THE BULLETIN

VOL. XVI. NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER, 1910. No. 1179

AND I, too, sing the song of
 All creation,—
 A brave sky & a glad wind blowing by,
 A clear trail & an hour for meditation,
 A long day and the joy to make it fly,
 A hard task & the muscle to achieve it,
 A fierce noon, & a well-contented gloam,
 A good strife and no great regret to leave it,
 A still night and the far red lights of home.

A MONTHLY JOURNAL DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF HOO-HOO

This issue of The Bulletin will reach its readers while the Annual Meeting is holding its sessions in San Francisco. The report of the proceedings of the Annual will appear as usual in the October Bulletin. At this writing it is too early to speak definitely of any steps that will be taken at the Annual for the good of Hoo-Hoo or any legislation that will be enacted there, but it is safe to say that this second Pacific coast Annual will be equal in importance and interest to the first—the memorable Portland meeting of five years ago. The most notable act of the Order during the year just past is the establishment of a "death emergency fund," and it is hoped that this will prove to be the greatest work done by Hoo-Hoo during its whole existence. The plan was fully explained in the August Bulletin, and in addition to this, each member was sent full details by mail. There is no excuse, therefore, for any one to misapprehend the aim and methods of this death emergency fund. A great many people have, however, unconsciously formed a careless habit of reading—"skimming the headlines" in the daily papers leads to a rambling trend of thought and finally to insanity, if we are to believe the latest dictum of science! The Bulletin should not be read that way, especially that part of it which relates to the actual workings of the Order. On the face of it, the death emergency fund seems destined to prove a great blessing in many ways. It adds to Hoo-Hoo something that is really worth while and which the organization has needed for a long time. The establishment of the fund is the natural and logical extension of what the Order has been doing for years through its Distress Fund. Some such undertaking has been discussed from time to time for several years, and now that the project has taken definite shape the membership will no doubt heartily cooperate in pushing the plan to success. Already the responses have been numerous and cordial. Let it not be forgotten, however, that procrastination is the thief of time—and hell is paved with good intentions. How much of wisdom lies in homely proverbs! Slang, too, conveys much meaning. Get busy. Do it now!

The following communications represent the "first fruits" of the call for contributions to the Death Emergency Fund. It will be seen that many of the letters bear the same date, or about the same date—evidently they were all written almost immediately after receipt of the "call."

Additional letters are coming in daily, but these will suffice to show the trend of sentiment among the members. At this writing (August 20) contributions received amount to over $2,000. On account of the preparations which the Scrivenoter's office has to make in connection with the Annual Meeting and the long trip across the continent, the matter for this issue of The Bulletin is necessarily prepared a bit ahead of time. By the time the paper is printed and mailed out to the members, the fund, no doubt, will be swelling well along toward the $6,000 necessary to swing the proposition.

Elkins, W. Va., August 6, 1910.—The plan as outlined appeals to me as being entirely practical, and I think will result in much good. Enclosed please find check for $2 and card filled up as specified. Yours very truly,
M. NEY WILSON.

Long Beach, Miss., August 6, 1910.—I am sending you $2 for the Death Emergency Fund. I am glad the movement has been launched. I feel sure it will help not only many of the individual members, but the order as a whole. Yours truly,
T. N. JORDAN.

Bland, Mo., August 6, 1910.—Enclosed find draft for $2.60 covering annual dues of the Hoo-Hoo Death Emergency Fund. This appears to me as being one of the best moves that the Hoo-Hoo has ever made, and I cannot for a moment hesitate to think that a single member would not take advantage of this. I am also enclosing the card. Trusting that this fund will remain permanent, I remain
Fraternally yours,
C. F. AUF DER HEIDE.

Chillicothe, Mo., August 6, 1910.—Your notice of the Death Emergency Fund, just at hand, and I hasten to reply to the same, and congratulate you on this movement. While the amount is small, it will be quite a boon to those that may receive the same at such a time, and coming from the source it does, shows a friendly spirit. While I have never said anything to you in this relation, it has always been in my mind, and I have often thought what a nice thing it would be for Hoo-Hoo to have something of this sort. I am enclosing my check for $2 and hope it may be an uplift to Hoo-Hoo, and have no doubt but it will. Very truly yours,
JOHN ATWELL (No. 1145).

Omaha, Neb., August 8, 1910.—Your valued favor just at hand, and surely I want to be counted as one of the subscribers to this death fund. It is good work. You will find my check for the $2. Yours very truly,
CHAS. W. YOUNG.

Binghamton, N. Y., August 6, 1910.—Dear Brother Baird: I have your invitation to contribute to the Death Emergency Fund, and I wish to say that I heartily endorse the movement and enclose my check my return mail. Gladstone was told by an admirer that "His life spoke so loud that people could not hear what he said." Last year when the Supreme Nine passed the resolution to adopt the prohibitory plank at all concatenations and "sessions-on-the-roof" it was a step in the right direction and placed "Hoo-Hoo" on a higher plane in the opinion of its admirers and loyal supporters than it had ever been. The fund that has been held in reserve for the immediate relief of the needy ones of our order and was exemplified at the time our worthy Scrivenoter wired $1,500 to the relief of our suffering brothers at the time of the earthquake and fire in San Francisco is another step taken that is much to our credit, but the crowning glory of all the practically good things that Hoo-Hoo has ever done is this "Death Emergency Fund." If we keep on doing practical things, and I have no doubt we will, those who know the inner workings of our Order will be compelled to say of Hoo-Hoo what was said of Gladstone and its membership can ask no higher compliment than that. Wishing the new "fund" success, as well as its originators, I am as ever
Loyally yours,
J. D. ROUNDS (No. 12173).

Wilburton, Okla., August 5, 1910.—My check for $2 is herewith to cover my payment in the Death Emergency Fund. This movement has my hearty support. I shall watch The Bulletin with much interest for the returns of this call. Fraternaly,
C. O. MOORE.

Bedford, Ind., August 6, 1910.—Enclosed find card filled out, also check for $2 as per your Death Emergency Fund call. I fully endorse the plan and shall at all times be ready to respond to any call you may see proper to make to keep up this fund. A. B. TRESSLAR (No. 8384).

Milwaukee, Wis., August 6, 1910.—I am very glad to have an opportunity of sending my check and subscribing to the Hoo-Hoo Death Emergency Fund. I hope you will not be called upon soon to pay this, but if the necessity arises I am sure the money will be very handy. Yours truly,
F. C. BISSELL.

