Texas Lumbermen's Association Endorses Hoo-Hoo Code of Ethics

Bulletin No. 6, of the Texas Lumbermen's Association, containing a complete report of the Executive Committee meeting, held at Houston, Texas, October 27, gave consideration and recognition to the ideals of Hoo-Hoo, as contained in the following endorsement:

"The Executive Committee voted to endorse as such, sentiments of the Lumbermen's Association of Texas the Code of Ethics of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo."

Following the above endorsement the Bulletin contained a complete copy of the Hoo-Hoo Code of Ethics.

How you regard your competitor is a pretty good measure of your own work. If competition inspires and incites you, then it is the life of trade. If it irritates and seems to injure you, then look out.

public library as well as owned by everyone interested in forests or lumber, and is of particular interest to lumber exporters of the Pacific Coast.

SHOW FILMS OF WESTERN SCENERY.

Six motion picture films covering activities and scenes on the National Forests of the West have just been started out from the District Forester's office at Portland to certain forest headquarters in Oregon and Washington.

The pictures will be shown at local theatres in the smaller towns of the two states. The films going to the state of Washington are "Red Enemy" and "When Elk Come Down," each a two-reeler with an interesting story with action and much western scenery.

These are scheduled for Bellingham, Wenatchee, Tacoma, Okanogan, Chelan, Twisp, and towns nearby. The four films being sent out for Oregon are "Red Enemy," a two-reeler, "Future Forest Giants," "Roads to Wonderland" and "Golden Fleece," one reel each. These films are being routed to Roseburg, Mapleton, Cushman, Florence, Gardiner, Brookings, Gold Beach, Port Orford, Crescent City in southwestern Oregon, and to Wallowa, Enterprise, Baker, Prineville, Dufur, John Day, Prairie City and other towns of eastern Oregon.

A MOUNTAIN OF DEER.

"Watch out for Deer" is a precaution which motorists who visit the north rim of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado must observe if they insist upon driving after sundown through the Grand Canyon National Game Preserve.

"Under government protection," says the American Forestry Association, "the deer on the Kaibab Plateau of Northern Arizona have increased to such numbers that in driving through the forest openings or parks at night the motorist must take care not to run amuck of the deer, which have a way of becoming confused by the glare of the headlights."

In summer the deer congregate in the open park lands which dot the heavy forests. At dusk the deer come out of the forests in great numbers and an automobile trip may at that hour enable one to count between five and six hundred wild deer. It is one of the few places in America where one may readily hear fawns calling as they become separated from their mothers. Although the deer have not been hunted for years they are still very suspicious of attempts to stalk them.

SAWMILL FOR SALE, SOMEWHERE IN THE OZARKS.

- One hay-wire sawmill,
- Nice new location,
- Ten-mile haul
- To the shipping station.
- Half mile of plank road
- Rest of it mud,
- Six bridges, all condemned,
- But otherwise good.
- Timber yellow cypress
- Very few knots,
- Awfully sound
- Between rotten spots.
- Firebox boiler,
- Flues leak some,
- Injector patched
- With chewin' gum.
- Darn good whistle
- And carriage track,
- Nine feet left
- Of old smokestack.
- Belts a little ragged,
- Rats ate the laces,
- Head saw is cracked
- In a couple of places.
- The engine knocks
- And is loose on its base,
- And the fly wheel's broke
- In just one place.
- There's a pile of side lumber
- And a few cull ties,
- But they've been attached
- By some creditor guys.
- There's a mortgage on the land
- That's now past due,
- And I still owe
- For the machinery, too.
- But if you want to get rich
- Here's the place to begin
- For it's a darn good layout
- For the shape it's in.

HOO-HOO IN 1924

By C. D. LeMaster
Snark of the Universe

"This is the season for new resolutions; organizations as well as individuals going on record as to their ideals and purposes for the coming year.

"It is a pleasure, as Snark of the Domain of the Great Black Prince, to say for the membership of Hoo-Hoo:

"That we believe in the principles upon which the Order was founded;

"That, we as individuals, became members of Hoo-Hoo for the purpose of aiding in the promotion of those principles;

"That we are convinced that the aims and purposes, as set forth in our Code of Ethics, are the cardinal principles upon which progress is built;

"That we fully realize the responsibility and duty we owe to our industry;

"That we acknowledge that all benefits coming to us are the result of our Government and that we first owe allegiance and patriotic support to our instituted form of Government, its Constitution and Laws;

"That we believe, to be entitled to share in the business profits of our respective communities, we owe our support to their public institutions and their civic betterment;

"That we believe sincerely in the Golden Rule;

"That we have the courage of our convictions and stand united to champion those higher ideals which make for progress.

"There never was a time in the history of our industry when it was more urgent that lumbermen of all its branches needed to get together and discuss their problems thoroughly and carefully. One of the biggest and most worthy acts a Hoo-Hoo can perform is that of creating harmony among lumbermen.

"Association, one with the other, is a fundamental part in the scheme of human affairs and that association which is so necessary should be made pleasant and agreeable if better things are to be attained.

"Hoo-Hoo, therefore, will lend every effort to bring about understanding and unity of purpose.

"Our industry is our world. We helped to create it and will help to keep it on a high standard. To do this we must have the respect of others and to have and hold that respect, we, as individuals, will seek to give value and tone to our respective communities. We will devote our share of thought, time and money to educational, civic and moral purpose. We will co-operate with others, aid them and in return be aided, thereby advancing better social and business relations.

"We will seek to broaden our knowledge and develop our understanding of the complex questions which confront us, to the end that we may co-ordinate our efforts in helping to find an equitable solution for these problems.

