SUPREME NINE.

The Only Authorized Music of the Order.

No better advertisement for the Order could be had than to have this piece of music become one of the popular airs of the day.

The price of the music is 40 cents per copy, and will be sent post paid upon application to the Scrivenoter.

The cut herewith shows the Hoo-Hoo Ladies' Pin. We have yet to see a lady, old or young, who did not want one of these pins the minute she saw it. To have these pins in the hands of pretty women—and a good Hoo-Hoo knows no other sort—is the best possible advertisement for the Order. Every Hoo-Hoo ought to buy one of these pins, have his number engraved on it, and give it to some good woman. Remit $1.50 to the Scrivenoter, and one of these pins duly engraved will be sent by registered mail to any address. It is one of the nicest presents imaginable for a man's sweetheart. Only members in good standing can purchase.

The Cairo Concatenation.

One of the most notable meetings in the annals of Hoo-Hoo occurred at Cairo, Ill., on April 20. Cairo is a town that is famous for good concatenations, and Vicegerent H. S. Candee realized that his meeting must needs be a brilliant one to eclipse the efforts of his predecessors. With characteristic energy he threw himself into the work, and the results of his labors are justly a source of gratification not only to the Supreme Nine, but to every member of the Order. So thoroughly was the preliminary work done that there was no possibility of the slightest hitch or jar, and the perfect harmony and smoothness with which the whole programme passed off was a striking testimonial to the splendid executive ability of the Vicegerent and his able assistants. The latter comprised the entire membership of Cairo. Standing together, shoulder to shoulder, the Hoo-Hoo of Cairo rendered their Vicegerent the sort of support that exemplifies, more than anything else, the true spirit of the Order and symbolizes the brotherhood of man. The "Cairo idea" is to have one good concatenation every year, at which every detail shall be perfectly planned and successfully carried out. It is a good idea, and one which many other lumber centers might profitably adopt.

The programme on this occasion was divided into three parts—the concatenation, which occurred in the afternoon; the illustrated lecture by Brother Bolling Arthur Johnson, at eight o'clock in the evening; and the banquet, which immediately followed, and which ended some time the next morning. The plan of having the concatenation occur in the afternoon was a happy thought—almost an inspiration, in fact—and it constitutes an innovation which will probably become popular on occasions of similar magnitude.

At the concatenation eleven good men were initiated, and the ceremonies were enlivened by some new and interesting features. The candidates seemed to know that they had been conducted into the onion beds, and expressed deep gratitude at being allowed to live. Their joy was intensified by the knowledge of the good things still in store for them at the lecture and the banquet.

H. S. CANDEE,
VICEGERENT SNARK FOR SOUTHERN ILLINOIS.

Brother Johnson's illustrated lecture on the "First Things in Hoo-Hoo" took place in the Opera House in the presence of a large and cultured audience. The surroundings were particularly favorable—the lecturer was about to depart for Europe, and this was practically his farewell appearance; he felt that he was in the presence of his most devoted friends, and knew his audience was in thorough rapport with him. Such things inspire a speaker, and Johnson must have felt inspired, for never was he in better form, never was his own intense magnetism more strongly felt by his listeners. He literally carried the audience with him, and time and time again he was interrupted by a storm of applause. Many ladies were present and many men who were not Hoo-Hoo, for this lecture is one that interests outsiders as well as the elect. It is filled with flashes of wit and Johnson's own quaint humor, and sometimes a bit of pathos creeps in, too; for joy and sorrow are so close akin that

"Sometimes a puzzled heart
Searce can tell the twain apart."

Following the lecture came the banquet, which was a most elegant and elaborate affair, as is indicated by the menu:

- Little Neck Clams
- Bouillon Blanc
- Salted Bread Sticks
- Radishes
- Sliced Tomatoes
- Planked Pompano, Ravigotte
- Dressed Cucumbers
- Soft-shell Crabs, Poivre
- Asparagus au Beurre
- Fillet of Beef Larded, Demi Glace
- Bermuda Potatoes
- Spring Chicken Grille, Sur Canape

- Water Cress
- Cauliflower Mayonnaise
- Prawn Salad
- Strawberries
- White Mountain Ice Cream
- Cook's Imperial
- Gateau Assortis
- Cheese
- Crackers
- Coffee
- Cigars

After the banquet, the seven courses of which were served in exquisite style, came the toasts:

"Hang sorrow! Care will kill a cat, and therefore let's be merry."