Manton, Mich., August 6, 1910.—Received plan for the establishment of Death Emergency Fund, and I am pleased to respond to the first call by enclosing my check to cover the amount called for, viz., $2. Also include in this check dues for September 9, 1910, to September 9, 1911, and the Distress Fund, $1.25, making total amount of my check $5. I certainly think this Death Emergency Fund a good thing, and the committee who had charge of working out the details of the plan are entitled to great credit and thanks from all loyal Hoo-Hoo. I am satisfied that a far greater number than 3,000 will respond to the call. Yours fraternally,
LEO. F. HALE.

Prendergast, Tenn., August 5, 1910.—Today received the circular concerning the establishment of the Death Emergency Fund, also card to fill out. Am hastening to reply to this by return mail, together with remittance of $2 for the Death Emergency Fund, also $1.65 for next year's dues. Please find endorsed check for $3.65. This step meets with my hearty approval, and think all good Hoo-Hoo will take to this move. Very fraternally,
F. J. M'BRIDE.

Des Moines, Iowa, August 4, 1910.—Herewith check for $2 on account of the Death Emergency Fund. It is a good scheme and should be a great success. I fear my dues are not paid in advance, so I add $3.20 to be sure to make good. Yours,
B. S. WALKER.

Detroit, Mich., August 6, 1910.—Have just received the plan of the Death Emergency Fund. I notice the envelope has in large type—Important; Read. Well, I read part of the plan when I noticed that Brothers Bronson, Hadley, Johnson, Barns, Baird, etc., had become subscribers, so I reckoned that if the plan was good enough for them it should be all right for the rest of the bunch, and please find enclosed postoffice order for $3.65. This will include my 1911 dues. Trusting that you are in the best of health and that the plan will meet with much success, I am
Yours very truly,
P. B. BLAIN.

Toledo, Ohio, August 6, 1910.—I am enclosing card and must say among our boys this is certainly a step in the right direction. We give only a little, deny ourselves nothing, and while the beneficiary is only small, will possibly at the time do so much good. In my mind it is an excellent direction, and should go through with a rush. In the same check I am sending my annual dues—1911. Kindly acknowledge—card $2, dues $1.65 ($3.65). Yours in Hoo-Hoo,
SAM D. DARE.

Tyler, Fla., August 3, 1910.—I heartily endorse the movement for the Death Emergency Fund. There is something really tangible in this, the first evidence of such that has been brought to my notice since I became a member. Every member of the Order should subscribe promptly. I include dues for 1911 in the check. Yours truly,
W. R. CHEVES.

August 6, 1910.—I herewith enclose you $2 for the Death Emergency Fund. Think that it is a good plan and trust that it will succeed. Yours truly,
C. A. THOMPSON.

St. Louis, Mo., August 6, 1910.—I herewith hand you my check for $3.65. Two dollars for Hoo-Hoo Death Emergency Fund and $1.65 for dues for 1911. My dues being paid for year 1910. If this Emergency Death Fund was not all O. K., such men as you and Charles Bourke would have nothing to do with it. Yours very truly,
R. W. BARRICK.

Monroe, La., August 6, 1910.—I am in receipt this morning of the first call on "Plan for Establishment of Death Emergency Fund." This is a move in the right direction and meets my unreserved approval. I enclose herewith my check for $3.65, $2 of which is to be credited to the "Death Emergency Fund," and $1.65 in payment of annual dues. I have an abiding faith that this call will be responded to by a very great number of Hoo-Hoo, for "the whole plan is founded on faith, but on faith in Hoo-Hoo," an expression used in the closing paragraph of the first call, most unique and fitting. It carries to my heart especial delight and pleasure to subscribe myself. Fraternaly yours,
E. W. ANDERSON.

Kansas City, August 8, 1910.—Enclosed find my check for $2, my contribution to the Death Emergency Fund. This I believe is a good idea and I trust will meet with the approval of all members. Two dollars will not be missed by any of us, and that $250 will certainly come in mighty handy to the family of any good Hoo-Hoo after he has passed to the other side, and I believe the proper thing to do is to wake them up. If this first notice does not appeal to them, send out another more pointed. They will all come through if they can be induced to spare a few minutes' time to write the check. So again I say, if the results are not quite satisfactory at the end of the first sixty days, extend the time sixty days more and try again. Yours with best wishes,
R. J. HOGAN (No. 6734).

St. Louis, Mo., August 9, 1910.—My Dear Brother Baird: I have just received circulars regarding plan for establishment of Death Emergency Fund, and am in hearty accord with the idea. I think the plan a most excellent one. I enclose herewith my check for $2 to meet the first call. I also enclose herewith, properly filled out, the card which you sent to me. Fraternaly,
G. WARNER (No. 13264).

Inverness, Ga., August 4, 1910.—Dear Brother Baird: Your plan for establishing a Death Emergency Fund I think is just the thing we have been needing for quite awhile. It will advertise our Order. It will give us something to answer when the question is asked, that is often asked, What is Hoo-Hoo for? What benefit is there in joining such an Order? The remark is frequently made that they never hear of any good we do; only hear of us having a big meeting in some big town and raising h—ll. But this will put a body to it; something solid and substantial to think about and talk about. And as you say, when the time comes for our stepping down and out, that $250 will come in mighty handy to nine-tenths of the widows, no matter whether they are rich or poor. You will find enclosed my $2, and I expect to keep it up whenever you call on me. Very truly,
I. R. VINTON (No. 6986).

Mobile, Ala., August 9, 1910.—Dear Brother Baird: Enclosed you will find my check for $2 for the Emergency Fund. I think the scheme a grand one and sincerely hope the boys will all come forward at once with their contributions, so that the desired amount will be subscribed quickly to the everlasting credit of our Order.

As the figure 9 plays the important part in the Order of Hoo-Hoo, I trust that the coincidence of this date, the number of this check and my Hoo-Hoo number are good omens of the success of the plan. Yours sincerely and fraternaly,
W. G. OUTERBRIDGE (No. 18150).

Okmulgee, Okla., August 5, 1910.—Enclosed please find check for $3.65 in payment of dues for 1911, $1.65, and $2 for the Death Emergency Fund.

As I am one of those who will probably be classed among the old boys, it may be in order to allay the fears of those who figure my class would endanger the enterprise by deliberately giving up the ghost as soon as their funeral expenses are secured. To assure them that it is my honest intention to stay in the ring—so long as I can hear the gong, and will answer the call, be it made every twelve, eight or six months, with the expectation of doing so for many twelve months to come.