"Therefore, in making the New Year resolution, we do so with the full knowledge of responsibility which it carries and unanimously say that we have the courage to carry our banner of progress even in the dark days of discouragement, to the ultimate end that our industry may be benefited thereby.

"To the various Lumber Trade associations of the country we wish to render lasting service.

"To the Trade Press, the megaphone which carries the news to the people of our industry, our doors are open and our hands ready to help.

"To the Forestry Department we would extend help in the formation and enlightenment of public sentiment in the United States of America, through such sound and practical principles of a National Forestry Policy as will contribute to the permanence of the lumber industry as one of the foundations of the nation's welfare and prosperity, thus insuring protection of all our standing timber and a re-imbuing of available waste lands, that permanent supply of timber may be vouchsafed society."

"To the citizens of this great Republic, we aspire to be a most valued asset to the country—an instrument of achievement and a symbol of progress."

FOUR MONTHS' PROSPERITY FOR OUR FAT, OLD CAT.

Like the "mighty oak that from a little acorn grew," spreading its sturdy limbs as each invigorating drop of new sap gave it the virility of a stronger life, Hoo-Hoo is responding to the strengthening influence of an ever increasing allegiance upon the part of the lumber industry.

Speaking for and demonstrating the ideals which gave it life, the Order and its principles daily are coming to be recognized more and more as the religion of the lumber industry. The activities of Hoo-Hoo during the past four months of the Hoo-Hoo year provide an insight into the view the industry is taking of the Order.

That this recognition on the part of the men making up the heart and soul of the industry is not confined to men who are just learning that the Big, Black Cat's message bespeaks the welfare of the industry and of society, is evidenced in the number of reinstatements received since the New Orleans Annual. The old cats who returned to the fold numbered 138.

And the most joyful feature of this return lies not in the mere fact of their returning, but that they came voluntarily. Needless to say, they're bound up heart and soul in the progress of Hoo-Hoo and the aims and ideals espoused by disciples of the Big, Black Cat.

Another source for rejoicing lies in the roster of new members enrolled at the twenty-six concatenations—459 ordinary and one life member—and everyone a loyal Hoo-Hoo and an ardent believer in the advantages of practicing the Golden Rule as taught in the realm of the Big, Black Cat.

The Hoo-Hoo Club idea is gaining popularity as a medium for weekly meetings and discussion, and five new clubs were organized during the period since the annual, making the total now in operation twenty-one. Plans are in progress for the formation of many more in the near future, and lumbermen are preparing for a wonderful spread of this excellent plan.

Right?

What's the use to kick one Who's just about to Fall?

If you do not care to help him,

Why mention him at all?

You will find, if you take notice,

That what is said is true:

While there may be faults in others

There's a flaw or two in you.

Ten Hoo-Hoo heard the great summons which eventually will call to all of us, and which all must answer, and to their loved ones was given the helping hand of Hoo-Hoo, in the form of the $100 benefit which goes to beneficiaries of all Hoo-Hoo in good standing.

Withal, the first four months of Hoo-Hoo year has produced such gratifying results, that it is with a feeling of optimistic confidence that we can all look forward to the eight months remaining of Hoo-Hoo year.

H. R. ISHERWOOD,
Secretary-Treasurer.

HOO-HOO, AS HOOD SEES IT.

A. A. Hood, state counselor of Minnesota, has a real grasp of the Hoo-Hoo idea. Here's his interpretation:

"Hoo-Hoo itself is the seed planted in the fertile heart and brain of lumbermen who embrace it. Its growth depends on individual and co-operative action. Fertilize this seed with the enervating power of enthusiasm, service, clean fun, and brotherhood, and you will find it growing like a beautiful tree. The strong trunk will be the Hoo-Hoo Lunch Club; the leaves and blossoms the beautifying of your individual lives, and the fruit the increased respect, admiration, and affection you read in the eyes of your fellow men."

KNOW YOUR HOO-HOO CLUB—ITS MEANING TO SOCIETY AND YOU.

Lumberdom has the distinction of being the first individual industry in the United States to establish for itself a localized medium for the exchange of thought, and for the union of spirit, purpose and friendship, as expressed in the ideals of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs.

The Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, with luncheon clubs in twenty-one of the leading cities of the United States, is accomplishing for the lumber industry today what Kiwanis and Rotary have meant to men of any and all branches of industry and commerce.

These twenty-one clubs have been organized to date, and are preaching the message of Hoo-Hoo—yes, and practicing it, too. They are welding closer bonds of personal friendships, they are making possible the discussion of points of vital interest to the industry, they are establishing friendly relationships between the families of Hoo-Hoo members; in other words, they are making better business men, better friends and better competitors of the men within the industry.

But even these highly desirable developments of this communion of thought and spirit do not tell the full story of Hoo-Hoo accomplishments. Organized under the constitution and by-laws of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, the international fraternal body of lumbermen, these clubs are begot of a broader and more commendable purpose—that of giving of the best that is in them to the betterment of society—to the making of the communities they call home better places in which to live.

The sole purpose of Hoo-Hoo as defined in the charter of the order, is to "Advance, Practice and Encourage Education, Science and Benevolence Among Its Members; to Promote Health, Happiness and Long Life Among Its Members." These basic fundamentals have their inception in the Golden Rule, and, when placed in operation in modern complex life, have a tremendous scope which dwarfs the mere printed words.

One might conclude that a fraternal organization made up of the backbone of an individual industry would devote all of its time, all of its thought and much of its money to the advancement of the monetary aims of that particular industry.