H. S. Candee, Vicegerent Snark, toastmaster.

TOASTS.

- Greeting.....Mr. George W. Dodge
- Concatenations at Cairo.....Mr. George W. Schwartz
- Some Stories I Have Heard.....Mr. J. S. Willis
- Comradeship in Hoo-Hoo.....Mr. C. S. Walker
- Songs the Cats Sing.....Mr. L. W. Swancutt
- Why We Are Here.....Mr. W. E. Barns
- Our Next Annual.....Mr. J. H. Baird
- My Letters of Introduction.....Mr. B. Arthur Johnson

All the responses were impromptu, for nobody knew until he got to the table what he was expected to talk about. Many of the responses were brilliant, and we regret that we cannot present them all here, but Brother Cliff. S. Walker's remarks were the only ones we have been able to fasten down on. These were as follows:

"Comradeship in Hoo-Hoo! Is there anything sweeter, pleasanter, more full of satisfaction than the true and loyal comradeship that grows up between men? If such gatherings as this—the concatenation of this afternoon and banquet of to-night—served no better purpose than to bring men together and let them learn the true natures of their fellows and even themselves, it would be enough. Every man is possessed of a dual nature—one, the product of our false social system, in which he is wrapped about by custom, with his Sunday manner, his office or business ways; the other, the natural man, full of candor and of love for his friends. Our system causes men to hide their true natures and to wrap themselves in coverings of coldness and selfishness, and some men are even blind, all their lives through, to their own inward nature. Coming together in our unconventional way, as we do, gives men the opportunity to get the bark off, and before long we find the real man; we see his very heart shining out through his ribs. It is in just such gatherings of Hoo-Hoo as this that I have formed the best and truest friendships of my life; and let me tell you that after you have lived your life you will know that the real happiness, the real unalloyed pleasure, has come to you from two things: First, the faith, the trust, the loyal comradeship of men; and, next and best, the love and loyalty of an honest and noble woman. To have a friend in whom you have absolute faith, and who you know loves and trusts you to the uttermost, gives a feeling of satisfaction and pleasure which is beyond all expression or explanation.

C. S. CAREY, OF CAIRO,
ONE OF THE VICEGERENT'S ASSISTANTS.

"It takes longer in some parts of the country than in others for men to get that conventional bark off, as I experienced not long ago when participating in a concatenation in an Eastern city. I have been used to the South and West, where men warm up quickly, and I felt very much depressed when the concatenation seemed to have fallen flat, and the following banquet was cold and formal up to a certain point; but about midnight a change came, and when I tell you that we went swimming at 3 o'clock in the morning, you may be certain that finally the bark was shed, and I left that city full of appreciation for the royal manner in which I had been treated and for the thanks tendered me for my assistance.

"We read of the knightly deeds of old—of how some knight, dressed in pot-metal armor and with a kettle on his head, has fought, bled, and died for loyalty to his friend; we shed tears over the story of Damon and Pythias; and yet I tell you that right around this table are men who would just as quickly risk their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honors in the service of their friends as did ever knight of old.

"In closing, I can but repeat to you that all the sweetness that has come to me in life has been through the true and loyal comradeship of my friends, and, best of all, the love of a noble wife; and no man in all this world, be he who he may, has known more happiness than I have found."

MEWS AT MIDNIGHT.

Brother Candee had among his assistants two ex-Vicegerents, Brothers W. H. Greble and George Krebs.

Brother Thomas Pickens, in the rôle of Custodian, rendered most effective service. Mr. Pickens formerly lived in Nashville, and has many friends here, who are pleased to note the business success he is attaining in Cairo. He is connected with the firm of Houston Brothers.

Brothers W. E. Smith, George W. Dodge, George E. O'Hara, and C. S. Carey threw themselves energetically into the work of helping out their Vicegerent, and contributed in large measure to the splendid success of the meeting.

The motto of the Cairo Hoo-Hoo is: "United, we stand; divided, we fall." It is a good motto.

Cairo is a live, hustling town, and has a most prosperous and well-fed air. Business seems to be booming, and the citizens view life from an optimistic standpoint.

Comments on Concatenations.