To my mind the plan appears to reach the object sought, life's uncertainties leave but few immune from the possibility of being caught short, and those who need it not can well afford to contribute the trifling sum asked for the relief of their fellow Hoo-Hoo.

C. GEO. KIRSCHBAUM.

Denver, Colo., August 11, 1910.—I think this is a splendid move, and one that all should heartily support. I am particularly glad to see the spirit that is shown in such matters as not requiring a doctor's certificate, etc.

When the fund that you are raising at this time is used up, come again. No matter if it is several times a year, we know that we are helping someone.

Yours fraternally,

JNO. M. LEAGUE (No. 6768).

Lincoln, Neb., August 12, 1910.—The only thing I can see wrong with the arrangement is that it should have been $5 per call in place of $2, and the amount should have been then $500 in case of death. Am ready for call No. 2 any old time.

Yours,

T. F. SHIRLEY.

Stirling City, Cal., August 8, 1910.—I have studied your plan carefully and am very much pleased with it and trust it will obtain. I think it is so clean cut and to the point as to attract the attention of all thinking members.

Hoping to meet you in San Francisco next month, I am

Yours fraternally,

C. A. TRIPP (No. 19935).

Spokane, Wash., August 9, 1910.—I have been connected with the Order nearly sixteen years and have for a long time felt that some feature should be devised that should render connection better worth while, and shall be disappointed if something of the kind to that proposed falls of adoption.

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL S. MERRILL (No. 2221).

Seattle, Wash., August 9, 1910.—The idea is unique and well worth while. I take pleasure in enclosing 200 cents to help start the ball rolling.

Fraternally yours,

W. J. EWART (No. 137).

New York, August 6, 1910.—Nothing affords me greater pleasure than to enclose a small contribution in the shape of my personal check for $2 to the Death Emergency Fund. My only regret is that I could not have been the first contributor. I think the idea a most estimable one, and if all the rest of the members of Hoo-Hoo feel as I do, you will have four or five times $6,000.

Yours fraternally,

GEO. H. WINSOR (No. 10416).

Mobile, Ala., August 8, 1910.—I feel sure that this departure will not require much talking up, and you will easily get the 3,000 members. I will do all I can to get the members here interested.

Fraternally yours,

ED GAINES (No. 10064).

Guthrie, Okla., August 8, 1910.—Here's hoping I will be able to answer forty or more assessments. I am for the Hoo-Hoo Death Emergency Fund stronger than fresh horse-radish. May it ever prosper.

Fraternally,

C. B. BEE (No. 24612).

Chicago, Ill.—Great scheme; has my hearty support.

J. D. BOLTON.

Cincinnati, Ohio, August 5, 1910.—This is the best thing the association ever thought out.

C. G. SCHRADER (No. 4186).

Norfolk, Va., August 10, 1910.—I received the plan for the establishment of the "Death Emergency Fund," and of course read both pieces of literature over carefully. It strikes me as being one of the most practical propositions that I have ever come across. It is stripped of all red tape and strings of all kinds; in other words, a plain open and shut deal; more than that, anything planned by Brother Bronson and endorsed by such men as Messrs. Moore, Ketrledge, Oxenford, Fuller and Hotchkiss, and endorsed by the Supreme Nine and House of Ancients, I do not know why a man should lose any time investigating further.

I therefore take pleasure in enclosing herewith card sent me for proper filing of my name and New York exchange No. 14180 on City National Bank for $2. Of course you know my business address in the event any other communications bearing upon this matter are passed to me.

Yours very truly,

R. H. MORRIS (No. 21809).

Tulsa, Okla., August 5, 1910.—I enclose herewith check in the sum of $2 as my contribution to the Hoo-Hoo Death Emergency Fund. I am for anything that is for the good of the Order, and it strikes me that this is.

Yours truly,

J. T. GIBSON (No. 9905).

Milwaukee, Wis., August 5, 1910.—It gives me great pleasure to have this opportunity to contribute to you my mite to the Death Emergency Fund, and I enclose herewith my personal check, No. 1514, dated August 5, for $2 payable to your order for this fund. When you are ready for more, sound the call and you will always find me ready in cases of this kind to contribute.

Yours very truly,

C. A. BROWN (No. 3307).

Spokane, Wash., August 8, 1910.—We are in receipt of your circular regarding plan for establishing a Death Emergency Fund with a maximum payment of $250. We are heartily in favor of the plan you have outlined and believe that it will not only be a mighty good thing for the Order as a whole, but no doubt the $250 cash at the time of death would be very much appreciated by a very large number of the families of members of the Order.

Enclosed find our check No. 924 to your order for $2, also card which we have filled out as requested.

Yours very truly,

A. L. PORTER.

Mexico, D. F., August 8, 1910.—I have read with much interest the plan for Hoo-Hoo Death Emergency. I think it is an excellent thing and should prevail. The Order in general will be the better for it.

I enclose herewith draft for $2 as requested, No. 3563, of the Mercantile Banking Company here on the Mechanics and Metals National, of New York. (More when you want it.)

Sincerely and fraternally yours,

C. H. M. y AGRAMONTE (No. 15411).

Portage, Pa., August 15, 1910.—Your yellow journal to hand. I am heartily in favor of anything to protect the widow and the orphan, and enclose herewith check, as requested. The old saying, "That a wife sometimes objects to life insurance, but a widow never does," strikes me ought to be remembered by every Hoo-Hoo.

Trusting the new venture will prove a success, and with kindest regards, I remain

Yours fraternally,

HORACE A. TOMPKINS (No. 18134).

Chicago, Ill., August 4, 1910.—I hasten to send you this immediately on receipt of the first call, as this is undoubtedly one of the best moves that has ever been made by Hoo-Hoo.

I have advocated a move of this kind among my Hoo-Hoo acquaintance for a number of years, and am glad I have had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Bronson present his ideas at your meeting in Chicago last November.

If it were possible for all Hoo-Hoo to be assembled at one time and extend to Mr. Bronson a rising vote of thanks, the demonstration would be one of magnificence, and, I feel, given with hearty accord by every Hoo-Hoo, and yet not be a full expression of the feelings of those assembled, as his suggestion has put the Order on a plane of broad brotherly love and charity that will add to it the dignity which I feel has not existed in the past. With kind personal regards I am

Fraternally yours,

CHAS. B. FLOYD.