Such is not the case. Hoo-Hoo luncheons and meetings are the media for bringing together the various elements making up the industry, for the discussion of the things that will improve the industry, and in that program of improvement of the industry lies the basic thought that its improvement will make it an organization more capable of rendering service for the public good.

Hoo-Hoo achievements for public welfare can be traced directly as well as indirectly. Realizing the benefits which are certain to accrue from an unselfish policy of public-spirited effort, Hoo-Hoo is bringing its members closer to things purely civic. Many Hoo-Hoo clubs are already accomplishing much in the civic programs of their respective communities, while others are studying how they will best fit into the scheme of public things.

In the Hoo-Hoo idea of educating children in the planting and encouragement of the growth of trees, there lies a principle deeper than the mere actual planting of the seed—that of acquainting the youngster with the better ideals worth striving for. It inculcates in the mind of the youngster the thought that he shortly will be called upon to give of his best for the attainment of the ideals for which Hoo-Hoo speaks.

SAVING IT FOR YOU.

There is little or no printed matter or record pertaining to the lumber industry of the world which is lacking in the files of Hoo-Hoo headquarters in St. Louis, which is a library and a record room in itself. The data has been gathered during the thirty-four years of Hoo-Hoo life from every section and from persons possessed of interesting knowledge of the lumber industry.

WE GOT SO BIG WE HAD TO MOVE.

Secretary-Treasurer Isherwood and his staff of assistants are prepared to render even more efficiently than before the service which is available to all who hold membership in Hoo-Hoo.

This is made possible by the removal of the national headquarters into more commodious quarters in Suite 1268 Arcade Building, from Suite 1174, in the same building. An idea of the growth of Hoo-Hoo may be obtained from the knowledge that this removal was necessitated by the increased activities of the order throughout the land.

If you are selling green-houses to women, poor l'amour Mike, do not bewilder her with talks of specifications and instructions. Play upon her emotions in her love for stately roses and budding blooms about the house, the joy of crisp, dainty vegetables at meals. If you are selling refrigerators do not cause a puzzled pucker to appear on her brow, with blather about technically treated metals, but upon her joy in its sanitary qualities.

JUST WHAT WE NEED—HOW WE CAN GET IT.

A new venture into the field of publicity was undertaken by Secretary-Treasurer Isherwood previous to the wonderful Concatenation in Fort Wayne, Indiana, December 19, and the results indicate a new Hoo-Hoo opportunity.

News stories were sent to the Fort Wayne papers in advance of the concatenation, with the result that both the morning and afternoon papers devoted considerable space. One article, entitled "Hoo-Hoo," was an informative, inspirational story for the benefit of the public, which was reproduced word for word, as written.

This indicates clearly a willingness on the part of the newspapers to give to Hoo-Hoo a full measure of the publicity to which it is entitled, and the only requirements upon the Order is that we furnish the material for these stories at a seasonable time.

The publicity given to the Fort Wayne Concatenation resulted in an excellent attendance. Representatives of the newspapers were there, too, and the following day a complete story of the meeting was given.

Such publicity not only acquaints members and lumbermen with the activities of Hoo-Hoo, but also affords the public a knowledge of the work that Hoo-Hoo is doing for society. Officers of the order would help in this undertaking by furnishing complete details for meetings and concatenations well in advance of the dates.

National headquarters will do the rest.

THE BUILDING OUTLOOK, BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

Promise of a wonderful era of prosperity is indicated in the statement to President Coolidge recently of S. W. Straus of New York and Chicago, that at least $8,000,000,000 will be required to finance building operations in the near future.

Mr. Straus, who has financed the building of homes all over the United States, and whose operations in this line probably exceed those of any other ten men in the country, pictured to the President the growing need for homes.

What will be the result? There can be but one—continuation of good times in building work and good pay for mechanics for years to come. With everybody at work—and working for good wages—what will be the result? But one—an era of prosperity unsurpassed in building history.

AN ARMY ALWAYS AT THE FRONT—NARY A SLACKER.

A little army of officers, 172 men who have dedicated themselves to spreading doctrines of peace, health, happiness and long life—men whose efforts are inspired by a devotion to the cause they serve—believe the popular conviction that "the buck private does all the work."

They are the men making up the body of officers who guide the destinies of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo in its nine jurisdictions, and upon whose shoulders is cheerfully carried the burden of promoting the ideals and disseminating the achievements of the Great, Black Cat of Hoo-Hoo.

There could be no cause more unselfish than is theirs—the uniting of a single industry into a solid, healthy and capable organization whose aim and purpose it is to better the lives of those within the industry and to make that industry—lumber—a real contributing element to the prosperous and friendly life of communities.

Not only do they give unstinted of the time so valuable to them, but in many jurisdictions the officers have given their own cash to put over the message of the Black Cat in a more forceful manner. Their fighting forces, and they truly are fighting forces, devoted to a cause of peace, however, number more than 7000 throughout the land.

The banner under which these unsung heroes march bears no martial

CONCATENATION NEWS AND OTHERWISE

You've A Date With Minnie Apples!

Catland society is spreading itself for one of its greatest "coming out" parties—Minneapolis, January 16, Masonic Temple.

More than 100 unsophisticated kittens will make their debut in a big concat to be staged in connection with the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Northwestern Lumbermen's Association, January 15, 16 and 17.

The upper "crust" of Catland's 400 has been very busy for weeks getting everything ready for the advent of the kittens, and the report comes now that the scenes are all laid. "Tireless" Ted Jones, supreme scrivener; State Counselor A. A. Hood; Vicegerent Snark Roy Thompson and Albert S. Bliss, president of the Minneapolis Hoo-Hoo Club, have been hard at work for the big event and have communicated their enthusiasm far and wide.