Vicegerent W. R. Griffin held a concatenation at Indianapolis, Ind., on April 13; and though the class was small, the affair was a most pleasant one.

Vicegerent W. S. Wilson held a concatenation at Thommsville, Ga., on March 30, which was a very pleasant affair, despite the fact that the class was not quite so large as had been expected.

Vicegerent Joe R. Anson held a concatenation at Springfield, Mo., on April 5. Brother Joseph E. Culver was the local man in charge of the preliminary work, and he deserves credit for the energy he displayed in arranging for the meeting.

Vicegerent J. L. Glaser held a concatenation at Chicago on April 23. A number of prominent members were present at this meeting, including Brothers Bolling Arthur Johnson and Cliff. S. Walker, and the occasion was a most enjoyable one.

Vicegerent J. D. Hand conducted eleven kittens through the mysterious and winding paths of the onion beds at Mobile, Ala., on April 7. With so auspicious a start as this, Vicegerent Hand will doubtless be able to do a great deal for Hoo-Hoo in Southern Alabama.

At Bainbridge, Ga., on April 27, Vicegerent W. S. Wilson held a concatenation, initiating seven men. A pleasing feature of this meeting was the banquet tendered by Brother C. H. Caldwell (No. 7311), of Bainbridge, which was a most elegant spread and greatly enjoyed.

Eight regular and two honorary members were the additions to the Order made at Vicegerent F. G. Snyder's concatenation at Monroe, La., on April 25. The boys report that they had a good time, and express the opinion that the candidates will remember the initiation for some time to come.

Vicegerent F. N. Levens held a concatenation at Brookville, Pa., on April 19. He had a class of seven good men, and he introduced them to the mysteries in the most approved style. This concatenation and the one at Buffalo on April 12 will doubtless contribute materially to the interest in Hoo-Hoo in a section where the Order is not so strong as in the South and West.

Vicegerent W. F. McClure held a concatenation at Waco, Texas, on April 11, initiating ten regular members and adding three good men to our list of honorary members. Brother McClure is making a great record for Texas; and when the Annual Meeting convenes at Dallas next October, no doubt the majority of the inhabitants of the "Lone Star State" will be on hand to bid us welcome.

Vicegerent C. H. Stanton held a concatenation at Buffalo, N. Y., on April 12, which will undoubtedly give the Order a great boost in the East. Sixteen men were initiated at this meeting. Brother Cliff S. Walker took the part of Junior Hoo-Hoo in his own inimitable style, and in every respect the meeting was an unqualified success. Vicegerent Stanton is to be congratulated upon this extremely pleasant and enjoyable concatenation. The local paper had the following account of the affair:

"The Hoo-Hoo concatenation held in Buffalo, N. Y., on April 12 was an entire success, all candidates expressing themselves as much pleased with all proceedings. C. H. Stanton, Vicegerent Snark, had exerted himself to that end, and so the newly-fledged kittens were enabled to step over the boundary from the land of ordinary mortals into the domain of the Order of Hoo-Hoo after a fashion entirely acceptable to them as well as to the older members. Buffalo now has quite a large membership, and the addition of the new class of sixteen certainly has not lowered the standard of excellence maintained by the heads of the Order. Among the members from out of town were C. S. Walker, J. J. Campion, and D. Hineckley, of Cincinnati, and M. A. Hayward, of Columbus. Mr. Walker, as the Junior Hoo-Hoo, was interesting to a fault, as was Mr. Campion in his official capacity of Bojum. It was a decidedly pleased body of half a hundred people who made their way from the regular meeting at the Builders' Exchange shortly after 11 P.M. to the Iroquois Hotel to partake of the good things that the heads of the Order had prepared for all connected with the meeting. The banquet was a trifle overbalanced as to cheerfulness at one end of the table, but the other end was comfortable, and the addresses were of the solid sort, always with a good word for Hoo-Hoo land and its chief representative in the good State of New York. Mr. Walker did not fail to congratulate the new kittens on their good appearance, and Mr. Trent said a good word for the Pan-American Exposition, hoping that the Order would consent to hold its Annual Meeting here in 1901."