Lyons, Iowa, August 4, 1910.—Enclosed find my check for $2 toward the Death Emergency Fund. I suppose you can use a personal check for this the same as for dues, "any old thing." But this fund is a great thing, and I am only too glad to contribute.

Yours very truly,

A. O. COLE (No. 1932).

Owensboro, Ky., August 3, 1910.—I believe this is a step in the right direction and one of the grandest things Hoo-Hoo could do from a fraternal standpoint. "Fraternity is the only thing that makes the crust of poverty sweet and lightens the road that gets so dark at times to all of us." I am heartily in favor of this fund and trust that it will be permanent.

Yours fraternally,

I. C. HULL (No. 15707).

Evanston, Ill., August 3, 1910.—I believe this movement will be another of the ties which cement us together. It will, moreover, give every contributor a personal and therefore a stronger interest in the growth and welfare of the Order of Hoo-Hoo and place it on a higher level than that of a mere playground for lumbermen.

Fraternally yours,

C. H. KETRIDGE.

Milwaukee, Wis., August 17, 1910.—My Dear Bro. Baird: Notice of Death Emergency Fund plan just here and I hasten to enclose my check for $2. The Order has never done anything equal to this, and I hope there will be 20,000 instead of 3,000 come in on the first call.

W. R. ANDERSON.

So many things nowadays are bad for body and soul. Many a man has struggled hard to send his sons to college and now colleges are not only accused of "killing literary gifts," but also it is said that they destroy the memory. Infatuated with giving lectures and making students take notes of what they might more easily and lucidly read in books, the colleges concentrate attention upon the mechanics of speedy writing and distract attention from what the teacher says. The loss is sometimes not very great! But, says a Western writer with a somewhat bitter wit, occasionally there is a college lecturer who is almost as good as a text-book and then "the student misses a good deal by being compelled to scribble hieroglyphics when he ought to be attending, which is a very different thing from mere listening." This is a good point—listening is a different thing from "attending." To listen means to let the sounds go into the ear—and sometimes they go right out at the other. But "attention" means a "stretching of the mind out toward" the thing you are trying to get into your head. Stretching is good exercise for the mind—it limbers it up and keeps it from getting flabby, just as stretching the legs and arms benefits the muscles. Children's minds do not get much stretching at school nowadays. Everything is handed to them, usually in such shape that they do not always know just what it is. Books written for children are so namby-pamby that no child wants to read them, and so the parents read aloud. Lately it has dawned on me that nobody has so real an enjoyment of reading as one who in childhood read forbidden books. To do something that you very much want to do, and which is difficult, requires a considerable stretching of the mind. Not long ago a man, reading the Saturday Evening Post, remarked, "This is a good story but I can't get along with it because there are so many French words and phrases." I inquired, "What difference does that make?" He said, "I do not understand French." I came near asking again, "What difference does that make?" But I feared it might seem to him a foolish question. He would have understood it, though, if as a child he had been in the habit of hiding under the bed in the spare room and reading a book, half the "hard words" in which he had to puzzle out painfully, or else guess and go on! Such practice comes in handy in later life. One learns to enjoy "plowing" through a "dry" book if there is enough real merit in it to make up for the author's obscure style. Then, too, the very act of stretching the mind comes, in time, to be in itself a source of pleasure, regardless of what it is stretched out toward. Easy reading is like predigested food which leads to dyspepsia and a distaste for solid "grub." New and strange words do not intimidate one who learned to read by lying on the stomach, propped up on elbows, the book on the floor and just a crack open in the blinds for fear of detection. Under such educative influences this lesson is soon learned: If you do not know a word the first time you see it, you probably will next time, provided, of course, you keep on reading. The second time you see that word, something in the sentence will shed a light on it. And each new word helps to acquaint you with another—each brings a friend and introduces him, so to speak. And the pleasure of meeting strangers grows on you. Some people do not like "dialect" and will pass up the most absorbing story rather than stretch the mind out toward the "hard reading." Dialect is ple to one who has worn corns on the elbows in the spare room. What if it isn't easy just at first—it will be easy soon! In the meantime, it brings back old times, for it is very like the process of picking out the meaning of the long words in the books one used to read whether or no—and risked a whipping. Under those circumstances education was a whirling adventure. Tales of pirates, bandits, Indians, medical books with hideous pictures of skeletons and lungs and livers; skeptical books, written by wicked folks who did not believe in Jonah and the whale; love-stories, supposed to be mighty bad reading for the young because of the tendency to "distract the mind" from arithmetic and the spelling book—all these contributed to the formation of the stretching habit and to a zest in life which in later years is looked back to with a melancholy sort of envy.

Ballade of the Brave.

Prate not to me of weaklings, who
Lament this life and naught achieve.
I hymn the vast and vallant crew
Of those who have scant time to grieve;
Firm-set their fortune to retrieve,
They sing for luck a lusty stove,
The world's staunch workers, by your leave—
This is the ballade of the brave.

Those who with stingsless laugh and jest
Sweeten the labor; those who stake
Their all on some sky-reaching quest,
Unconquerable for conscience' sake,
The warriors who a last stand make,
Though loss o'erwhelm them, wave on wave;
Smiling, the while their hearts do break—
This is the ballade of the brave!

Brothers, it is a heavenly stake
Ye play for, goodlier than the grave.
Then play, it well, for God's sweet sake—
This is the ballade of the brave!

Ashdown, Ark.—Dear Brother Baird: I noticed in June Bulletin a letter from Brother A. B. Cushing, No. 23144, in regard to the jokes published in The Bulletin, and, like him, will say that I think that all this tempest in a teapot is much ado about nothing, for what would make one have a hearty laugh would not make another smile, as all do not see the point alike in anything. Therefore I think that you are the editor of The Bulletin and you should be the judge as to what kind of joke is printed in it, and I am also certain that in case it is left to you nothing will ever appear in its columns that will not be of the highest moral standard, so go ahead and print just as many good jokes as suits you and I will read them and (if I see the point) have a hearty laugh.

With best wishes for the success of yourself, The Bulletin and Hoo-Hoo, I am
Fraternally yours,
(No. 23257.)

These kind words are appreciated. The "Joke Page" had to be omitted from this issue, however, as in the rush of preparing for the Annual there was not time to dig up new jokes.