CAT ALL SET FOR BIG CONCAT AT INDIANAPOLIS.

The Big, Black Cat will be on the boards at the convention of the Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers' Association in Indianapolis, January 16, 17 and 18.

The first night's program has been given over to the cat and his disciples, and plans are being laid for a wonderful concatenation. The attendance of a great number of Hoo-Hoo and lumbermen is assured by the fact that delegates to the convention will come from all parts of the state.

A. J. Hager, supreme junior Hoo-Hoo, has promised to be on hand, and, after the peppy concat held recently in Fort Wayne, which he attended, will come fortified with the conviction that there isn't a lumberman in Indiana who cannot afford to go Hoo-Hoo.

CALL THIS VICEGERENT "JIM"—HE LIKES IT!

He's Jim Lewis, the new vicegerent of the Lufkin, Texas, district, where he is affectionately esteemed by the lumber fraternity. His mail generally is addressed to James W. Lewis, care of the Martin Wagon Company of Lufkin, but it'll get there just as well, Jim says, if it's addressed to "Jim" Lewis. His appointment was a well-chosen one, as he commands the respect and admiration of a host of friends in his district.

Big Hoo-Hoo Program

There'll be big Hoo-Hoo doings throughout the States and 'way up in Canada during the next two months. The big, black cat, all "pepped" up about the prospects for Hoo-Hoo growth in 1924, will be host to many lumbermen who have but awaited his coming to join his big family of happy and prosperous kins.

Plans for fourteen Concatenations have already been completed for January and February, eleven of them in connection with meetings of retail lumbermen's associations. In placing Hoo-Hoo on their programs, these associations have evinced an interest in the promotion of the aims and ideals of Hoo-Hoo, which speak for the unification of the industry for its own betterment and for the good that a united lumberdom can achieve for society.

Here is the schedule of Concatenations during January and February:

- January 7—St. Paul, Minn.—J. L. Villame, V. G.
- January 16—Indianapolis, Ind.—Homer Wilson, V. G. In connection with Indiana Retail Lumber Dealers' Association Annual Meeting.
- January 16—Minneapolis, Minn.—Roy Thompson, V. G. In connection with Northwestern Retail Lumber Dealers' Annual Meeting.
- January 17—Denver, Colo.—A. S. Chappell, V. G. In connection with Mountain States Retail Lumber Dealers' Annual Meeting.
- January 19—Fresno, Calif.—H. E. Verble, V. G.
- January 23—Kansas City, Mo.—In connection with Southwestern Retail Lumbermen's Annual Meeting.
- January 24—Winnipeg, Canada—Theo. Sparks, V. G. In connection with Western Retail Lumbermen's Annual Meeting.
- January 24—Oakland, Calif.—A. B. Wastell, V. G. In connection with Western Retail Lumbermen's Annual Meeting.
- January 30—Davenport, Iowa—In connection with Southeastern Iowa Retail Lumbermen's Annual Meeting.
- January 30—Lansing, Mich.—B. S. Thatcher, V. G.
- February 5—New York City—In connection with Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Annual Meeting.
- February 6—Grand Rapids, Mich.—A. M. Manning, V. G. In connection with Michigan Retail Lumber Dealers' Annual Meeting.
- February 6—Creston, Iowa—In connection with Southwestern Iowa Retail Lumbermen's Annual Meeting.
- February 13—Milwaukee—E. O. Ehlert, V. G. In connection with Wisconsin Retail Lumber Dealers' Annual Meeting.
- February 21—Los Angeles—H. L. Rosenberg, V. G. In connection with Western Retail Lumber Dealers' Annual Institute.

AN OFFICIAL CAT—BUT NOT OFFICIOUS!

Meet Hoo-Hoo Hinkle, No. 25506, governor of New Mexico!

The Democrats seated him in the executive mansion, January 1, 1923. He has been a cat since March 14, 1911, having been enrolled at a concatenation at Roswell, New Mexico. And he never forgets his affection for Hoo-Hoo, despite the arduous requirements of his administrative office. His full name is James Fielding Hinkle and his address, The Executive Office, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Who Put the Hoo in Houston?

Before Vicegerent Snark J. E. Griffith of the Houston district gets through Houston will be pronounced Hoo-ston, like the Hoo in Hoo-Hoo.

At least, so it seems from his recent conduct and his predictions for the future of Hoo-Hoo in the Texas city. There was a meeting of representative Hoo-Hoo on December 18, attended by wholesalers, manufacturers, retailers and millmen, and it was decided then and there to give Houston a real, live Hoo-Hoo camp.

No words were wasted—all pep was conserved for the grand drive, which began at a luncheon at the Rice Hotel, Tuesday, January 8. The vicegerent appointed a live-wire committee to work with him and they obtained the consent of such notables as J. S. Dionne, publisher of the Gulf Coast Lumberman; Lynch Davidson, who heads the largest chain of lumber yards in South Texas and also is freely spoken of as the next governor of that state; Harry Kendall, general sales agent of the Kirby Lumber Company, and J. S. Bonner, general sales manager of the Humble Oil and Refining Company.

Another committee, also full of pep, has been at work arranging stunts and other enthusiasm-raising ideas. Old Hoo-Hoo heads in the south are being used in an advisory capacity, explaining the numerous advantages to lumbermen which goes to them with a membership in Hoo-Hoo.

Most important of all, this fellow Vicegerent Griffith, the man who is putting Hoo-Hoo in Houston, is planning a big concatenation for some time between January 25 and 30. That's fast work.

