in person.
4. Mailing address—the place where you want your mail sent if it is different from your business address.
5. The firm you are connected with, its address. Sometimes a man living in Kalamazoo is connected with a firm which is located in Chicago.
6. Business signature—your name just as you sign it in ordinary business.

Current Year's Dues.

No formal notices for dues for the year ending on September 9, 1901, have been sent out, and none will be sent out until after the revised handbook is printed. Acting upon the very excellent suggestion made by Brother W. I. Ewart, of St. Paul, and with the view of minimizing the postage expended in collecting the dues, it has been decided not to send out the three formal notices provided for in the Constitution until every man has been notified through "The Bulletin" and given an opportunity to pay up voluntarily. This plan was tried last year, and worked most satisfactorily, more than 2,500 of the members paying up their dues before any of the formal notices were ever mailed out. A notice of dues for the current year appeared in the October "Bulletin," and something like 1,500 members have responded. If you are one of those who have not responded, you are urged to send check for 99 cents to the Scrivenor. If you are in doubt about the matter, remit anyway. If you pay a year ahead, it will do no serious harm. Receipts will be promptly mailed showing disposition of amount received.

Comments on Concatenations.

Probably the two events of chiefest interest and most significance that have occurred in Hoo-Hoo since the last issue of "The Bulletin" reached its readers are the two splendid concatenations reported from Washington, N. C., and Norfolk, Va.

The former occurred on December 28; and if it were notable for no other reason, it would be as marking the introduction of Hoo-Hoo into a practically virgin field, where there exists much material of the highest quality for its great and rapid growth. This beginning of the campaign in the Southeast, for which the credit is due to Mr. George V. Denny, the Vicegerent, was effected in a manner and by methods that bid fair to give the Order the standing and influence it should have in all sections. It was a dignified and impressive unfolding of the principles of Hoo-Hoo to a class of men well qualified to appreciate and exemplify them. In speaking of this concatenation as an introduction of Hoo-Hoo into a virgin field, it should not be understood that it is literally the first concatenation ever held in North Carolina. That distinction belongs to Concatenation No. 532, held at Goldsboro on May 16, 1899, by Mr. G. J. Cherry, at that time the Vicegerent for the State. Mr. Cherry is the actual pioneer in the work, and the concatenation at Goldsboro was the direct result almost entirely of his energy and enthusiasm. He deserves all the credit that can be given him for this work, but with no membership scarcely at all throughout the State and but a small one in the adjacent territory, he was sadly handicapped in the matter of effective work. The interest he awakened at Goldsboro, however, spread throughout the State, and undoubtedly paved the way for and made possible the splendid career for Hoo-Hoo that is now assured. With the number and character of the men initiated at Goldsboro and now but recently at Washington, other meetings at a number of important points are possible, and, indeed, are already being arranged for.

As will be seen from the formal report, Mr. Denny initiated ten men, among whom were several of the most prominent lumbermen of his part of the State. He was ably assisted in the work of administering the ceremonies by the following prominent members of the Order, who occupied the nine stations as indicated:

Snark, George V. Denny.
Senior Hoo-Hoo, C. D. Loan.
Junior Hoo-Hoo, A. H. Potter.
Bojum, J. W. Lynch.
Scrivenor, Z. W. Whitehead.

Jabberwock, George R. Bounds.
Custodian, W. C. Buhmann.
Arenopier, C. M. Jenkins.
Gurdon, E. B. Norman.

The "Session on the Roof," with which the meeting closed, was unusually enjoyable, a number of invited guests being present. The menu card was as follows:

Pamlico Oysters, "Half Bark Off."
Celery, Salted Almond, "Kitten's Food."
Olives "From the Roof."
Mixed Pickles "From the Onion Bed."
Roast Young Turkey "Grown on the Fence."
Cranberry Sauce.
Minced Ham Sandwich "a la Kitten."
Hoo-Hoo Punch.
Chicken Salad, Mayonnaise Dressing, "Clear of Knots."
Frozen Custard "For the Kittens."
Assorted Cake "Soft and Downy."
Fruit, en Comport "From Many Fights."
Roquefort Cheese "Embalmed."
Toasted Crackers, "No Bark."
"Black" Coffee. Cigars, "Last Meow."

The toasts responded to were as follows:

"Our Visitors," Hon. John H. Small.
"Our Hosts," Mr. A. H. Potter, Norfolk, Va.
"Hoo-Hoo," Hon. Z. W. Whitehead, Wilmington, N. C.
"Our Women," Hon. Stephen C. Bragaw.
"North Carolina," Judge George H. Brown.