It is a special privilege, says a writer in the New York Mail, to do what you like on a vacation, and not try to have it "benefit" you. He might have gone farther and said more—it is a special privilege to read what you like and not try to have it "improve your mind." It is a special privilege to lie in bed once in a while just for pure laziness. A certain English essayist says, however, that this must be done just in the right way. He cautions: "If you do lie in bed, be sure you do it without any reason or justification at all. I do not speak, of course, of the seriously sick. But if a healthy man lies in bed, let him do it without a rag of excuse; then he will get up a healthy man. If he does it for some secondary hygienic reason, if he has some scientific explanation, he may get up a hypochondriac."

Writing Too Much.

If Mr. Roosevelt continues to write he will find himself in the position of an ordinary mortal before very long. He does not express himself any better than scores of other writers, if as well, and his original thoughts were known to philosophers and others many centuries ago. His facile pen opens no unexplored countries nor does it illuminate the dark caverns. His work unsigned would not be quoted in a single metropolitan paper, and probably by but few country weeklies. He must be a greater politician than he is an editor. Otherwise, he will soon rest in the political graveyard with other paragons who have gone before.—Charleston News and Courier.

Too Much Prosperity.

"The increase in the cost of living in the United States," says Mr. Thomas Fortune Ryan, "is largely due to the extravagance of the people, induced by prosperity."

That's exactly it. In order to get prosperity it was necessary to make people pay more for what they needed, and now it is necessary to call them extravagant for paying it.

An Auburn, Cal., dispatch announces the finding in a cave of the bones of two prehistoric humans "with low brows and heavy jaws." The cave has not yet been thoroughly explored, but later investigation may bring forth relics of the bottleholder, the timekeeper and the man who bet on J—— because he thought he could "come back."

Hoo-Hoo at the Bench.

Enthusiasm marks the activities of Portland Hoo-Hoo in their preparation for their excursion to Seaside, Saturday, August 13, when the summer concatenation will be held. Members of the order from all parts of Northwestern Oregon will join in the party. These will be joined at Seaside by scores of lumbermen who are spending their vacations at the seashore.

A feature that is serving as an inspiration for so many who want to attend the function is the promised induction into the Order of a number of kittens who have mustered the courage to have their eyes opened on this occasion. The excursion will be in charge of G. A. Griswold, Vicegerent Snark of the local district. Final details of the trip will be announced at a banquet to be held in the Commercial Club this evening.

The Hoo-Hoo are also planning to conduct an excursion of their members to San Francisco next month.—Portland Oregonian (August 4).

Just Like the Old Farm-house.

Senator Aldrich is to erect a $300,000 house, three stories high and 300 feet long, and "it will be of the old-fashioned country-home type." Doesn't that make you think of the simple life and the good old days back on the farm?—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A communication received from Indianapolis, dated August 16, advises that the local lumbermen are in fine fettle over the proposed picnic, baseball game and Hoo-Hoo concatenation that are being arranged for Saturday, August 27. The game will be with Memphis at Atkins Park, while the picnic, concatenation and athletic events will be held in Germania Park.

The lumbermen are practicing a number of yells every day. Among these are the following:

"Isky wow wow; Osky wow wow; wow Wow; W-O-W, Indianapolis."

"Rieky ax, coax, coax;
Rieky ax, coax, coax
How do you do? Bully for you.
Indianapolis—Hoo-Hoo."

Among the visitors expected are Huy Pierson, president of the Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, and H. C. Seearce, of Mooresville, secretary of the association. It is said M. S. Huey will meet Jim Lang in a chicken race for the championship—any championship. A long list of rosters have been employed at the price of an extra helping of chicken to aid Indianapolis in winning the game.

Large delegations are expected from Cincinnati, Dayton, Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis and from all parts of Indiana. Germania Park is reached by taking the Shelby street car.

Before The Bulletin is printed the big doings outlined in the foregoing doubtless will have been pulled off in great style, but it will then be too late to get the report in this issue.

A citizen of Graz, a town in Austria, keeps a nightingale in a cage, and on fine nights hangs it outside the window. A neighbor complained to the police authorities that the bird's song disturbed his slumbers, and the municipality ordered the owner of the nightingale to keep it inside the house at night. Herr Heinzel appealed against this order to the government of Styria and then to the ministry of the interior, but both these administrative authorities refused to interfere with the decision of the municipality. He did not rest, however, and now the highest court of appeal in the Austrian empire has decided that the song of a nightingale is not a nuisance. Five judges joined in the learned opinion that the song of a native bird like a nightingale was a natural sound which nobody had a right to object to, whether he liked it or not.

Battle With the Elements at Battles.

Vicegerent Paul B. Ray gave a splendid Concatenation at Battles, Ala., on the evening of August 6. The number of kittens was the good old Hoo-Hoo number of nine, and all of them good, strong men for the Order. The night was an oppressive one for any physical exertion inside of a closed room, for the thermometer had been busy climbing all that day. Equal to the occasion, Brother Ray made as brief as possible the ceremonies of the Concatenation, making the feature of the evening, aside from the inoculation of wisdom into the system of the kittens, the Session-on-the-Roof. In connection with the Session-on-the-Roof there was a dance, and all went merrily until a late hour.

So enjoyable was the affair that they are scheduling another Concatenation for that vicinity and have ten more kittens scheduled for the next event.

Another Settlement at Jamestown.

Vicegerent J. M. Briggs, on the evening of August 6, held a most enjoyable Concatenation at Jamestown, N. Y. Buffalo was much in evidence in the good work done. Several of Hoo-Hoo's staunchest supporters in the East went down from Buffalo to make this frolic a success, and Mr. O. E. Yeager acted as Junior. Several of the names of the Buffalo lumbermen will be found in the initiating team. Seventeen were put over the fence, and Vicegerent Briggs is to be most heartily congratulated on the successful outcome of all of it. Much of the credit is due Brothers H. A. Stuart, of Buffalo, and J. P. Davis, of Jamestown, for their assistance in getting up the class.

Brother Kreinheder acted as toastmaster at the Session-on-the-Roof. Responses were made by Brothers Applebee, Stuart and Yeager. Among the kittens who responded to the calls at the banquet board were H. W. Ailing, Henry Kreiger, of Jamestown, and J. A. Murphy, of Buffalo.

Stirring Things Up for the Annual.

On August 13, at Seaside, Ore., Vicegerent G. A. Griswold, of Portland, Ore., held an enthusiastic Concatenation. Twenty-three were initiated. During the session there was much discussion of Hoo-Hoo and the coming Annual. Brother George Cornwall brought up the new feature of the Order—the Death Emergency Fund. He spoke feelingly on the benefits that will come from this policy of the Order and the result seems certain that, after listening to Brother Cornwall's talk, many will be contributors.