Vicegerent Joe H. Anson held a concatenation at Poplar Bluff, Mo., on April 11, at which twenty-one new members were added. No small part of the success of this notable meeting was due to the efforts of Brother S. S. May, who had charge of the preliminary work, and who covered himself with glory in the things which he accomplished. After the initiatory ceremonies, a banquet was served at the hotel. Covers were laid for fifty-four, including the new kittens and local and visiting Hoo-Hoo. During the banquet the Cornet Band of twelve members discoursed sweet music, and, altogether, the occasion was one calculated to give Hoo-Hoo a still greater prestige in the State of its nativity. The following account of the meeting appeared in the local paper:

"The first meeting of the Order of 'Black Cats,' or Hoo-Hoo, composed principally of lumbermen or those interested in some manner in the lumber business, was held in this city last night, and the organization initiated twenty-one members. The candidates who saw the first light of the Concatenated Order of 'Black Cats' are prominent lumbermen in this city and county, with the exception of two, and will henceforth align themselves to the Order of Hoo-Hoo."

"The concatenation was to have been held in this city on February 28, but on account of the prevalence of small-pox at that time they postponed the meeting, and April 11 was set as the day on which to perform the duties outlined. S. S. May, a Hoo-Hoo and lumberman, was enthusiastic from start to finish; and, with the earnest zeal of J. H. Kito, Dr. Greene, James Brandon, and H. I. Ruth (also 'Black Cats,' but somewhat aged), the concatenation was pronounced a decided success by those who attended from abroad. After the initiations were completed, the Hoo-Hoo were escorted to the Quinn Hotel, where a feast awaited them, and where pleasantries were indulged in until the 'wee sma' hours.' The Cornet Band furnished some excellent music throughout the evening, and many compliments were passed upon music and players."

"The following is a list of the visiting 'Black Cats' that invaded the city and assisted in initiating the Hoo-Hoo innocents into the dark mysteries of the 'Black Catastrophe': Joe Anson, Vicegerent Snark, Kansas City; J. F. Judd, George M. Mason, Charles H. Stephens, G. W. Gladding, Arthur L. Wiley, J. S. Willis, H. A. Richards, W. W. Webster, St. Louis; W. H. Bartie, Chicago; W. W. Perkins,

D. A. Hilton, C. P. Hammond, H. F. Steward, Doniphan and John H. Himmelberger, Morehouse.

"The Vicegerent Snark, Joe Anson, complimented the Poplar Bluff 'Black Cats' for their courteous entertainment given the visiting brethren and their enthusiastic work in the initiatory proceedings. Other visiting members also spoke highly of the entertainment received at the hands of the local 'Black Cats.'"

Prospective Concatenations.

Vicegerent F. O. Havener writes that he will hold a concatenation at Parkersburg, W. Va., on May 30. The street fair will be in progress there at that time, and a large number of visitors will doubtless be present. A good class is assured.

* * * *

Vicegerent G. R. Stafford will hold a concatenation at Chattanooga, Tenn., on May 7. The meeting will occur during the spring festival. Chattanooga's spring festivals are always well attended, and the concatenation bids fair to be a glowing success.

* * * *

The following announcement of Vicegerent W. F. McClure's concatenation at Orange, Texas, on May 12 appears in the local paper:

"Be it known that on the twelfth day of the fifth month, A.D. 1900, by virtue of the authority vested in me, I have deemed it in order that the 'Black Cats' do and are hereby requested to assemble at Orange, 9 miles west of the river Sabine, in the State of Texas, block No. 9, in room No. 99, at 9 minutes to 9 o'clock, for the purpose and pleasure of assisting such purblind kittens as seek the resplendent light of Hoo-Hoo to come out of 'Nine Hole' in proper shape. By order of the Supreme Nine.

"B. T. O. T. G. S. B. C.,

"W. F. McCLURE,
"Vicegerent Snark."

"PURBLIND KITTENS, ATTENTION!"

"Candidates for the Biographical Degree, or the Degree of the Playful Kitten, at the concatenation to be held in Orange, Texas, on May 12, hearken to the voice of the Vicegerent Snark, ye weaklings, from far and near, who intend to meekly petition that your tender eyes be allowed to see the glorious light of the onion bed for the first time that night. For the sake of your future happiness, call on me at once or write to me regarding your application, which should be in my hands by May 4, so that I can send them all at once to the Vicegerent, that he may pass on your eligibility and return them here before the 12th.