Mr. Denny, it is evident, well understands the art of standing well with the newspaper people, as a number of very flattering notices of his meeting have come to "The Bulletin." The local paper, the Washington "Gazette," says:

"The Order of Hoo-Hoo is essentially a lumbermen's Order, and is rapidly growing in members and strength in this State. The meeting last night was voted a 'howling success' from start to finish, and Mr. Denny, the new Vicegerent Snark of North Carolina, was highly complimented on this, his first concatenation."

In this connection we are pleased to present a portrait of Vicegerent Denny and a bit of his biography as it appears in a recent issue of the "Southern Milling and Lumber Journal," of Wilmington, N. C.:

"A native of Alamance County, N. C., he early embarked in the hardware business at Reidsville, when only sixteen years of age, where he remained for about seven years, and until 1885, when he accepted the position of traveling salesman for the Southern Railway and Supply Company, of Richmond, Va. In this capacity Mr. Denny showed himself to be a salesman of the first order, and has filled this position with great acceptability to his employers to the present time, being given entire charge of the States of North Carolina and South Carolina, as well as Virginia. He is also a lumberman, and is the silent partner in the firm of J. T. Denny & Co., at Rennett, N. C. Of the many Vicegerent Snarks throughout the country, we dare say that none are more active and enthusiastic for the advancement of Hoo-Hoo than George Denny, whose friends are legion in all the territory covered by him. As a salesman, he ranks among the first; happy in disposition, jolly in nature, but business three hundred and sixty-five days in the year, Sundays excepted."

MR. GEO. V. DENNY
OF WASHINGTON, VICEGERENT FOR STATE OF

The concatenation at Norfolk, Va., alluded to in the above, was held on January 9 by Vicegerent J. E. Duke, assisted by the various members at Norfolk, whose interest and loyalty have made that historic old town one of the bright spots, so to speak, in Hoo-Hoo. Eight members were admitted, and the meeting was an unqualified success in every way. The local paper says of the event:

"If you are not a Hoo-Hoo or have never attended a banquet given by them after a concatenation, you do not know the true meaning of the word 'fun.' This organization is composed of the lumbermen of the country, together with a few newspaper men and business men whose dealings have a direct touch with the lumber industry of the country, and there are thousands of them in this country. They have all sorts of unique names for their officers and everything else connected with themselves. Their symbol is a black cat, and they call candidates for initiation 'kittens.' It would not be proper to go further into details as to the 'Order' or 'lodge' or 'council,' or whatever else they call themselves; so suffice it to say that there was a concatenation last night and a banquet to follow. The former was held at their hall, at the corner of Main street and Roanoke avenue, where eight 'kittens' were put through the first stages, and the latter was at Steve Seelinger's restaurant, in Bank street. What was done at the former is known only to those on the inside; at the latter place there was all that was good to eat and drink and fun galore. It was shortly after 11 o'clock when the Order had finished the serious work of the evening and adjourned to the banquet room. There were about fifteen Hoo-Hoo and invited guests, and this is the repeat, served in Mine Host Seelinger's very best style:

Lynnhaven Oysters on Half Shell.
Consommé Royal.
Iced Celery. Pickles. Chowchow.
Boiled Sheep's Head, Egg Sauce.
Potatoes Natural.
Smithfield Ham, Champagne Sauce.
Young Princess Anne Turkey, Cranberry Sauce.
Quail on Toast.
French Peas. Potatoes au Gratin.
Lobster Salad.
Roquefort Cheese. Crackers.
Tea. Black Coffee. Cigars.

"During the evening, with Snark Duke as the master of ceremonies, there were speeches and songs and stories and the like by members and friends, until the end came only too early."

The following letter from one of the initiates of this concatenation breathes the proper spirit:

"Norfolk, Va., January 22, 1901.—Mr. J. H. Baird, Scrivenor, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge receipt of instruction book and button, and it is a still greater pleasure to know that, however young I am in the grand Order, I am one of the number; and it shall be my desire, starting now from my infancy, to assist in building Hoo-Hoo to a surpassing degree to all that may be a competitor. I am,
"Fraternally, L. F. DE BORDENAVE (No. 7802)."

In connection with this meeting at Norfolk, a few words about the man who held it, and who is now the official head of Hoo-Hoo in Virginia, may not be amiss.

Mr. J. E. Duke is not only a Hoo-Hoo, but a lumberman all over. He began the lumber business in June, 1893, with

Mr. A. R. Smith, under the firm name and style of Duke & Smith, since which time he has been actively engaged in the wholesale and manufacture of lumber, yellow pine and North Carolina pine as well. Their business is largely with the United States Government and selling large contractors, having completed some of the largest yellow pine and hardwood contracts ever made with the government in that section. This concern is also interested in, and owners of, two sawmills in Southampton, Va., of which Mr. Duke is treasurer and part owner. He is well and favorably known to the trade generally, and is the right man for Snark of the Order of Hoo-Hoo in Virginia.