The Hoo-Hoo of Oregon will send a baseball team to San Francisco. Brother Lloyd Wentworth was elected captain, and Vicegerent Griswold was made manager. The team, together with many of the Oregon Hoo-Hoo, will go to San Francisco by boat. It was arranged during the Session-on-the-Roof to have a big Hoo-Hoo dinner on the evening of August 26 so as to keep up the interest and enthusiasm in the coming Annual Meeting.

Just before the Annual the following sprightly account of the "warm-up" concatenation held at San Francisco, August 20 is from the pen of Brother F. E. Slutman, and reaches us just in time to appear in this issue of The Bulletin:

Hello, Bulletin! Did we have a concatenation in San Francisco last Saturday night? A hot time? Well, the kittens all say it was not under foot and in the dry kiln. Twenty kittens presented themselves at the roof session with clean faces and sleek coats, seeking the light of Hoo-Hoo land. After having the mysteries imparted to them, they then took their long, last look at the sacred cat, and were able to smile. About eighty old cats were present, but aside from a few visitors all were local members.

This concatenation was a preliminary warm-up for the Annual which convenes here, September 8 to 12, and, judging from the innovations that our genial members have in reserve up their sleeves and the efforts that our Entertainment Committees are making, all visiting cats will be accorded a welcome which will be long remembered in the annals of Hoo-Hoo.

To call the concatenation a success would be putting it mildly, and we all appreciate the splendid efforts of our officers, especially Acting Snark, J. H. Prideaux, Junior Hoo-Hoo McGillan and Jabberwock L. D. McDonald for their untiring efforts in carrying out a splendid program. The ceremonies were concluded with a vaudeville performance and refreshments, liquor eliminated.

Lively Doings at Indianapolis.

By the time this Bulletin reaches its readers most of them in nearby states will have been fully apprised by the lumber newspapers of the Hoo-Hoo and lumber doings at Indianapolis on Saturday, August 27, when the famous lumbermen's ball team of that city met in combat the equally famous lumbermen's team from Memphis.

Vicegerent L. G. Buddenbaum, with characteristic alertness as to the Order's interest, determined to make the occasion one for a concatenation. As are all the undertakings of Vicegerent Buddenbaum, the concatenation was a pronounced success. It was held out in the open air, and is probably unique in that the full report and full financial settlement was mailed to the Scrivenoter's office before the ceremonies of initiation had finally concluded.

It is with regret that The Bulletin has not space in this issue for a more extended account of this meeting.

A New Field Opened Up.

Report of Vicegerent G. A. Griswold's concatenation at Bandon, Ore., on August 20, reaches us just as The Bulletin is going to press, and can secure no such notice as it deserves.

Vicegerent Griswold and those loyal brothers who assisted him to hold this meeting had to travel several hundred miles to reach the appointed place at the appointed time, and had to travel by the most round-about road. They were a little disappointed in the number of initiates, owing to the fact that no good opportunity had existed for preliminary work. As a starter of things, however, and as an opening of a new and fruitful territory, the concatenation is notable.

At and around Bandon are some of the biggest lumber operations on the Pacific coast, and this first concatenation to be held there will be followed by numerous others. It is likely that next year's Vicegerent for Southern Oregon will be located down in that neighborhood. Vicegerent Griswold deserves much credit for undertaking this meeting and pushing it through to success under very unusual difficulties, and at much expenditure of his own time and money.

regular pets. Whenever the parrots desert the forest and alight on the ground in the open spaces of the jungle the natives recognize their actions as sure warning of an impending earthquake. American engineers indorse this belief, and assert that serious accidents which might have been averted have resulted when the warning of the birds was noted but unheeded.

OBITUARY.

Fay Murta Bostick (No. 23419).

His many friends will be pained to learn of the tragic death at his home near Hot Springs, Ark., of Brother F. M. Bostick. Brother Bostick was quite extensively engaged in the poultry business, though still retaining his connection with the Missouri Lumber Co. at Hot Springs. He had gone out into the yard at night with a gun to shoot a cat which was disturbing his young chickens. In some way the gun was accidentally discharged, killing him instantly. His wife became alarmed at his failing to return, and going out into the yard found life extinct. Brother Bostick was 32 years of age. He was born and reared at Alma, Crawford County, Ark., and later removed to Van Buren, Ark., with his parents. His next residence was at Ft. Smith, Ark., where his father still resides and is engaged in the drug business. In his younger days Brother Bostick was connected with one of the local newspapers at Ft. Smith. He had lived at Hot Springs about three years, and since going there, in addition to his lumber business, had become very much interested in the breeding of fine chickens. At the time of his death he was one of the most prominent breeders in the state, having recently been elected a director of the Arkansas Poultry Association.

William Hovey Polleys (No. 23784).

The great forest fires now raging in the Northwest are responsible for the death of one of Hoo-Hoo's young and brilliant members—Brother William Hovey Polleys, of Missoula, Mont. Brother Polleys was a son of E. H. Polleys, president and manager of the Proudft-Polleys Lumber Company.

On August 2 Brother Polleys responded with his crew of forest workmen to a call of the Forest Service for the protection of the timber near Tammany, Mont. He was returning with his men from the fire line in the woods when a giant tree fell. The alarm was given and all of the men made a rush for safety. Brother Polleys was calling for those who were in especial danger and stopped to give the man nearest to him a push to save him, and this act of heroism cost Brother Polleys his life. A large limb of the tree struck him on the back of the head, fracturing his skull.

The injured man was at once placed upon a special train and started for Missoula, Mont. Physicians were in attendance upon him soon after the accident, but he was beyond medical skill, and died before the train reached Missoula, where his father awaited him.

Brother Polleys was a native of Melrose, Wis., having been born in that city in 1882. At the time of his death he was a member of the Polleys Lumber Company, of Missoula, Mont. He was a graduate of the University of Montana, a member of Sigma Chi and of the Masonic fraternity. His career was an unusually brilliant one and his life gave every promise of his becoming one of the West's biggest lumbermen. His remains were interred at his birthplace in Melrose, Wis.

William Harrison Israel (No. 12008).

