OUR NEXT ANNUAL MEETING.

Pull-in-Bay, Ohio, Decided Upon.

At the Hotel Chittenden, Columbus, Ohio, on the evening of Jan. 25, agreeable to a call of T. A. Hildreth, James H. Barr, and John H. Jenks, the committee appointed by the Shark of the Universe, to determine the location of the next Hoo-Hoo Annual conference convention of Ohio Hoo-Hoo was held.

T. A. Hildreth acted as chairman. Mr. Hildreth asked for the presentation of the claims of the several localities within the State of Ohio, which desired to have the honor of entertaining Hoo-Hoo at the forthcoming September meeting, and mentioned incidentally that the only points thus far under consideration were Cincinnati, Columbus, Cleveland and Pull-in-Bay. Mr. Hildreth took occasion to withdraw the name of Columbus for various reasons, notably among which was the dearth of attractions necessary to make the stay of the visitors agreeable.

Mr. James H. Barr also withdrew the claims of Cincinnati for this year. Mr. J. J. Wemple thereupon, in a telling speech, presented the name of Cleveland for the distinction, describing in detail the various attractions of the "Forest City," and stating that he had the pledge of the entire lumber fraternity of Cleveland for an entertainment that would compare favorably with that enjoyed at the Detroit meeting.

Col. A. D. McLeod then offered for the consideration of the convention that the proposition of the Hotel Victory, at Pull-in-Bay, which he had previously read in detail, be accepted. Incidentally he paid a most glowing tribute to the beautiful islands of Lake Erie as a suitable location for the convention, stating that it was the beauty spot of Ohio; that the Hotel Victory was ample in every way to most splendidly entertain the visitors, and that it was a location which would be particularly agreeable to all visitors from Ohio. A vote was thereupon taken as to the sentiment of those present, and it was found that the result was in favor of Pull-in-Bay, Ohio, which result was immediately

tic. Thereupon the committee retired, and, after gaining some additional concessions from the representative of the Hotel Victory, who was in attendance, decided to name the place for the holding of the next Annual at Hotel Victory, Put-in-Bay, Ohio.

Mr. Jenks, of the committee, held out strenuously for the claims of Cleveland, but was outvoted in the committee.

The offer of the Hotel Victory, for a first-class summer resort-hotel of such extent and magnificence, is particularly generous. It places at the disposal of the visitors the entire fourth floor of the hotel, which numbers 118 rooms, at $2 per day; the third floor of the hotel, at $2.50 per day; second floor, at $3 and $3.50 per day; and the ground floor, at $4. Rooms with bath, 50 cents per day extra. This practically is a concession of $1 per day in the matter of rates. The hotel management also furnishes music, painting, palatial steamers for excursion purposes, convention halls, committee rooms, and sundry other things.

It is undeniable that the management has the intention of making the visit of Hoo-Hoo charming and agreeable in every way. The choice of the committee was fully in-time and included quite a number of prominent gentlemen at Choate, as well as capitalists and others from the East, most of whom were lumbermen. This new society does not pretend to be one that proselytes very zealously, but it was, nevertheless, a prosperous organization, and might in time become a rival of Hoo-Hoo. It is said that the mysteries pertain to that wondrous discovery in animal life made two or three years ago by E. S. Shepard, of Rhineland, Wis., in the forests of the northern portion of the Badger State. If they are entirely in consonance with this idea, the mysteries must be something simply horrible, such as to affright the stoutest mind in essaying to penetrate them. - "Timberman."

Put-in-Bay.

Put-in-Bay, where it has been decided to hold the next Hoo-Hoo Annual, is the largest and most attractive of the famous and picturesque group of islands in Lake Erie, and is the most popular summer resort in the West. Its magnificent scenery, absolutely pure air and water, bracing atdorsed by every one, including even the large Cleveland delegation; and it was agreed to make the entertainment entirely an affair of the State of Ohio as a whole. Every effort will be made on the part of the Ohio members to make the meeting fully as glorious as was the last one at Detroit; and to that end the labor of every Ohio Hoo-Hoo is pledged.

A Sunday trip by a palatial lake steamer to Niagara Falls will doubtless be arranged as a grand wind-up of the function.

A Possible Rival to Hoo-Hoo.