Along with this activity in Hoo-Hoo, the events of the past few weeks in Texas deserve equal comment as marking some important features of the work in the great Southwest. Mr. W. H. Norris led off in his year's work with an excellent meeting at Houston on December 15. Brother C. A. Newning, of the "Southern Industrial and Lumber Review," appears to have been made historian extrordinary upon the occasion, as his paper gives something over a page to the various features of the occasion. Brother Newning says, in part:

"It was one of the most unique and enjoyable entertainments for the members and for the public generally that has ever been held in the Southwest. The 15th had been set aside by the managers of the Fruit, Flower, and Vegetable Festival as Lumbermen's Day, and the Houston Lumber Exchange had sent out cards of invitation to all the Texas Hoo-Hoo and to lumbermen generally throughout Texas and Louisiana, resulting, notwithstanding the busy Christmas times, in a splendid gathering of the boys. The Hoo-Hoo concatenation had been generously discussed in the local press, and it was stated that the great triumph of last year was about to be eclipsed. This put the boys on their mettle and forced them to get up some novelties for the street parade. This part of the programme was entrusted to Kittens B. Frank Bonner, John Ray, and George D. Hunter, all 'Jim Dandies' when it comes to improvisation. When the candidates were corralled in Room 9 of the Rice Hotel at 8:30 P.M., the main streets of Houston were packed by a dense throng of people, perhaps 20,000. They were all in good humor, and while waiting for the 'show,' they pelted each other with rubber balls, deluged everybody with confetti, and then the broom brigades dusted the clothes of the people without regard to acquaintance, age, sex, color, or condition. It was a regular Mardi Gras crowd. The Rice Hotel, Binz Building, and all other points of vantage were seized early by the expectant crowd; and, judging by the laughter which was evoked by the cavalcade as it slowly meandered along the asphalt to the melody of the 'Dead March in Saul' and lit up by the glare of hundreds of red lights, the effort of the Hoo-Hoo was appreciated. Of all the astonished people in Houston that night, none were more so than the unfortunate candidates, who, after being marched in lock step down the grand stairway of the Rice Hotel, were taken to the side street and lined up alongside of their conveyances. Conveyances! When the candidates were assured that they would not walk all over town, they were elated, for each of them had seen purblind kittens in his day trying to find the aching corn on the man just in front; but when one of the 'conveyances' began in thunder tones to roar the lovely name 'Hoo-Hoo,' even the stoutest heart quailed and the strongest limb shook with fear.

"Nine elephants were there to make up for the 'car shortage.' They were elephants right. They came from the highlands and jungles of Asia, and were the property of the brothers Gentry, famous throughout the South for their valuable stock of wild beasts and domestic trick animals, with which they have entertained millions of men, women, and children. These nine elephants knew all about lumbermen; in fact, some of them have been in the lumber business in their native land, carrying heavy planks in their trunks and even stacking lumber with facility. Therefore the welcome snorts the kittens received were very hearty.

"At the signal, up went Brother J. M. Coleman, the well-known counsel to many a lumber firm, on the leading elephant. His protests were in vain; and, with his back to the elephant's ears and nothing more to hold on to than if he were astride a camel's hump, he was the source of endless trouble to himself and fun for the crowd. Who the candidate was who had hold of that elephant's tail, causing him to wobble so nimbly, Brother Coleman has not found out; but he will, he says, 'if God grants him life.'

"Others, too, were the butt of ridicule from the crowd, including the Gentrys themselves, who, for the first time, rode their own trick animals or pulled their tails. It was, indeed, a new experience to them. John H. Kirby, the late King Nottoe, was crowned ruler of the week. Who would have recognized him among those 'skates'?"

"Other trombling aspirants astride the elephants or holding firmly to their caudal appendages were Hon. Gustavus Calder Street; Charles Bedell Hervey; George Korst, of Galveston; Charles Henry Brown, of Waters-Pierce fame, and H. B. Stillwell. These all were 'honoraries,' but they took their medicine, just the same. The regular candidates were unrecognizable to the public as they passed along.

"Take it all in all, the parade, although got up, as it was, in a day, was a very successful event, and it is safe to say that the last day of Festival Week will always be set aside for lumbermen and their 'doins.' The procession covered many of the streets of the city, and brought up finally at Sangerbund Hall, on Congress street; but what passed therein is not for those who have not partaken of the shillots of the onion bed to know.

"The concatenation was in every respect a pleasing one, and nineteen valuable members were added to the list, which is fast reaching its constitutional limit."