"Yours seriously,

GEORGE ROLL CALL,
"Acting Scrivenor."

* * * *

Vicegerent F. T. Rumbarger has a concatenation set for May 8. It was originally set for May 9, but owing to his inability to secure the hall for that night, Brother Rumbarger changed the date to May 8. Every effort will be made to render this a memorable meeting, and the prospects are that a large class will be initiated.

Business Opportunities.

Empire, Ark., April 10, 1900.—Mr. J. H. Baird, Scrivenor, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: We are in want of a young man to take the position of bookkeeper and stenographer, and would prefer that he had some knowledge of the mercantile business, as he would have charge of the commissary, and it would be necessary that he should have some practical experience. A single man is preferred. Our place of business is at present six miles from the railroad, but will have connection with Portland with standard gauge road in a short time. If you know of a good fellow you would like to recommend, kindly hand him this letter and oblige.

Yours truly,

"EMPIRE LUMBER CO."

The Chicago Lumber and Coal Company, of Logansport, La., want a planing mill foreman.

Vale Johnson.

Brother Bolling Arthur Johnson, the illustrious founder of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, after years of efficient and brilliant work as a newspaper writer, has left the journalistic field and will devote his talents henceforth to the lecture platform. Many people when they go to the high altitudes of Colorado lose their voices. Johnson found his there. His first lecture was delivered at the Denver Annual last September, and was one of the most striking features of the programme of entertainment. His subject was the "First Things of Hoo-Hoo." Since then the lecture has been repeated at various places. His success along this line led him to determine on a career as a lecturer, and he leaves soon for Europe, where he will gather data and illustrations for a series of lectures to be delivered when he returns next fall. The good wishes of the entire membership of Hoo-Hoo go with Mr. Johnson across the sea, and his former coworkers among the newspaper men have said many nice things about him. The "American Lumberman" of recent issue, among other things, says:

"Johnson, the lumber newspaper man; Johnson, the advertising solicitor; Johnson, the pet, or bête noire, as it may happen, of the lumber trade, is no more. Enter Johnson, the traveler; Johnson, the lecturer; and yet it is, and must be, and can be, nothing but the same Bolling Arthur Johnson. He has said good-by, after his usual 'I-will-see-you-in-a-minute' fashion, to his friends in the trade and in lumber newspaper circles, and in a few weeks will cross the Atlantic to dig up the things he wants to put in some of the lectures that the American people will have a chance to hear next winter, and which they will be glad to pay for hearing, if they realize what is in store for them.

"Johnson has taken many parts in the play of life, but in all of them he has been simply 'Johnson.' He cannot be anything else, for his personality is too strong to subordinate itself to costume or make-up. Pose as he may, as philosopher or comedian, in rôle of laughter or of grief, as friend or foe, as Bohemian or practical business man, he is still only 'Johnson.' He sees all the world through the color of the spectacles he may wear, and there is variety only as his changing moods change the color of his outlook.

"So long a time has Bolling Arthur Johnson been part of the lumber world that the savor of endless years is upon him, and yet he is hardly more than a 'kid,' and never will be anything but a boy in spirit. He was born only thirty-eight years ago—to be exact, August 5, 1862. There is a rumor afloat that Johnson is a Kentuckian. The only foundation for that impression seems to be his looks and his manner and something about the tone of his voice when he says: 'Heh, boy.' As a matter of fact, Johnson is a Virginian by ancestry, an Ohioan by birth, and an Illinoisian by bringing up. The Johnsons seem to have been people of some special account down in Virginia, for 'way back 250 years ago, and maybe more, the first American Johnson of this particular family was given by the Crown a big grant of land in Botetourt County, Va.; but there were other Johnsons before him, and they and those that succeeded him belonged to the Society of Friends, and were famous members of that faith back in the days of George Fox, its founder.

"Those intimately acquainted with Johnson know him to be a man of peace, and so will credit this story of his Quaker origin; but otherwise his looks would contradict it, for on occasions he looks as though he might be a lineal descendant of some pirate of the Spanish main. Johnson himself says that, as far as known, there have been but three of the family who have been men of war. One of them is alleged to have been mixed up in the warlike adventures of the Duke of Monmouth, on which account he had to flee from England; and then in the American Civil War there was a cousin engaged, and then that cousin's son, Frank H. Johnson, was a member of the First Nebraska Regiment of Volunteer Infantry, and served in the Philippines.