P. P. BUTLER MADE BEAUMONT VICEGERENT.

P. P. Butler, of Beaumont, Texas, has been appointed vicegerent snark of the Beaumont district by Supreme Jabberwock J. H. Kurth.

The new vicegerent is secretary-manager of the Beaumont Export and Import Company. He fits right into the shoes so capably worn by Rex Browne, the former vicegerent, who has been honored by his appointment to the rank of State counselor. Mr. Butler is one of the most popular lumbermen in the Beaumont district and is a true disciple of the doctrines of Hoo-Hoo. His appointment assures continued health and prosperity for the cause in that district.

Where Did These Kittens Go?

Somebody must have "let the cat out of the bag" before the unique concatenation of the Los Angeles Hoo-Hoo Club December 14, as the attendance at the dinner at the City Club, not expected to exceed fifty, was one hundred fifteen.

And those who came in response to the invitation and who went through the whole concatenation with the class of seventeen kittens, were well rewarded for their attendance. With the seventeen innocent kittens blindfolded, a small parade started from the club building. Eighty-seven old cats formed an escort to a fleet of waiting automobiles.

The seventeen kittens don't know to this day where they went or what devices were used to usher them into the Realm of the Cat, and all that the sage, old cats will reveal is that there was an automobile parade twenty-five miles and at the end of that distance the kittens were put through their paces in a setting especially selected.

The concatenation was of such novel character that the old cats, who declared it a howling success, are not going to reveal any of the details. They're saving it all for another big class of kittens.

The old saying that "monkey sees, monkey does," must also apply to cats, for the eighty-seven cats who were in on the ground floor at the concatenation, and three others who were reinstated, had difficulty in restraining their own impulses to join in the antics of the kittens. Some did participate, at that.

Vicegerent Snark Herman L. Rosenberg, whose enthusiastic boosting for Hoo-Hoo in his district is largely responsible for the excellent Hoo-Hoo spirit there, said the concat was one of the most pleasing ever held in the state, although no effort was made to enroll kittens for the event. He points out that there is a strong tendency among eligibles in his district to go Hoo-Hoo without urging, and he expects that the next class will be one of the largest in Hoo-Hoo history.

VICEGERENT DAVIS REAPPOINTED.

Supreme Jabberwock J. H. Kurth believes in the old saying "that it's a poor policy to change horses in mid-stream."

So he has reappointed A. O. Davis, of Shreveport, Louisiana, as vicegerent of the Shreveport district. Mr. Davis has done such excellent work in the promotion of Hoo-Hoo ideals during his year's service as vicegerent that Mr. Kurth deemed him the ideal man to remain on the job for another year. His appointment was well-chosen and assures Hoo-Hoo of the continued prosperity which has marked its past history in that district.

SIXTEEN YEARS IN HARNESS, THIS VICEGERENT IS STILL "ALL PEP."

R. A. Whitlock.

R. A. Whitlock, vicegerent of the southern Texas, district, has been on the job nearly sixteen years and he's still going strong!

He's just as much attached to his Hoo-Hoo office as he is to his job as vice-president of the El Paso Lumber Company, of El Paso, and needless to say, he holds a place in the affectionate esteem of the industry in his district.

Just to show that sixteen years of service as vicegerent haven't dulled his pep, Brother Whitlock is preparing one of the biggest concatenations in the history of his district, to be held during the 1924 annual of the Lumbermen's Association of Texas, at El Paso, April 8, 9 and 10.

It was just two months and seven days after he became Hoo-Hoo that Brother Whitlock assumed the robes of the vicegerent. He was initiated March 11, 1908, and was invited in May to accept the post, which he did. He was officially notified of his appointment in a letter of June 5, of the same year, and ever since he's been right on the job.

He sits in a Hoo-Hoo atmosphere all day. Close at hand is one of the oldest and most esteemed of Hoo-Hoo—C. S. Woodworth, president of the El Paso Lumber Company, who is No. 16. Besides he's Brother Whitlock's father-in-law.

Right with him is his brother-in-law, Fred Woodworth, Hoo-Hoo, No. 26122, who is secretary-treasurer of the firm and a loyal booster for the Big, Black Cat.

Sort of runs in the family, eh?

Snark Hears Kittens Purr At Stockton Concat

With Snark of the Universe LeMaster, Parson Simpkin and a lot of lively old cats on the job, Vicegerent Williamson put on a peach of a concat at Stockton, December 8, in connection with the meeting of the Lumbermen's Club of Central California.

It was Ladies' Day and, as usual with cats, they can't restrain fun-loving and boyish tendencies when their tabbies are around. Some unique stunts livened up the luncheon. In the midst of the fun someone thoughtfully suggested that a Christmas gift to the Children's Home of Stockton would be in order. A hearty response was given and $25 was sent to provide a merry Christmas for the kiddies.

Snark LeMaster and the parson were called upon for talks, and their remarks were extremely appropriate for the occasion. Then the vicegerent laid the scene for the concat in Wilson's restaurant. The line-up of his team contained the names of the parson and Brothers Trower, Weylan, Cornwall and Kickok. Walter Baker was the junior Hoo-Hoo and he did a fine job of it.

Thirty-two Hoo-Hoo were on hand. Eight kittens trekked slowly and carefully into the Realm of the Cat, and one reinstatement was received. The success of this concat demonstrated that Vicegerent Williamson is a go-getter and a real tower of strength for Hoo-Hoo in his district.

Snark LeMaster announced that a concat will be held at Oakland, January 26. Vicegerent Wastell will have charge and he promises a class of more than fifty kittens. There also will be a big concat in Fresno in the very near future, Snark LeMaster said.

THE LINE-UP—VERBLE'S TEAM.