The following resolutions in memory of Robert Emmett Kelley, lately deceased, were adopted by the concatenation at Houston by a rising vote:

"Whereas the Hoo-Hoo present at a concatenation held in Houston, Texas, on December 15, 1900, have learned with inexpressible regret of the death of one of the founders of the great Order of Hoo-Hoo, Mr. Robert Emmett Kelley, No. 8, of Beaumont, Texas; and

"Whereas it is fitting that a proper expression of the sentiments of this concatenation be spread upon the minutes; therefore be it

"Resolved, That in the death of our much-beloved and respected brother, No. 8, Hoo-Hoo has lost one of its most ardent advocates and one of the distinguished original members who founded the Order at Gurdon, Ark.

"Resolved, That the lumber interests of the Southwest, and especially in the field of lumber trade journalism, have much cause to mourn the death of one who has by his faithful services to the trade, covering nearly twelve years, done much to advance the interests of yellow pine and place it in its present proud position in the markets of the world.

"Resolved, That the Scrivenor of the meeting cause these resolutions to be printed in the Hoo-Hoo 'Bulletin' and transmit a copy of same to the bereaved widow of our late brother as the only expression of heartfelt sympathy possible for the Order to make."

This was the first concatenation of the year in Texas. The second was at El Paso on January 28. There was to be sort of street fair or a "Gala Week" out at the great border city, and Vicegerent Norris determined to punctuate the occasion with a "Hoo-Hoo Day." He did it, and added on a Hoo-Hoo night. He made the trip over to El Paso a day in advance, so as to have everything in readiness. He was accompanied by the following staunchly loyal members: D. K. Newsum, of the Texas Tram and Lumber Company, Beaumont; L. N. Thompson, of the Thompson & Tucker Lumber Company, Willard; C. E. Jones and M. Eastham, of the Yellow Pine Tie and Timber Company, Beaumont; J. T. Bertram, of the Industrial Lumber Company, Beaumont; W. Burton, Fort Worth, and E. H. Lingo, Denison, of the Burton-Lingo Lumber Company; W. P. Powell, of Dale & Powell, Bartlett; W. L. Womack, of the Trinity River Lumber Company, Houston, and the Foster Company, Kansas City; and A. P. Jackson, Alamogordo, N. M.

As soon as he got there, Mr. Norris had a handsome quarter-page advertisement appear in the local paper, and took other steps to make known the fact that great Hoo-Hoo was in town. What afterwards transpired is succinctly and modestly chronicled in the following letter from Mr. Norris:

"Houston, Texas, January 21, 1901.—J. H. Baird, Scrivenor, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: Inclosed I hand you my check for $123.03 to cover concatenation held at El Paso on January 18. Biography blanks, combination voucher, and authority blanks, together with several newspaper clippings, I send you forward by this mail under separate cover.

"We had a big time at El Paso, and owned the town from the time we got there until we left. You will notice I took in Gov. Miguel Ahumada, of the State of Chihuahua, Mexico. He gave us his own band of the Thirteenth Regiment, consisting of forty pieces, to lead our procession from the hotel to the hall, and we also kept the band all night for our celebration around town after the concatenation. I would not be surprised if the Governor came to our Annual Meeting and brought his band along with him, as he is quite enthused over it.

"I think we did pretty well by getting twelve new members out there, and they are first-class people, and people who will do the Order good. There are very few Hoo-Hoo in that section of the country, and twelve more buttons being scattered around out there will help a little. Governor Ahumada says that any time we go to Chihuahua he will turn the city over to us, and any one wearing a black cat may have anything he wants. Yours truly,

"W. H. NORRIS."

It is needless to say that Governor Ahumada is accounted a valuable acquisition to Hoo-Hoo. He expressed himself as much pleased with the introduction of Hoo-Hoo into his country at the concatenation held last fall at the capital, and promises his assistance in furthering the interests of the Order in every possible way.

The return of Vicegerent Norris' party is thus noted in the Houston "Post":

"Quite a party of Texas Hoo-Hoo left Houston last Tuesday night for El Paso for the purpose of holding a concatenation in that beautiful city of the Western plain. The party consisted of William H. Norris, Vicegerent Snark for Texas, and M. L. Womack, Jr., of Houston; D. K. Newsum, J. T. Bertram, C. E. Jones, and Mally Eastham, of Beaumont; and L. N. Thompson, of the Thompson & Tucker Lumber Company, of Willard. The party was joined at El Paso by Millard Burton, of Dallas, and E. H. Lingo, of Denison.

"The concatenation went off in a blaze of glory, no less a personage than His Excellency, Gov. Miguel Ahumada, of the State of Chihuahua, Mexico, being the star of the occasion. The Governor came all the way from his home, in Chihuahua, to become a full-fledged black cat; and, in order to give note to the event and at the same time bring pride and joy to the bosoms of the assembled cats and kittens, he brought with him his famous Thirteenth Regiment band of forty pieces, and they did not do a thing but march at the head of the Hoo-Hoo parade and stay with the boys until the shooting rays of 'Old Sol' began to be seen in the east over the valley of the Rio Grande. Twelve kittens saw 'the lights,' however, before the sun thought of rising, and the new members included some of the most distinguished men of the West. The reception accorded the men from the East was splendid, and it is safe to say that they will return to El Paso again at the first opportunity.