Mr. John Oxenford, one of the prominent members of the Central Association of Traveling Men, who was an attendant at the convention here recently, bore upon the lapel of his coat a button which was at once the envy and admiration of all who saw it. This button was of white, red, and gold. In the center was the design of a hood in red enamel, underneath which was inscribed the mystic words "Helt Tampus." Being interrogated as to the meaning of this insignia, Mr. Oxenford said that it indicated membership in the Ancient and Honorable Order of Hodds, a somewhat unique and distinguished organization that was formed at Choate, Mich., on Oct. 17, 1897. The emblem of the order, he said, was a hood of the same color as the one on his button, which will give atmosphere, superb boating and fishing, have made it popular throughout the West and South for years. It is sixty-five miles west from Cleveland and sixty miles southeast from Detroit, forty miles northeast from Toledo, and twenty-two miles north from Sandusky. There are five large hotels on the island, an electric railway, many handsome summer cottages, famous wine cellars, magnificent bathing beaches, with ample bath houses, toboggan slides, etc. Within a radius of five miles are about twenty other islands, many of them having clubhouses, cottages, and pleasure resorts.

Truly it might be said that at Put-in-Bay occurred the pivotal turn in the great struggle of 1812. It was in open lake, in full view from the upper stories of Hotel Victory, that Commodore Perry met and defeated the English on the memorable 10th of September. After the battle, he "put in" to the bay, and sent his historic message: "We have met the enemy, and they are ours."

The Hotel Victory, which has been selected as headquarters, is one of the largest and most magnificent summer hotels in America. It occupies the highest point of land in Lake Erie, 500 feet from the lake's margin, and 35 feet above its level. The vast structure is 500 feet long by 300 feet deep, the main portion surrounding a beautiful bay 100 feet wide. The tower, 100 feet high, is the center of the building, which will give age one-third larger than any other summer hotel in this country), including sixty suites with bath. Dining capacity, 1,000 guests at one sitting. The hotel is lighted by 4,000 incandescent lights, and owns its own system of waterworks. Electric cars run from the boat landing to the hotel doors.

A cut of the Hotel Victory is presented herewith, and during the next several months "The Bulletin" will contain a great many things of interest about the magnificent spot where we will spend a week next September.

Every Hoo-Hoo should make his arrangements now to attend the next Annual Meeting, which will be a notable one socially and otherwise.

Yes, Safe and Dry.

Place my name on the Hoo-Hoo book.
Keep it there to the end of time.
Where succeeding generations may look
When I have passed to the land sublime
To see my name on the record book.
When looking from the realm above,
I will remind me of the part I took
In teaching others the Hoo-Hoo love.
Scrivener, be true to your trust;
Ours each "I" and dot every "I."
For sake of the Hoo-Hoo after us,
Keep the records safe and dry.

Comments on Concatenations.

Of the concatenations reported in this issue of "The Bulletin" one or two deserve special mention. The concatenation at Kansas City, Jan. 25, was perhaps the most remarkable in many respects ever held. Fifty and nine men were initiated, and with very few exceptions they are men prominently identified with the retail lumber trade throughout the West. The concatenation was held on the occasion of the annual meeting of the Missouri and Kansas Retail Lumber Dealers' Association. The attendance at the meeting was the largest in the history of that most successful association, and practically its entire membership not already in Hoo-Hoo was initiated.

This concatenation was held at Port Arthur, Texas, an excursion that will ever be memorable in the annals of the lumber trade. All the new kittens went along and were afforded an opportunity to "get even" at the concatenation held by Brother Deane Call at Port Arthur on the night after the arrival of the excursion. In the meantime a man had been initiated en route. This "en-route" concatenation was held in the sleeping car while the train was speeding through Arkansas at the rate of forty miles an hour over a roadbed not too smooth; and they do say that the rolling and careening of the car added features to some of the Junior work never seen at a previous concatenation. The lumber papers have so thoroughly "covered" this Kansas City meeting and the subsequent excursion that any extended notice in "The Bulletin" would be but a twice-told tale; but from a Hoo-Hoo standpoint the meeting deserves more than a passing notice; and to the men active in working it up to so successful a denouement is due the highest credit.

Within the past thirty days has come a realization of a long deferred hope of Hoo-Hoo, a being given an inning on the Central Atlantic Coast. Much good has been accomplished in the South Atlantic Coast since the departure of Brother Hank Anderson and his associates.