"Bolling Arthur Johnson was born in Fayette County, O., in 1862, as stated above. Johnson says he does not know the precise name of the locality in which his father's Ohio farm was located, but it was pretty near a little country cross-roads post office called 'Moons,' and not far from the town of Leesburg, Highland County. He says that this 'Moons' was one of those post offices so small that no one ever thought of writing its name without putting 'P. O.' after it. He says that, as he remembers it, this place consisted of the post office, a blacksmith shop, and one of those old-time tintype galleries that were dragged around the country on wheels, and that he still has a copy of a picture of himself taken in that gallery on a very windy March day. The picture consists of himself and a bench-legged 'fice' dog, which, as a four-year-old boy, he insisted on bringing into the picture. Then in 1867 the family removed to Mercer County, Ill., near North Henderson, where his father died and was buried in 1885, and where his mother still lives."

The "Southern Lumberman" offers this bouquet as a parting gift:

"Johnson has quit the lumber newspaper business. It seems a hard thing to realize, so long and so conspicuously has he identified himself with it. It is even so, however. He has shaken the dust of the entire journalistic field from off his feet, and many of the haunts that have known him will know him no more. No more will his striking and unmistakable talents work themselves out among the throes of composition; no longer will his observations and reflections greet the eye from between the column rules; no more will the timid and shrinking advertiser shrink and grow more timid yet at the robustness and rough comings on of Johnson and his true and tried grip; no more will the shrinking ones deliver up to Johnson duly-executed advertising contracts, as thousands have been wont to do each year for a considerable past. No. Off with the old Johnson of the pen and the passes, and on with the new Johnson of pictures and poetry! He has gone on the lecture platform, which means that he himself will hereafter stand and deliver.

"We have no shadow of doubt, no tremor of fear, of his success in his new field, and yet somehow we hate to see him go. There is a weird sort of picturesqueness about Johnson that makes even his slightest movements of interest; and when he takes so radical a step as this, it comes as a sort of cataclysm. We feel it will take time for the bubbles to quit rising and the surface of the pool to get placid again. Johnson is a man of parts—some of them, perhaps, not any too well put together, but good in themselves and distinct and assertive. He has achieved some notable successes, and has scored some striking failures. Very conspicuous among these latter is his effort to impress his full name of Bolling Arthur Johnson on any considerable number of people. In this he has wasted time and money. He has fumed and sweated and ripped and snorted about the spelling of the first name in this concord of sweet sounds, and has even winked at an atrocious pun on the whole thing in the effort to make it go. But all in vain. 'Johnson' he is, and 'Johnson' he has always been to the oldest man in the lumber trade and to the youngest bell boy in the hotels.

"Johnson entered newspaper work at an early age. We are not quite sure of the very beginning, but at thirteen years of age he was riding a horse to death in quest of subscribers to the 'Youth's Companion' on a premium basis. Successful even then, he killed the horse, but captured the brightly-tinted tin plate that had been promised him and aspired to larger conquests. Thinking he saw in his energy and Redpath's 'History of the United States' a combination capable of filling a long-felt want in many a prairie farmer's home, he attacked that undertaking with ardor and persistence. This netted him enough money to enter Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., where he spent four years, selling books during the vacation seasons. In 1883 he went to Chicago to accept a position with the concern that had just made probably the greatest hit that ever occurred in the subscription book business with the 'Royal Path of Life.' All of us who can reach back far enough remember this wonderful assortment of platitudes and homely homilies, and several million copies could perhaps now be collected from attics and hall bedrooms. As a seller, the 'Royal Path' beat the 'Redpath' far and away, and Johnson got his first taste of affluence. Made manager of a department of the firm's business, his hard-earned practical experience in the field soon lifted him up to 'instructor of agents.' It required several years to sell every old lady in America one of these books, and then Johnson came down to Kentucky with enough money to establish the firm of Huffman & Johnson, booksellers, at Lexington. Returning to Chicago, he began newspaper work on the old Chicago 'Mail.' After about a year with this paper, Johnson became advertising solicitor for the 'Lumber Trade Journal,' then recently established. Later he became part owner of this paper, disposing of his interest when it was removed to New Orleans. He then became connected with the 'Timberman,' and followed the consolidation into the 'American Lumberman.' . . . About a year ago he conceived the idea of a lecture on the history, intents, and methods of Hoo-Hoo, of which wonderful organization he was practically the founder. As he wrote the history, the idea of pictures to illustrate it occurred to him. . . . He set about the collection of the pictures, cast about for and secured a wonderfully proficient man to project them on a screen, and so developed and presented at Denver, Col., last September that wonderfully entertaining story of Hoo-Hoo that has now been seen in several cities. From this sprang the idea of entering the lecture field, and—The American Lecture Association presents Mr. Bolling Arthur Johnson.'