"Governor Ahumada has promised Vicegerent Norris to visit Houston next August, when a grand concatenation will be held; and he has furthermore promised to bring the band with him, forty pieces strong."

The appointment of Mr. Norris gives great satisfaction to all the Texas interests, for it is well known that he possesses abundant energy and executive ability of a high order. He will endeavor to improve the Order in the character of its membership rather than in the numbers secured. He recognizes that the lines of Hoo-Hoo have been narrowed down as the high-water mark of 9,999 approaches. What may be done in the future toward increasing the number who are eligible to membership cuts no figure in the present laws, and it may be that Hoo-Hoo will always be held down to 9,999. Mr. Norris is well known to the trade as the head of the W. H. Norris Lumber Company, of Houston, and as a handler of Bradley-Ramsay lumber and Gehert shingles.

Among other notable concatenations held recently, the one at Cleveland, O., on December 29, deserves special mention. It was without attempt at special and unusual features, but simply a quiet, dignified initiation of six good men, and a delightful social session following. Vicegerent Ellenberger handled the meeting well, and proved himself a splendid selection for the position of Vicegerent. The formal report shows he had in the work the assistance of the most prominent members of the Order in Cleveland.

Another notable meeting is the one held at Indianapolis, Ind., on January 16. It had been a long time since there was a good concatenation at Indiana's capital, and the interest seemed at a low ebb. Vicegerent Teel, however, as soon as he was appointed, set to work to remedy this, and the meeting of January 16 shows how well he succeeded. Mr. Teel is a worker, and he brings to Hoo-Hoo the same energy and enthusiasm that have made him such a conspicuous success as the representative on the outside of the Sinker-Davis Company. It will be seen in the formal report that Mr. Teel was assisted in the concatenation by such prominent men in the Order as ex-Snark of the Universe N. A. Gladding, who presided; Mr. Charles Wallin, of Evansville, the Vicegerent for the Southern District of the State; and M. A. Hayward, of Columbus.

Seattle, Wash., January 19, 1901.—The Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo met in Germania Hall, Seattle, this evening. The following officers conducted the concatenation:

Another notable concatenation is the one held by Vicegerent E. E. Goodlander, of Memphis, Tenn., on December 16. There have, in all likelihood, been more concatenations, and larger ones, held at Memphis than any other city in the United States, and at all of them a high degree of excellence has been maintained. Certainly this last one is no exception to the "Memphis standard" in point either of numbers or material. It was held during the sessions of the Southern Lumber Manufacturers' Association, and fourteen men were initiated. Careful arrangements had been made by Mr. Goodlander, and everything went off as smoothly as if it had been his tenth instead of his first concatenation. Snark of the Universe Stillwell was present and presided, and he preserved the best of order in a hall that was crowded to its utmost limits. The "Session on the Roof" was just what such a feature should be, and was highly enjoyed.

Vicegerent Goodlander's appointment gives entire satisfaction throughout the State, and he will undoubtedly make one of the best officers the Order has ever had. As senior partner in the Goodlander-Robinson Lumber Company, he is in close touch with the lumber people throughout the South, among whom he is personally very popular.

OF MEMPHIS, VICEGERENT FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF TENNESSEE.

Probably no concatenation has ever been held, except at an Annual Meeting, where so many officers and ex-officers of the Order took part as at the recent concatenation at Kansas City. A reference to the formal report discloses the fact that three ex-Vicegerents and one ex-Snark of the Universe had official stations in the initiatory work, while the other five positions were filled by the Vicegerent for the Eastern District of Missouri and four other prominent members, one of whom is an Osirian. Twenty-eight regular members and two honorary life members were taken in, the latter being, respectively, Mr. William B. Huttig, the well-known president of the Western Sash and Door Company, of Kansas City, and Mr. William A. Rule, of the National Bank of Commerce, of Kansas City, an institution closely identified with the lumber trade throughout Missouri, Kansas, and Texas. The regular initiates, it will be seen from the formal report, comprise some of the most influential members of the Missouri and Kansas Association of Lumber Dealers, during the annual meeting of which association the concatenation was held. The concatenation throughout reflects great credit upon Mr. Dallam, the Vicegerent, who has taken hold of the work in Western Missouri with much energy.