Hoo William B. Stillwell, but the coast north of Georgia clean up to New York was a Hoo-Hoo Sahara, in which a few lonely kittens wandered desolate. This has all been changed now. Virginia and Maryland have reclaimed its brands from the burning, and both States now rejoice in the possession of active and enthusiastic Vicegerents. The reclamation of Virginia is due to the enterprise of the Ohio brethren. The excursion to Norfolk of the Ohio lumbermen was hit upon by Vicegerent Wemple and Supreme Ho-Jum Oakes as a fitting occasion to let forth the light of Hoo-Hoo in that dark region. A great deal of the preliminary work at Norfolk had been done by Brother C. M. Jenkins, a Georgia initiate, who but recently located at Norfolk. At the last moment the place of the meeting was changed from Norfolk to Old Point Comfort, but a few miles away, and that historic resort for the first time heard the music of Hoo-Hoo. The formal report shows the meeting to have been a most successful one, a sufficient number of men being initiated to entitle Virginia to a Vicegerent, and the Shark promptly appointed Mr. S. F. Minter, of Norfolk, to that honorable position. We have recent advice from that gentleman that another meeting is in prospect at an early date.

The Baltimore concatenation was held under considerable difficulties, owing to the absence of a sufficient number of members to act as officers. This obstacle was surmounted, however, most satisfactorily by Mr. E. R. Coolidge, who had conceived and worked up the meeting. Every man who served an officer went to Baltimore especially for that purpose, and they deserve full credit for this exhibition of interest and willingness to work. It was a direct sacrifice on the part of these men to go to Baltimore at that time. Particular credit is due Brothers A. S. McLaughlin and John C. Cannon, whose names were initiated, both of whom are lumbermen, and all of whom are in the front rank of Baltimore's business men. The result of the concatenation entitles Maryland to a Vicegerent, and Mr. B. Wheeler, president of the Landwehr Wheelbarrow Company, has been appointed to the office. Mr. Coolidge, who was greatly elated at the success of the meeting, writes a full account of the proceedings. An exceedingly enjoyable time was had. A folding reference to the buttons for these initiates appears on another page.

Some Personal Mention.

At the last regular business meeting of the Lumber Exchange of St. Louis, Bro. George E. Watson, No. 462, who has been heretofore assistant secretary, was elected secretary of the Exchange, vice W. E. Barnes, resigned. This promotion of Brother Watson's is thoroughly deserved by long and faithful service in the interest of the Exchange. We tender him our congratulations.

Mr. R. L. Oliver, Vicegerent last year for Missouri, has made a change of firm. For some years past he has represented the St. Louis Sash and Door Works, of St. Louis, Mo., on the road, in which capacity he has won for himself quite a reputation as a successful hustler. He now has just accepted a position traveling salesman for the U. N. Roberts Company, sash and door manufacturers, of Davenport, Ia.

Brother Frank Gould, who, since 1894, has been manager of the branch house of Henry Dismont & Sons, at Louisville, Ky., and who has been connected with the Dismont firm for the past 12 years, has been assigned to Chicago and given the entire management of the branch house and factory there. Brother Gould is a good Hoo-Hoo and a good man. We wish him every success in his new position.

Our Poets' Corner.

Just what there is about Hoo-Hoo that stirs up the poetry in a man's nature we don't know. But if one will keep his eye on "The Bulletin" he will see that many new initiates are incited to attempted rhyme who evidently never attempted poetry before. Our first contribution for this issue is entitled "When I Joined the Hoo-Hoo," and is as follows:

O, great and wondrous Hoo-Hoo,
How can I court the muse
To chant the tale of trouble
That does my breast suffuse?

At last I am a member
Of your most famous band,
But surely to become one
It took a heap of sand.

Your Jabberwock he led me
To a hall quite broad and long,
And they didn't do a thing to me,
Those kittens good and strong.

They took my cheek,
Then broke my neck,
And walked me over tacks;
'Lectric dance,
Dusted pants,
Good old pine board whacks.

With egg shampoo,
(Rotten, too!)
Washed my golden locks.
Hoodwinked eyes,
Bridge of sighs,
Gave me some hard knocks.

Jeering shouts,
Sparring bouts,
Songs and rhyming, too.
I made a speech,
(It was a "peach,")
Composed to great Hoo-Hoo.

I ate a dainty morsel
Of Hoo-Hoo's sacred meat;
I drank a brimming beaker
Of water, far from sweet!

8
I suffered every torture
Of imminent destruction,
And then they put me under
A course of wise instruction.

But now I am a Hoo-Hoo,
And you can bet your hat
That when we take a member
I'll get a base-ball bat.

—Drummond of the Lake.

Undoubtedly.

John Lumber would be a Hoo-Hoo,
So he swelled 'til his swaller was blue;
He was pickled in brine,
Kissed the symbol benign—
I think he "got there." Don't you?

—No. 5083.