Brother W. H. Israel, of Lewis, Kan., committed suicide at Hutchinson, Kan., on July 21. Brother Israel had been in ill health for some time, and in his weakened condition is supposed to have brooded over some slight difficulties, which in his mind were pictured as insurmountable obstacles. His family, being apprised of his condition, kept close watch on his movements, but he succeeded in eluding the care of his son, and left his home to go to Hutchinson, supposedly to collect some money for C. S. Baker, of Lewis. On reaching Hutchinson he engaged a room at a boarding-house and a few hours later shot himself. Two local papers, published near his home, give long eulogistic accounts of the man. He was much beloved in the community in which he lived, and was a kindly and courteous man, the soul of honor in all his business dealings, and possessed the confidence and esteem of all his business associates. At the time of his death he was connected with the International Harvester Company and was widely recognized as an expert on crop conditions in Kansas. He is survived by a wife and several children.

Herbert Polk Clopton (23421).

Little Rock, Ark., August 29, 1910.—Brother Herbert P. Clopton, of this city and an initiate at the last Annual concatenation at Hot Springs in September, died here last Friday morning at the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident early Sunday morning preceding. The funeral services were held at the Elks' Hall at 2:00 p. m. Saturday and the remains were taken Saturday night to Milan, Tenn., for interment. Rev. F. E. Maddox, of Texarkana, came up to conduct the funeral services.

Brother Clopton was only thirty-three years old, but had been prominent in business circles here for several years. At the time of his death he held a very responsible position with Crain & Co., in the mill supply business. He had been formerly connected with the Rose City Oil Mills and the Consumers Oil Mills, holding the position of superintendent of the latter company for a number of years. He was a native of Henry County, Tenn., but had been a resident of Little Rock for the past sixteen years. He was the son of James Polk Clopton and Barbara Burrows Clopton, of Henry County, Tenn., and was related to several of the most distinguished families of that state. He is survived by his sister, the wife of Dr. A. J. Vall of this city.

Brother Clopton's injuries were received in an accident resulting from the skidding on a wet street of a big touring car driven by one of his companions. The car finally turned completely over, pinning the body of Brother Clopton beneath and crushing it horribly. None of the other four occupants of the car was seriously hurt. Despite his fearful injuries, Brother Clopton made a brave fight for life, and up to a few hours before his death was thought to have a fair chance for recovery.

Brother Clopton was popular and well regarded here in both business and social circles, and his death is a cruel shock to many friends. Brother Clopton was especially popular among the local members of Hoo-Hoo, though only a member of the Order for about a year. The local membership contributed a handsome floral design and many of the members attended the funeral services in the Elks' club rooms.

The New York Jewish community is now the largest in history or tradition. It represents 10 per cent of the entire Jewish population of the world. It is larger than the aggregate Jewish populations of the Eastern largest centers, Vienna, Budapest, Berlin, Vilna, Amsterdam, Lemberg and London. It is ten times larger than the entire Jewish population of France; it is twenty times larger than the entire Jewish population of Italy; it is twenty times larger than the population of Jerusalem, and fifteen times larger than the entire Jewish population of Syria and Palestine.

One Day Like Another.

The placidity of vacation days is breathed in the following poem, sent in by one of our well-known members, who is rusticated for a few weeks away up in the Quebec woods:

One day like another,
Is that what you say?
Eight hours for sleep,
Eight hours for play,
Eight hours to fortify
The vitals of man,
Or help one another
The best that we can.

Eight hours for slumber,
It matters not where;
Be it bough, bed or mattress,
Or even a chair.
'Tis God's gift to mankind
All waste to repair,
One day like another,
Be it hither or there.

One day like another,
Where sunshine is bright,
Where we're working to play
And hungry trout bite,
All nature seems happy,
Each thought is a song;
'Tis all the same thing
Just all the day long.

Eight hours to strengthen
Our muscles and mind,
Be a jolly good fellow
With all of mankind,
Deeming wisely, but fully
Speaking words of good cheer,
One day like another
Throughout the whole year.

Then let us be patient,
Be it better or worse;
'Mid sunshine and shadow
Each day is a verse,
Eat, drink and be merry,
Be gracious our role,
Making one day like another
An harmonious whole.

Windmills are said to have been introduced into England by the Knights of St. John, who observed them in use among the Saracens in the crusades; but how long they had been in existence before this it is not possible to ascertain. A watermill was built in Bohemia in the year 718, for an old chronicler mentions it, going on to say that "before that time all the mills in Bohemia were windmills set upon the summit of hills." Windmills became so common throughout Europe in the thirteenth century that the Pope compelled them to pay tithes to the church and landed proprietors and the clergy were forever quarrelling as to the ownership of the wind! In Zealand a certain abbot built a mill to grind his corn in spite of the violent opposition of his landlord, who said that he was the owner of the wind on his property and no one else had the right to use it. The Bishop of Utrecht was appointed arbitrator, and he when told of the matter flew into a rage, declaring that what wind there was in his diocese belonged to himself and the church, and he proceeded to prove his contention by at once granting the abbot full power to build a windmill when and where he chose.—Argonaut.

England's Railway Stations.

There is only one station in England which has a statue in its precincts, and that is the father—or mother—of all railway stations, Euston. In the great and really noble hall of entrance, at the foot of the great staircase which leads to the palatial suite of directors' rooms, in which many notable and almost priceless railway relics are stored, sits the inventor of the locomotive engine, George Stephenson. Stephenson built the main line, and the Liverpool & Manchester line, over which the Rocket ran in the famous race, is part of the London & Northwestern system.

Another great metropolitan terminus has a beautiful monument within its bounds—namely, Charing Cross. Thousands of busy Londoners pass it every day without giving it a passing glance, although it always appeals to the country cousin, who wants to know if it is the original Charing Cross of which history speaks as the last resting place of the body of the good Queen Eleanor, consort of Edward I. It is not, but it is a fine replica of it, executed with great care and attention to historic details. It is said that the very name of this famous London site is derived from the ancient monument, Chere Reine Croix—the cross of the dear Queen—and it was a happy thought of the Southeastern directors to erect this cross so near its ancient position.

The only railway station which stands in the grounds of an ancient Norman castle is Conway Station. As the train runs into the station the great stone walls, three feet thick, loom directly above it, the very walls from which the archers of ancient days repelled attack.

Passengers who alight at Ashford Station, in Kent, may see the famous engine Invicta, built as early as 1830 by George Stephenson for the Canterbury & Whitstable Railway, long ago swallowed up by the Southeastern. It is a real object lesson in progress even on the Southeastern to compare the engine which has just brought you to Ashford with this strange assortment of pipes and pistons, ugly, cumbersome wheels and funny topgear. It reminds the grumblers that even the slowest of modern trains are positive flyers compared with the puff-puffs of the '30s of last century.