Mr. Dallam is a railroad man, and has always been; but so closely has he always been identified with the lumber business that he is practically a part thereof. It is doubtful if there is another man of his years in the railroad business so generally known and so universally liked throughout the South and Southwest as "Dug" Dallam. His is a unique personality, and it crops out conspicuously in the following answer to a letter from the Scribe-noter's office asking for some fuller biographical information than was on file in his original application blank for membership in the Order:

"Yours 17th. Of course it gives me pleasure to be in touch with such distinguished friends as you have always shown yourself to be when my interest was concerned. I will attempt in a brief way, on account of pressure of business at this time, to give you a little outline of the varied story of my life.

"I was born in Henderson County, Ky., on August 25, 1861; reared in Evansville, Ind., until about the sixteenth year of my career, when I took the broad horns in my own hands and attempted to make a record. My first attempt was in a steamboat way—purser on the beautiful passenger steamer Sunbeam for a year; then was in some broken service on various steamers on the Ohio, Mississippi, and Tennessee Rivers until 1885, when I took service with the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway in the office of the General Western Freight Agent at St. Louis; was in their service for about six years, with two breaks, when I was called into the mercantile service with my father at Evansville on account of the death of a brother. In January, 1892, I was appointed Division Freight Agent of the Cotton Belt Railroad at Little Rock, Ark., where I served until the middle of April, and was then transferred to Evansville, Ind., as General Agent of the Mississippi Valley Route. In January, 1894, I again took service with the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, and served until February, 1895, when I was appointed General Southern Agent of the Hoosac Tunnel East Freight Line, with headquarters at Louisville, Ky. In August, 1896, I was transferred from Louisville to St. Louis, in charge of the St. Louis, Cincinnati and Kansas City offices of the Hoosac Tunnel Line. In October, 1897, I left the service of the Tunnel Line and contributed the following two months in an effort to get another job. In December, 1897, I took service with the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway Company as Traveling Freight Agent for Mr. Tedford's office at St. Louis. In May, 1898, I was transferred from St. Louis to Cincinnati as Traveling Freight Agent from the Chicago office for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé Railway, and on December 1 was promoted to Commercial Agent at Cincinnati. On February 1, 1900, I was again transferred to the General Agency at Kansas City, where I am now giving the best efforts I possibly can to holding my job.

OF KANSAS CITY, VICEGERENT FOR THE WESTERN

"Of course in the above outline I am not able to give you the beautiful colors which have been cast upon my various official records, but I assure you that the progress has not been without the assistance of a number of good friends, who have found that it has always been better to give than to receive, and I believe that I could be the best grand master on an exemplification of the recipient of the precepts recited above. It requires usually an exception to prove the rule. In 1894 it was a receiver that made me 'hit the road.'

"I believe this outline will give you a beautiful opportunity to smooth over the rough edges and make a true story taken from life.

"I mailed you yesterday one of the greatest efforts possible that the advanced science in photography could produce, and I hope that your artist will not lose any of the good effects, as it required a world of work for my scientific photographer to produce the result.

"I hope to continue in subscribing myself.

"Faternally yours,

"B. T. O. T. G. S. B. C.,

"DOUGLAS DALLAM."

Two other concatenations remain to be noticed—one at Toledo, O., on January 23, and the other at Bluefield, W. Va., on January 26. The former was held by Vicegerent Drake, of the Southern District of Ohio, who went up to Toledo especially to hold the meeting, and the latter by Vicegerent E. Stringer Hoggess, of Clarksburg, W. Va., who is determined to give Hoo-Hoo a membership among the hardwood manufacturers of his State if he has to do all the work himself. He determined to hold a concatenation at Bluefield, where a class of excellent material has been waiting for some time, on his way over to the exporters' meeting at Memphis; and when he arrived at Bluefield to find his class all ready and anxious to join and only one other man to assist him in the work, he, nothing daunted, rolled up his sleeves, and he says if any of them were not satisfied with what they got, he never heard of it. He initiated twelve men. At Toledo, while only four men were initiated, the meeting was, nevertheless, a success, and Mr. Drake deserves great credit. He was assisted, it will be seen, by that "wheel horse" of Hoo-Hoo, E. M. Vietmeier, of Pittsburgh, an ex-member of the Supreme Nine.

OF CLARKSBURG, VICEGERENT FOR STATE OF

Obituary.

H. H. Jaynes (No. 6102).

Denver, Col., December 21, 1900.—It becomes my painful duty, for the second time since the organization of the Order of Hoo-Hoo in our State, to notify you that death has again crept into our family and taken from us Hanson H. Jaynes (No. 6102), of Denver, Col. Brother Jaynes died yesterday at his residence, in this city, of consumption. He was the agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, in this city; and while in life, he had a host of friends not only among those engaged in the railroad business, but in the lumber trade as well. Brother Jaynes has been in bad health for a number of years, yet it was quite a surprise to his friends to learn of his death. He leaves a wife and two children. His body will be shipped this evening to Cheshire, O., for burial, this being his old home.