Incapable.

[The following, by Mr. W. D. Fox, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., in the "Atlanta Constitution," is worthy to rank along with anything Bret Harte or Whitcomb Riley ever wrote.]

I've frazzled out—thar ain't no doubt' that—
Plum failed in all I uvver undetaken;
An'—blame my time!—jes' whar-ther trouble's at
It ain't my natu'al luck to l'arn, I reckon,
'Tho' it's kind uv got ter thumpin' 'bout my skull
Thet it's my fault—I'm jes' incaparbul.

I ain't nair idjot—mos'ly ketch er p'int
Befo' er man has ha'er chance ter tell it;
I usu'y know whar things air out er j'int,
An' mendin' 'em I allus done right well at.
Thar ain't no man es uvver called me dull,
An' yit I've failed—I'm jes' incaparbul.

I've worked hard—nuvver drunk, or bet, or swore;
I nuvver smoked nur even chawed terbacker;
I've spent no money foolish, still I'm pore
As anny rat 'ith but one ha'-'et-cracker;
I'm wo'th no more'n er em'ty hick'nut hull;
I've hed my chance—I'm jes' incaparbul.

Thar warn't no fire nur freeze, no flood nur drou't
On which ter 'ay the causes uv my fallin'.
Whut I hev' sowed wus allus free ter sprout
An' flourish. Not er cussed thing wus allin'
'Cept me; I nuvver 'peared ter hev' the pull
Ter fetch things straight—I'm jes' incaparbul.

I'd ruther now that I hed drunk, an' bet,
An' be'n as triflin' es er Georgy nigger;
I'd ruther cyclones, fires, an' drou't hed wst
Ag'in me; then I'd hev some show ter figger
I warn't ter blame. By gum! It's piteful
Ter think marse' jes' darn incaparbul.

The following, now, is what you might term a fugitive verse.
It was left on the Editor's desk without a word.

You have seen two misses pool kives?
It's like chewing gum sweet and signe;
But the yum-yum some of blisses
Is the Hoo-Hoo's buss under benign.

Have You Been There?

I wish genius to me had been given,
The power, as of others, to write;
I would picture the loneliest spot under heaven
And set forth its terrors aright.

I would tell of the darkness
That there has its hold,
To strike terror to men
Of hearts the most bold;
Of the frogs that do croak
And the owls that do hoot—

But, alas! for lack of the Thing they call gumption,
To draw an adequate picture
Of Paducah Junction.

Obituary.

Burt L. Lamb, No. 1913.

Burt L. Lamb (No. 1913) died at his home, at Clinton, Ia., at 3 P.M., Jan. 29. Mr. Lamb had been ill about three weeks. The cause of his death was dropsy of the heart. He was buried in the family burying ground, at Clinton, Feb. 1.

Burt Lafayette Lamb was born at Clinton, Ia., April 21, 1874. He was educated in the public schools of Clinton, and at the age of eighteen entered the lumber business as a member of the firm of C. Lamb & Sons. He was but twenty-three at the time of his death, and had been married only a few weeks, a fact which makes his untimely death peculiarly sad. Mr. Lamb was a member of the Masonic Lodge, and was a charter member of the Elks Lodge of Clinton. He had been a Hoo-Hoo since June 1, 1894, and at the time of his death was serving as Vicegerent for the Eastern District of Iowa, putting into the work his characteristic energy and enthusiasm. He had just got in shape, and had a number of concatenations in view for April. His was a pleasant figure at the last Annual at Detroit, where he won many friends by his happy, affable manners. Though so young, Mr. Lamb had become a recognized factor in the business life of his city. He was a member of a remarkable family of lumbermen, and his father's family have in their bereavement the heartfelt sympathy of many thousands of friends in the lumber-trade.

J. L. Hamilton, No. 5245.

J. L. Hamilton (No. 5245) died at his home, at Newcastle, Pa., Wednesday, Feb. 16, after an illness of but a few days. Mr. Hamilton was initiated into Hoo-Hoo, Dec. 27 last, at a concatenation held at Newcastle by Mr. J. J. Wemple, Vicegerent for Western Ohio. The concatenation at Newcastle was a most pleasant and successful one, and made so largely by the efforts of Messrs. J. L. and E. M. Hamilton, father and son, who were both initiated. Mr. Hamilton's death was quite unexpected, as up to a few days before his death he had enjoyed his usual vigorous health. He was a business as well as personal friend of Mr. Wemple's, and his death was the occasion of a touching letter from Mr. Wemple to the younger Mr. Hamilton.