Travelers who enter Shrewsbury by the Abbey Foregate Station can scarcely fail to observe one of the most remarkable features to be seen at any railway station in the world. This is a pulpit. It stands prominently above the coal wagons and miscellaneous goods trucks of the station yard, an ancient stone structure, to which access is gained by an equally ancient flight of stone steps. This pulpit is the only remaining fragment of the domestic buildings of the once great and powerful Abbey of Shrewsbury. In the olden days it stood in the monks' refectory and was used for preaching from and for reading the lessons while the monks ate their frugal meals.—Tit-Bits.

A man who is younger than his wife cannot help being a little boastful of the fact.—Atchison Globe.

The sea front of Belgium, which extends about forty miles, stretching from Holland to France, is paved almost entirely for the entire length, and forms one huge, wide ocean boulevard. And this, by the way, is the most productive of public works in the kingdom.

Buenos Ayres has an eleven-story hotel planned by a New York architect and built throughout of American materials. Most notable is the fact that it is the first steel frame building erected in Argentina, and it was completed only about a year ago.

The Practical Side.

The men whose Hoo-Hoo names appear in the notices below are out of work and want employment. This is intended as a permanent department of The Bulletin, through which to make these facts known. It is, or should be, read by several thousand business men who employ labor in many varied forms, and it can be made of great value in giving practical application to Hoo-Hoo's central theme of helping one another. It is hoped the department will receive very careful attention each issue.

Some of our members advertising in The Bulletin fail to advise me when they have secured positions so an old ad keeps running for months and months. To avoid this I have adopted the plan of running the ads as long as three months and then if I have heard nothing from the advertiser I will cut his ad out. If at the end of the three months he still wishes me to continue it he must advise me. J. H. BAIRD, Scrivenoter.

THE HOO-HOO GRIP TAG.

This, also is guaranteed to bring good luck to any traveling man and to keep him from journeying on the downhill road towards failure or disaster. It will be soon that lost grips with this tag on them will probably be sent in to me. In every such case the greatest security will be maintained as to the contents. If your bag contains only a collar button and your other pair of socks, nothing will be said to humiliate you. Price 99 cents, and cheap at the money.

THE LADIES' PIN.

I have yet to see a lady, old or young, who did not want one of these pins the minute she saw it. To have these pins in the hands of pretty women-and a good Hoo-Hoo knows no other secret-is the best possible advertisement for the Order. Every Hoo-Hoo ought to buy one of these pins, have his number engraved on it, and give it to some good woman. Price $1.50 by registered mail-$1.25, flat, if taken f. o. b., Nashville. Loosen up, boys, and give the women a chance.

THE HOO-HOO WATCH CHARM.

The new design being alike on both sides, it will never hang "wrong side out." The edges are smooth, which is also a great advantage. We once had a most beautiful design, to which we thought there could be no possible objection. It had, however, some sharp points, and numerous kicks began to reach us from married brothers who said the charm "scratched the baby's legs all up." This watch charm is perfectly harmless, as well as very beautiful, besides being appropriately suggestive of Egypt, the birthplace of Hoo-Hoo. That part of the design which looks like the top of a gate or door represents the "Propylon." The Propylon was the great gateway erected in front of the Temple of Onfis. It was massive in proportion and rich in sculptural design and inscriptions. In shape it was like the pylons of the temple, from which it took its name. It served as a kind of introduction to the temple, and beyond it was sacred ground. From beneath its portal, on account of its position, the temple in all its glory was seen. Leading from it was the sacred way, bordered on each side by the recumbent sphinx. Once a year, when the earth in its circuit around the sun had reached a certain point in the ecliptic, the rays of the rising sun, cutting across the desert, shone through the great Propylon down the avenue of sphinx into and down through the temple until it lighted up the place of the Most Holy and glittered on the gilded horns of the sacred bull-and the Egyptian new year had begun. The rest of the design is made up of a continuous border of the lotus, symbolical of the resurrection-the lotus sleeps and awakens. The Egyptians believed that their spirits would return to earth after a lengthy sojourn elsewhere and that they would inhabit their old bodies-hence mummies. (You don't have to remember all this, if you buy the charm, but ought to.)

Price $7.50 Prepaid.

THE SOUVENIR SPOON.

The cut gives but a faint idea of its beauty and artistic elegance. In addition to bearing the Hoo-Hoo emblem, it is adorned with nine cut-tails, such as grow in the marshes in the South, enameled in the natural color of brown, with green leaves. The workmanship is of the highest quality. It is no cheap affair, but is hand-painted, and hand-enameled. This spoon itself is sterling gilt, which means that it is sterling silver, plated with gold. To all intents and purposes it is a gold spoon. The price is about right, I think, considering what you get.

THE HOO-HOO BROOCHES.

In addition to being artistic and beautiful, these are all "lucky" pins, and I guarantee them to bring success to the purchaser and make his wish come true, provided he wishes for the right thing, and is willing to work.

The simple "bar" brooch is recommended as a present to a practical-minded girl. It carries with it a suggestion of solid worth and is calculated to impress her with the idea that you are about as good a chance, all things considered, as she will be likely to get. The WISHBONE design was made with a view to marrying-off the confirmed bachelors of Hoo-Hoo. THE HORSESHOE PIN is the luckiest of all. It will be observed that this horseshoe is not the old-fashioned kind, such as a common "plug" would wear, but is the up-to-date shoe worn by a running horse. It is, therefore, symbolical of the speedy realization of the purchaser's brightest dreams. THE ORBSCENT PIN is intended for presentation to a romantic maiden, and may be accompanied by a speech about the moon-"The inconstant moon that monthly changes in its circled orb"-and entreaty that her love be not likewise variable. THE CLOVER-LEAF PIN is for widowers with children, who are trying to marry young girls. It is especially irresistible-"a thing of beauty and a joy forever." The clover-leaf has a border of Roman gold, with the center enameled in the natural clover green. Any one of these pins would make an appropriate present from a man to his wife. The horseshoe pin might prove effective as a present to one's mother-in-law, as it would carry with it a delicate hint to "walk away."

Now, then, none of this Hoo-Hoo jewelry will be sold to other than members in good standing, and only for cash. There is a profit in it to the manufacturer, but none to Hoo-Hoo. It is handled for the accommodation of our members and the good of the Order. None of it will be sold without the buyer's number. Address all orders to J. H. BAIRD, Scrivenoter, Nashville, Tenn.