Hanson Headley Jaynes was born at Delaware, O., on August 30, 1868. He became a Hoo-Hoo at Denver on January 24, 1899. He had been in the railroad business since 1886, most of the time with the road with which he was connected at the time of his demise.

Elver W. Manahan (No. 2028).

The following tribute to Brother Elver W. Manahan whose death was noted in a former issue of "The Bulletin," is contributed by Brother W. A. Coulson, of Moss Point, Miss.:

"When word came to Norwalk, the old home of Elver W. Manahan, that he was dead, every one who had known him felt that a useful life had been prematurely cut short. From the beginning of his career as a teacher in Huron County to the close of his life in the South he had attained marked success. He possessed the qualities that make a good business man, and because of these he was intrusted with large commercial interests. He seemed to be passionately devoted to his brother and sisters, and spared himself in no particular where he could give them happiness. His sterling qualities of head and heart won to him a large circle of admirers and close friends both North and South. Overseeing hundreds of men, he was loved by them all, never seeming to gain an enemy from the ranks of high or low. He never swerved from the right path to win success, but loved and practiced conscientiously those principles which constitute the soul of the Christian religion. The flowers, which were brought in such profusion by friends at home and abroad symbolized their belief in his glorious immortality.

"Elver W. Manahan was the son of George W. Manahan. He was born in Hurland township on September 13, 1849. In 1871 he came with his father's family to Norwalk, where he resided until he went to the South and entered into business. His education was received from the Milan and Norwalk schools. After quitting school, he taught for several years throughout Huron County. In the fall of 1873 he went South to Millview, Fla., where he was connected with his brother-in-law, George W. Robinson, in the lumber business. From there he went to Moss Point, Miss., in 1887, where he engaged in the same business. He was now a partner with Mr. Robinson. Continuing the mills at Moss Point, the business of the firm was extended still further; so that Mr. Manahan found it necessary to move his residence to Chicago, Miss., in 1893. Here he was tolling when he began feeling the disagreeable presence of disease. It was not until last fall that he began to feel seriously ill. Then he visited his old Norwalk home for a short while. From this city he went for a visit to his sister in Orange, N. J.; but failing to receive benefit there, he gave himself up to travel in search of health. He was accompanied by his brother, Dr. M. W. Manahan, of Atlanta. He visited Mexico City, Cuernavaca, and other large cities of Mexico. From there he went to El Paso, Texas, and thence to Phoenix, Ariz., where his brother left him showing signs of improvement. With the coming of hot weather, complications set in which rendered the condition of Mr. Manahan critical, and he returned to his brother's home at Atlanta. Here he remained five weeks battling with his disease. He went to Mount Airy, Ga., in July; thence to Asheville, N. C., but finally settled in Waynesville, N. C. But the battle was a losing one. He had done all he could to preserve the life God had given him, and on the morning of July 20 he gave up the struggle and passed peacefully into God's presence.

"All his sisters and his brother were present at the funeral. The services were held at the old home on Benedict avenue, conducted by Rev. W. A. Broadhurst, of the Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Manahan had been a member since 1891. Appropriate music was sung by the excellent quartet, composed of Mrs. J. A. Hart, Mrs. Otto M. Harter, and Messrs. J. A. Stratton and F. G. Moir; and as the sun was slanting low in the west, all that was mortal of Elver W. Manahan was lowered to rest in the old family lot in Woodlawn; but the brother, the friend, the nobleman has obeyed his Heavenly Father's call and gone home."

Job Hatfield (No. 4320).

The death of a prominent member of the Order on the Pacific Coast, which appears, through an oversight, not to have had proper notice in "The Bulletin," is that of Brother Job Hatfield, of Portland, Ore. Brother Hatfield died at Paso Robles Springs, Cal., on July 8, 1900, of heart failure. Brother Hatfield was a partner of Mr. R. D. Inman in the well-known lumber manufacturing firm of Inman, Paulsen & Co., of Portland, and was one of the prominent business men on the Pacific Coast. He was a most lovable character, and his friends and associates in business greatly mourn their loss. He left a wife and five daughters, the oldest of whom is but eighteen years of age.

Brother Hatfield was born at Fostoria, O., on April 2, 1855, and removed to Portland in 1880. He had been very successful in business.

Walter A. Parker (No. 5561).

Seattle, Wash., December 24, 1900.—The following are the proceedings of the meeting of lumbermen held at Hotel Seattle on Monday, December 24, at 3 o'clock P.M., for the purpose of taking appropriate action on the death of Walter A. In Memoriam.