Jesse Lowe Hamilton was born in Lycoming County, Pa., on Sept. 25, 1836, of Scotch-Irish parentage. His parents died when he was a small boy, and he was left to shift for himself; but he soon found employment, and during the winter months obtained a knowledge of the English branches in the schools of his neighborhood, and afterwards did much to educate himself. He was a great reader, and was naturally gifted with a good memory. Fifty-one years ago, on Feb. 15, he was united in marriage with Miss Phoebe Renn, a very estimable young lady, of Lycoming County. Five children were the result of this marriage—four sons and one daughter. M. R. and R. P. Hamilton, Frank, Edward M., and Mrs. John DeNormandie, who resides on Luton Street, next door to her father's late residence. Mr. Hamilton was engaged by a lumberman in Lycoming County, and, when quite a young man, lost his left leg at a sawmill. It was cut off by the saw above the knee; but, having great vitality and lots of nerve, in five or six weeks afterwards he went to the city of Philadelphia, where he procured a wooden, or cork, leg. In 1854 R. T. Hamilton and William Hamilton, who were in the lumber business in Newcastle, sent for him to work for them, and he moved to this city. Although these men have the same name, they were no relation, except that of a connection by marriage. After working for them, he was engaged with Stephenson & Craig in the same business, then with G. W. Crawford & Co. and afterwards formed a partnership with John Preston, and, after conducting the business for two or three years, sold out to Preston. He then established the business now conducted in the rear of Pittsburg Street known as the firm of J. L. Hamilton & Son. It consists of a lumber yard and coal yard. This he has conducted for over twelve years, and, by good management and square dealing, has succeeded in building up a good business. Mr. Hamilton was a good citizen, a faithful and loving husband, an affectionate and indulgent father, and an excellent neighbor. He was a consistent member of the First Presbyterian church for the last twenty or thirty years, and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. He was a member of the city council twelve or fourteen years ago, and served also as school director. He belonged to the A. O. U. W. In politics he was a staunch Republican.

F. D. Hunter, No. 2807.

Brother C. D. Skillings, of Duluth, Minn., kindly furnishes us the particulars of the recent death there of Brother F. D. Hunter (No. 2807).

Frank D'Arment Hunter was born at Lewistown, Pa., June 27, 1861. He became a Hoo-Hoo at Duluth, Minn., Feb. 15, 1895. A clipping from a local paper, which Brother Skillings kindly sends us, gives the following particulars as to Mr. Hunter's illness and death:

"Mr. Hunter had not been feeling well for the past week, and was troubled with a bad cold, which he complained of Saturday and Sunday. On Sunday Dr. Gilbert was summoned to attend Mr. Hunter. The patient complained of pains in the head and of general indisposition. Mr. Hunter was feeling well enough to sit up, however, and it was not till Sunday night about ten o'clock that he developed symptoms that alarmed his brother, Calvin Hunter, and his friends. At that time Frank Hunter suddenly raised his hand to his head and exclaimed: 'Cannot somebody stop this pain?' From that time until death relieved him of his sufferings Mr. Hunter did not realize his surroundings or recognize his friends.

"As Mr. Hunter had been around among his friends no longer ago than Saturday night, the news of his death came as a severe shock. There will be a Masonic funeral service at the Masonic Temple this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, in charge of Ionic Lodge, after which the remains will be taken to the former home of the deceased, near Pittsburg, for interment. They will be accompanied by the brother of the deceased, Calvin Hunter.

"Frank D. Hunter was thirty-seven years of age last June. He was born near Pittsburg, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hunter, are still living at the old home where the family was raised. When Frank was about twenty years of age, he graduated with distinction from an Ohio institution of learning. He early displayed a love for the lumber business, and expressed a determination to learn it thoroughly. He started in as a lumber grader at Sandusky, Ohio. Later he was a lumber salesman, and was very successful in all the departments of the business that he tried. It is said that few, if any, lumber salesmen in this country have ever commanded a higher salary than has Mr. Hunter. From 1888 to 1892 Mr. Hunter had charge of the lumber business of John Dubois, of Umbria, Pa., one of the most extensive lumber dealers in the East.

"Four years ago Mr. Hunter came to Duluth and engaged in business as a member of the firm of Davis & Hunter, lumber shippers. He was very successful from the start, and three years ago his brother, Calvin Hunter, also came to Duluth, and they went into business together under the name of F. D. Hunter & Bro. Another of the Hunter brothers is lying dangerously sick at the old home in Pennsylvania.