You can't keep a good cat down—much less one who is inspired by the fact that he's a vicegerent snark.

There's H. E. Verble, of Fresno, for instance, vicegerent of the San Joaquin Valley district. "Action" is his middle name. He has already lined up his NINE and is laying plans for two whirlwind concats.

Here are the NINE: H. E. Verble, vicegerent snark; E. M. Prescott, senior Hoo-Hoo; A. J. Lucas, junior Hoo-Hoo; P. N. Nordstrom, bojum; E. L. Smith, scrivener; Martin D. Johnson, jabberwock; Cecil W. Bingham, custocatian; Earl J. Eyeman, arcanoper; R. W. Bagby, gurdon.

The first concat will be staged about January 19, the vicegerent announces, while the second has been set for May 30, at the logging operations camp of the Sugar Pine Lumber Company, fifty miles from Fresno, in the Sierra Nevada mountains. This should be a thrilling concat and one well worth traveling miles to see.

Cats—Vintage of '93!

The prevalence of hirsute adornment in this group bears out the statement of Vicegerent Snark D. A. Williamson of the Sacramento Valley District, that it was taken at Hot Springs, Ark., January 25, 1893, two days after Concatenation No. 20 at Camden, Arkansas.

The Cats in the group were guests of the Arkansas Lumber Dealers' Association. The inset is a recent photograph of Vicegerent Williamson and, if you're good at tracing a resemblance, you can find him in the group picture also. He furnished the group photograph and the facts concerning it. Here were those who entered the Realm of the Cat at that very early stage in Hoo-Hoo History: No. 209, Curtis Daniel Meeker, Monticello, Ind.; No. 210, David Abel Williamson, Wil- lows, Calif.; No. 211, Harry Paulinus Wiborg, Cincinnati; No. 212, William Charles Pulse, Greensburg, Ind.; No. 213, George Wesley Eicholtz, Indianapolis; No. 215, Edward Francis Kane, Houston; No. 217, Horace Taylor Bennett, Manatee, Florida; No. 218, Warren Alfred Mason, Butler, Ind.; No. 219, William Samuel Brannum, Chicago; No. 227, Henry Clay Dresden, South Bend; No. 229, Walter Herbert Scott, Grundy Center, Iowa; No. 233, Arthur Clark Ramsey, Nashville, Ark.; No. 244, Edward Albert Hildreth, Columbus, Ohio, and No. 248, Morris Adelbert Hayward, Detroit.

A close inspection will reveal a striking resemblance between the recent picture of Vicegerent Williamson and the man with his back to the column in the center of the group, immediately behind the man holding the emblem of the Cat. The man holding the emblem is M. S. Huey of Indianapolis.

SAGINAW ORGANIZES CLUB AFTER LIVELY CONCATENATION.

When H. J. Zahnow, the newly appointed vicegerent snark of the Saginaw district has a job to do he does it thoroughly—as the splendid meeting and Concatenation the evening of December 7 will attest.

Thirty happy and enthusiastic Hoo-Hoo of the Saginaw district, aided by twelve equally hale and hearty Hoo-Hoo of Lansing, moved with celerity and delight through every feature of an excellent program, including a fine fish dinner.

The Saginaw Club was the scene of the affair. Thirteen kittens—and every one of them a lumberman of standing in his community—went through the antics required of juvenile cats and came out grinning and happy. The Concat took place in the ballroom of the club.

Supreme Junior Hoo-Hoo A. J. Hager, of Lansing, who, unlike the cat who sleeps with one eye open, as usual had both optics focused on the welfare of Hoo-Hoo when he assumed the rostrum in response to an invitation to speak. He outlined the wonderful ideals of Hoo-Hoo, and took the occasion to suggest for the benefit of the Saginaw Hoo-Hoo that they organize a Hoo-Hoo Luncheon Club. Preliminary steps to accomplish this were taken at once.

B. F. Hall, Jr., president of the Lansing Club then invited the Saginaw Hoo-Hoo to sit in with the Lansing Club at a dinner and meeting the evening of December 12. Secretary-Treasurer Isherwood also had something to say of Hoo-Hoo ideals and achievements.

After a general discussion steps were taken to organize the Hoo-Hoo Luncheon Club of Saginaw, as suggested by Mr. Hager, to be known as No. 19. Vicegerent Zahnow then appointed as temporary officers J. McCorkle, chairman, and F. A. Ricks, secretary.

Watch this club, it will be a live one.

A mule cannot pull while kicking nor kick while pulling; neither can you.

SENATOR WOODS TAKES HOO-HOO STUMP.

E. E. Woods, an old political chieftain in his own neck of the woods, Oklahoma, has taken the stump for Hoo-Hoo.

Supreme Bojym J. H. Allen has appointed Mr. Woods State Counselor of Oklahoma, and the appointment certainly was a well-chosen one. Mr. Woods, who is located at Claremore, Oklahoma, where he is local manager of the O. E. Woods Lumber Company, has served one term as a member of the State Legislature and another in the State Senate.

S. E. Woods (18717) State Counselor, State of Oklahoma, Claremore, Okla.

He's an old head at the lumber business, too, having devoted the past eighteen years to the industry. Although he has considerable basis for feeling satisfied with himself, Brother Woods is so modest that, in referring to his second election, he says: "I had enough sense to quit before being retired by the voters."

His appointment assures Hoo-Hoo of an enthusiastic and vigorous booster. His knowledge of the industry and his faith in co-ordinated effort is indicated by the fact that he is First Vice President of the Southwestern Lumbermen's Association.

CONCAT IN THE SNARK'S HOME TOWN.