"This is something of Mr. Johnson's past, and, interesting as it is in itself, it is, in our opinion, but the preparation for greater success in his new field. Surely he carries with him the wishes of thousands that it may prove so. With characteristic energy he has already perfected his plans for three lectures to be delivered during the season of 1900-1901. The first of these, 'Stories of the Old South and the New,' has already been written. The other two are to be on the 'Paris Fair of 1900' and the 'Passion Play of 1900.' On May 8 Mr. Johnson will sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, and will spend several months in Germany and France gathering materials and securing the pictures for these last-named lectures. Every ten years for over 250 years the peasants of Ober-Ammergau, Bavaria, have presented a play representing the passion of Christ in fulfillment of a pledge that so they would do if the pestilence which in 1633 swept over South Bavaria be stayed. It is the forthcoming presentation of this play that Mr. Johnson proposes to illustrate in his lecture. No pictures of the play have ever been permitted heretofore, but Mr. Johnson will go armed with such indorsements and high official assistance as assure success.

"Mr. Johnson spent much of the past month in New York, Washington, and Philadelphia perfecting arrangements for his plans. In a recent interview he said:

"I made a most profitable trip. I find a New York agent indispensable, and I have been very fortunate in securing one. Mr. Kirke LaSelle, an old-time newspaper friend of mine, who has in the last few years grown quite rich in the management of various theatrical matters, and who is at present the owner, operator, and author of the "Princess Chic" Opera Comique Company and Ian MacLaren's "Bonnie Brier Bush" and all Frank Daniels' plays, has added the affairs of the American Association to his own in the matter of "booking dates." His secretary will take care of my affairs while I am abroad. All bookings for the various theaters and opera houses in the country are done in New York during the summer. Mr. LaSelle had already arranged with the American Theatrical Exchange for a series of fifty-four dates for me in the Southwest to occur between October 15 and December 27. The lectures are to be delivered in courses, and in each case in groups of six towns. One of these groups, for instance, is Galveston, Houston, Beaumont, Lake Charles, and New Iberia, La. During three weeks of November, 1900, I will lecture eighteen times in those six towns, the lectures in the various places being about one week apart. For instance, I shall deliver each one of my lectures in Houston, say, on three consecutive Monday nights, each one in Beaumont on three consecutive Tuesday nights, each one in Galveston on three consecutive Wednesday nights, etc. Course tickets will be sold in advance by an advance agent, who will tour my territory, beginning some time in August. Another group of dates will be arranged with Vicksburg as a center; still another, with Mobile as a center; and possibly two other groups, with Kansas City and Denver for centers. That would give me 120 lectures for the season. I shall probably deliver no more than that. Negotiations are already on foot for the Colorado dates, and also for the Vicksburg group, which group will probably be Vicksburg, Natchez, Yazoo City, Jackson, and Greenville. "I will sail for Bremen on the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse on May 8, and from Bremen by fast express directly to Ober-Ammergau, and am booked to arrive at Ober-Ammergau two hours before the first dress rehearsal of the "Passion Play," which occurs on May 10."

Notes and Comments.

We are in receipt of an invitation to the commencement exercises of the senior class of the Miami Medical College, of Cincinnati, O. The invitation comes from Brother J. C. Buckwalter (No. 3321), who, it seems, has gone wrong and has become a doctor. This is our first information as to Brother Buckwalter's downfall. However, we wish him success in his new field, and regret that we cannot accept the invitation he so kindly extends.

Brother Samuel R. Guyther (No. 4016) sends us the following announcement:

"We beg to announce the opening of the Hoo-Hoo Drug Company (limited) on Saturday evening, April 14, 1900, Patterson, La. Come and hear our graphophone."