Whereas the angel of death has invaded this community the luminous sky of the city has been overcast, a star has fallen, the sun is extinguished, tears and sadness dim our hearts, and a summons has called Mr. Walter A. Parker (No. 5561), a member of the firm of Parker Bros. & Hyatt, to his final home; and

Whereas Mr. Parker, only yesterday full of life, hope, energy, activity, and usefulness, is no more, and ere the sun of manhood had passed the meridian line of midday he was called upon to wing his soul to celestial realms above; and

Whereas we, his fellow-lumbermen and business associates, in a common cause of universal love, desire to give expression of our deep-felt sorrow, emphasizing at the same time our profound admiration and affection and the esteem in which our lamented friend and associate was held by us and by the business men of this city and State; and

Whereas, while deeply lamenting the untimely departure from his sphere of activity, we are reminded that a man's life is not to be measured by days, but by deeds; not gauged by age, but by action; and, viewed in this light, our departed friend's book of life contains but few blank pages. Therefore be it

Resolved, That in the untimely death of Walter A. Parker we, his fellow-lumbermen and business associates, in common with a host of others, have lost a true friend, the commercial branches of this city, an able and valuable business man, and the State of Washington an honest and upright citizen; and be it further

Resolved, That his memory will ever occupy a most prominent niche in our affections; and be it further

Resolved, That these sentiments, properly engrossed, be presented to the bereaved and broken-hearted brother of the deceased as a mark of affection and esteem to the memory of our never-to-be-forgotten friend and associate, and a copy of the same be sent to the press of this city for publication.

F. Monk (No. 1062).

Brother Fred. Monk (No. 1062) died at his home, in Toledo, O., on December 16, 1900, after a painful illness of three months. Brother Monk was born in Europe on March 3, 1857, and became a Hoo-Hoo at Columbus, O., on January 22, 1894. It will thus be seen that he was one of the old guard in Hoo-Hoo. Brother Monk came to America in 1865, and went at once to Toledo and engaged in the lumber business. At the time of his initiation and for a long time thereafter he was with the firm of Clark & Terhune.

W. H. Cady, (No. 7175).

W. H. Cady, Hoo-Hoo No. 7175, died at his home, in Omaha, Neb., on December 18, 1900. Brother Cady was born at Mitchell, Ia., on December 24, 1859, and became a Hoo-Hoo at Omaha, Neb., on February 23, 1900, at which time and up to the time of his death he was connected with the H. F. Cady Lumber Company.

Hymeneal.

DAWNEY-PURYEAR.—Brother Henry Dawney, of Beaumont, Texas, was married at Tusculum, Ala., on November 15 to Miss Addin Puryear, of that place, at the residence of Judge and Mrs. O. B. Abnon, leaving immediately for New Orleans. Rev. Charles W. Hogue, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a limited number of friends. Mrs. J. E. Curry was matron of honor; C. H. Beale, of Montgomery, the groom's best man; and Harris Puryear, of Columbia Tenn., a brother of the bride, gave her away. Prof. Irwin Buell Higley, of Birmingham, rendered the wedding march; Miss Lottie Almon officiated as ring bearer; and little Clopper Almon and Margaret Curry were flower pages. An elaborate luncheon followed the ceremony.

GLASGOW-LANE.—Brother W. R. Glasgow, of West, Texas, was married at that place, on October 17, to Miss Sybil Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Lane, also of West Compelled to Resign.

Mr. George V. Denny, the newly-appointed Vicegerent of North Carolina, is compelled to resign his position on account of a business change that will take him from the State. Mr. Denny has arranged to accept the position of manager of the Georgia Supply Company, of Savannah, Ga., and will be hereafter engaged in handling mill supplies. Mr. Denny writes us under date of January 23 that he regrets very much to give up the work in North Carolina just now, when he feels that the prospects are so good for the success of the Order in that State. During the short time that he has held the position Brother Denny has accomplished quite remarkable results in awakening a widespread interest in Hoo-Hoo. It is with much reluctance that Snark Stillwell has accepted his resignation; but, of course, his removal from the State renders it imperative. Mr. Denny has thousands of friends in Hoo-Hoo and out of it who will wish him in his new field the utmost of success.

Business Opportunities.

The Scrivener can give information of value to any man wanting to employ a lumber salesman for either pine or hardwood in the territory of the Central West. He has an application from one of the best-known salesmen on the road who desires to ally himself after February 15 with a good wholesale or manufacturing concern. He is not particular as to the territory he travels in, but is best acquainted in Western New York, Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana.

Some Significant Facts.

Brother E. F. Porter (No. 397), of Pittsburgh, Kan., has been honored by a discerning constituency with election to the State Senate of Kansas. He writes us the significant and very pleasing fact that his election was through the Ninth Central District of Kansas; that in the selection of seats he drew seat No. 9; that he was authorized to introduce bill No. 9, and he adds that this bill was the first one to be returned recommended for passage by the committee and was the first bill of the session to be passed. He promises to advise us if any more significant facts touching the mystic number occur.