A goodly bunch of kittens is being prepped by Vicegerent Verble to make the journey into catland under the paternal eye of the Big Cat.

Fresno, Calif., the home of Snark Le Master, will be the scene of this concat, January 19. The snark of the universe will lend his presence to make this an auspicious event in California Hoo-Hoo history. Vicegerent Verble promises that the cat won't come down off his hind legs until his bunch of kittens has been enrolled into the fold.

To attain success use your "eyes" instead of your "I's."

Parson Puts "Pep" in Coos Bay Cat

The admonition to "let sleeping dogs lie" may be all right as far as dogs are concerned, but it doesn't apply in the case of cats, contends Parson Simpkin.

So he went to the Coos Bay District, December 11, and woke the cat up so quickly that it ran amuck. The parson spoke to the lumbermen at lunch at the Chandler Hotel at Marshfield on the 14th, his topic being, "The Need for Intelligent Organization."

Frank A. Rowe presided and the meeting proved to be so interesting that the parson departed with a number of Hoo-Hoo pledges. The night of the 14th saw the parson at the North Bend Hotel, North Bend, where, with William B. Mack sitting as snark and assisted by Carl G. Bock, A. T. Lagerstrom, F. A. Rowe and the parson, a short concat was held, in which ten kittens walked the pathway to catland. There were nine reinstatements.

The roof session following was a smoker at which plans were laid for a concat in January, and it is anticipated that Carl C. Crowe of Portland, the state counselor, and other Portland Hoo-Hoo will participate.

Among those intimated and reinstated at North Bend were many of the most prominent members of the industry in the district, including William Druman, who was chairman of the United States Shipping Board during the administration of Woodrow Wilson.

The parson had the enthusiastic assistance of Billy Mack, F. A. Rowe and L. M. Learles in his Coos Bay work. Others who may be relied upon to give of their best to Hoo-Hoo in western Oregon are Curad Vaughan, Will Street, F. A. Warner, L. G. Simpson, Paul Bock, N. A. Buckrud and others of their caliber.

HAIL! THE PRODIGAL CAT!

When the prodigal son returned to the family fold there was great rejoicing and the fattened calf, so they say, met his Waterloo.

But the happy little household of the Biblical story can feel no greater thrill of joy and pride in the return of the son than Hoo-Hoo feels in the reinstatement of one of its most beloved Old Cats, Willard Giles Hollis.

Since his graduation as a mechanical engineer in 1878, Mr. Hollis has been an outstanding figure in the lumber industry of the land. Since his Concatenation at Omaha, Nebraska, March 9, 1892, he has been a devoted and enthusiastic disciple of the teachings of the Big, Black Cat.

Even before he had passed from Kittenland into the Realm of the Cat, Mr. Hollis had begun to write Hoo-Hoo history. His application was a masterpiece and stands as a permanent Hoo-Hoo record. It was written by Mr. Hollis, as follows:

Willard Giles Hollis.

A true and devoted follower of the Black Cat. Residence (temporary) 9th Street and Nicollet Avenue., Minneapolis. Residence (after April 1, 1892) nineteen miles from Minneapolis. Office (now) 939 ninth floor, Lumber Exchange. Heir apparent to W. G. Hollis estate, now nine years old. Up to and including the present date have attended nine Lumber conventions.

Always eat nine courses at dinner and prepared at all times to eat nine meals per day if necessary.

My Application.

W. G. Hollis,
Secretary Northwestern Lumbermen's Association.

Mr. Hollis was with the Washburn Mill Company of Minneapolis for eleven and a half years. He became secretary of the Northwestern Lumbermen's Association in February, 1890. In 1894 the Retail Lumbermen's Insurance Association was organized and the boards of directors of these organizations got together and elected Mr. Hollis as secretary-manager of the joint organizations.

The suggestion of Mr. Hollis that a rule be adopted permitting the writing of insurance only for members of the lumbermen's association, either state or regional, according to the territory in which they did business, was approved by the directors. There was a rapid and healthy growth for the organizations under the guidance of Mr. Hollis, and this prominent Cat earned for himself the admiration and affection of the industry of the land.

After twenty-seven years in the field of association work, the directors voted Mr. Hollis a lifetime salary and gave him the permanent title of chairman of the board. His health was somewhat impaired and he was not active for some time. Fortunately, he's regained his health and the first thing he has thought of is to get busy in behalf of the doctrines of Confidence, Friendship and Co-operation.

When killing the fattened calf, don't forget Willard Giles Hollis, No. 49.

Willard Giles Hollis, No. 49.

Fort Wayne's Way

This group of Cats, Kittens and Lumbermen made the Fort Wayne Concat one of the liveliest in Hoo-Hoo history. Vicegerent Snark John Suelzer, Jr., who did sterling work in promoting the event, is shown in the insert.

FORT WAYNE RALLIES TO HOO-HOO.

When it comes to putting on a rousing concatenation, Vicegerent Snark John Suelzer, Jr., is something of a—what is that slang expression—cat's mee-ow!

He demonstrated this December 19 by bringing together at the Anthony Hotel in Fort Wayne fifty-two of the leading lumbermen of that city and surrounding territory for Fort Wayne's first Hoo-Hoo concatenation, which was followed by a business session for the purpose of getting under way the first Hoo-Hoo Club in the state of Indiana.

A banquet was the first thing on the program—and man, it was a real feed! The digestion of those present was tuned up by a number of lively Hoo-Hoo songs. The Vicegerent sat in as toastmaster and chairman. The first thing he did was to call upon the popular Supreme Junior Hoo-Hoo, A. J. Hager, for a speech.