Hymeneal.

Mr. William Michael Stephenson and Miss Lenore Regina Scheffer were married at Nashville, Tenn., on April 25. The ceremony occurred at the Church of the Assumption, and was conducted according to the majestic ritual of the Catholic Church. The church was filled with the friends of this popular young couple, and the occasion was a most impressive one. Mr. Stephenson formerly lived in Nashville, and was for a time connected with the Evansville and Terre Haute Railroad here. About two years ago he was offered a position with the Wisconsin Central Lines, with headquarters at Chicago, and a short time thereafter he was made General Agent of that road at Duluth, Minn. No more popular man ever lived in Nashville than "Billy" Stephenson, and he has hosts of friends here, who congratulate him on his good fortune. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Joseph Scheffer, a well-known lumberman, of this city. After a short bridal tour, Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson will be at home to their friends at 501 West Second street, Duluth, Minn.

Mr. Junius Davis Allen and Miss Minnie Miller were married in this city on April 25. Mr. Allen formerly lived in Nashville, but is now a member of the well-known firm of J. W. Thompson & Co., of Memphis, Tenn. "The Bulletin" extends to Mr. and Mrs. Allen sincere congratulations.

Mr. Dezera E. Cartier and Miss Alice Coady were married at Pana, Ill., on April 24, at St. Patrick's Church. Mr. Cartier is Hoo-Hoo No. 4175, of Ashland, Wis., at which place he and his bride will be at home to their friends after June 1.

Obituary.

Brother H. H. Bissell (No. 5293), of Aurora Station, O., died suddenly on April 23 at Freeport, O. The cause of his death was apoplexy, and he dropped dead at the hotel where he was stopping.

Hermon Hinsdale Bissell was born at Aurora, O., on February 1, 1844. He began life as a locomotive engineer, but afterwards became connected with the Standard Oil Company. At the time of his death he was with the Waters-Pierce Oil Company. He became a Hoo-Hoo at Orange, Texas, on January 18, 1898. Mr. Bissell was a good man, a kind husband and father, and a true friend. He had many friends in the Order, who will regret to learn of his death.

A letter from Vicegerent F. O. Snyder, of Shreveport, La., under date of April 21, tells the following sad story:

"It is my painful duty to inform you that Brother William Taylor White (No. 5041), of Allentown, La., was killed this morning about 8 o'clock by a negro employed in the mill. It seems that Mr. White had some difficulty with the negro the day before in regard to some work, and he came to work this morning with a pistol in his clothes, and when Mr. White's back was turned, shot him and killed him at once. He then ran home and shot himself. I had the pleasure of being very well acquainted with Mr. White, and always found him to be a perfect gentleman. He was initiated in the Order of Hoo-Hoo just two years ago yesterday, the same day that I myself took the degree."

This is the second time this year that we have been called on to chronicle a murder, the other victim being Brother Louis de Montcourt, of Cairo, Ill., who was assassinated by a discharged employee.

William Taylor White was born at Washington, Ark. He connected himself with a lumber concern at Queen City, Texas, in 1886, removing to Louisiana in 1893. At the time of his death he was with Allen Bros. & Wadley, of Allentown.

The following copy of resolutions adopted is the first and only intimation we have of the death of Brother F. N. Embree (No. 216), of Indianapolis, Ind.:

"Mrs. Frank Embree: At a concatenation of the Order of Hoo-Hoo, of which your husband was an honored member, we learned with many feelings of sorrow of his recent death. We wish to express to you the great esteem in which he was held by us and to express to you and to his many friends our condolence at his untimely removal by the 'grim monster.' We feel, however, that you have this consolation: that while death is sad, yet it is also a release, in his case, from a lingering and painful existence on earth and an ushering into an eternity free from the trials and vicissitudes attendant upon a life here.

"G. C. PRATT,
"A. H. BROWN,
"H. C. PAGE, Committee."

The Responses.

The following are the responses to the call for contributions to the Permanent Fund for Relief since the March issue of "The Bulletin." As it would involve considerable expense to send a receipt to each man, acknowledgement of these contributions is made in this way. More than half of the contributions received have been for $1, instead of the 99 cents mentioned in the call, and have been so credited on the books. The aggregate of the contributions up to the hour "The Bulletin" goes to press is $639.03.