Naturally, the subject being uppermost in his heart and mind, the latter devoted his talk to the value of Hoo-Hoo in bringing together the various elements of lumberdom. He was followed by Clayton Root, secretary of the Indiana Retailers' Association, who spoke on the importance of developing those necessary fundamentals of co-operative progress—friendship and confidence.

Knowing what was on the boards in Fort Wayne, Secretary-Treasurer Isherwood couldn't remain at home and was very much present. He laid particular stress upon the importance of the Hoo-Hoo Luncheon Club as a center of civic, social and commercial interests for the lumbermen.

All of the speechmaking was in advance of the big feature—the concat. There were only eleven men in the room who were already Hoo-Hoo. When the applications were counted up it was found that more than thirty others were ready to espouse the cause of the Big, Black Cat.

The room was cleared and everything made ready for the entrance of the candidates into the Land of the Cat. This was accomplished in a very impressive and interesting manner. The humorous phases of the concat delighted the candidates, while the more serious side made an evident impression.

The business session followed the concat. Snark Suelzer appointed temporary officers to call another meeting for January 9, at which permanent officers will be selected and the first Hoo-Hoo Club in the state of Indiana organized. This club will take in all of the territory contiguous to Fort Wayne and will be one of the leading Hoo-Hoo clubs of the land.

Congratulations, Vicegerent Suelzer!

Trusty Friends.

Rich is the person who can count among his acquaintances a group of "Trusty Friends."

HAGER'S HINTS HIT HOME.

Entering the tomb of old King Tut has nothing on a visit to Catland in the matter of thrilling prospects, at least not when Supreme Junior Hoo-Hoo A. J. Hager has anything to do with it. Mr. Hager dispelled for candidates at the Fort Wayne concatenation, December 19, any impression that they were about to go through "just another lodge initiation," when he advised them in advance, as follows:

"Don't wink at the conductor, he may think that you want something with a kick in it and you may get it.

"Don't forget to remember that you are the goat.

"You won't need to give the sign of distress; everyone will see it in your face.

"Prepare for the worst, it is the best you will get.

"Every little while, stop, look and listen.

"Don't worry about what comes next—it has all been arranged and you will get it without a hitch.

"Don't crowd the man ahead of you. At the same time, keep ahead of the man behind; he may also be in a hurry.

"You will thoroughly enjoy the work—the second time you see it.

"In conclusion, will say that every old cat watching you eventually regained his health."

The man who thinks he's the Big Gun finds out how little he is when he's fired.

More Power to You, Herman!

All work and no play may make Jack a dull boy, but it has no effect on Herman, meaning Herman L. Rosenberg, modest and energetic vicegerent snark of the Los Angeles Hoo-Hoo district.

For Herman makes play of his work. He's busy now, sleeves rolled up and all enthused about the part Hoo-Hoo is going to play in making a success of the twenty-first annual institute of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, which will be held in Los Angeles from February 18 to 23, inclusive.

Herman is planning one of the biggest concatenations in the land for Hoo-Hoo night at the convention, February 21. This will not be an affair just for members of Hoo-Hoo or kittens, as the vicegerent, who also is president of the Los Angeles Hoo-Hoo Club, has invited all of the delegates to the meeting to join with Hoo-Hoo in this big celebration. While the katts and the kittens are visiting the Realm of the Cat, the Ladies will be guests of the Hoo-Hoo Club at a theater party.

Hoo-Hoo will also devote much of their time to showing visitors to the city the various interesting sights, Vicegerent Rosenberg has announced. The entire club is co-operating in this program with the idea of making both the Hoo-Hoo concatenation and the convention outstanding events in the lumber industry.

And kittens, ah, that's what is occupying Herman's mind to the fullest these days! In a recent concatenation by the club there was a large group of kittens, despite the fact that no effort was made to procure them. This, the vicegerent says, indicates such a favorable sentiment toward Hoo-Hoo on the part of lumbermen that it is not in the least difficult to muster a small army of kittens on short notice.

The invitation of the vicegerent to the visiting lumbermen is to "come right in make yourself at home and borrow the keys to unlock each of the nine doors to Hoo-Hoo hospitality."

HOLLIS PLANS LUMBERMEN'S SUMMER TOUR OF NORTHWEST.

"All aboard for the Retail Lumbermen's Inland Empire and West Coast Summer Tour, No. 1."

Sounds like the alluring invitation of a steamship agency to see the historical sights of the Old World or to drift on the tides of romantic tropical seas. But it's neither.

It's an invitation from Brother William Giles Hollis, No. 49, to join in a tour of the West Coast of the United States and Canada—an opportunity for lumbermen to see in operation the mills and lumber manufactories of this great empire, and in the summer, when they are busy and readily accessible.

A special train running on special schedule and carrying from 125 to 150 lumbermen, under Brother Hollis' plan, would travel to designated points in the Inland Empire, and at each stop there would be meetings with manufacturers and discussion of vital subjects to the industry, such as "Short and Odd Lengths," "Substitutions" and "Grades and Sizes."

Mr. Hollis has estimated that the individual cost for the entire trip, including stops at such places as Longriver, Raymond, South Bend, Tacoma, Seattle, Everett, Bellingham, Vancouver, B. C., Powell River B. C., then back to Seattle, Snoqualmie Falls, and Spokane; down the lake and river to St. Maries and back to the starting point at Minneapolis would not exceed $250. This includes everything.

The arrangements for the tour are in a tentative stage, but Mr. Hollis already has received a number of pledges to make the journey. It certainly should be an excellent time and opportunity to make such a tour and should have just one result—promoting further and better relationships between the men making up the industry of the Northwest—retailers and manufacturers alike.

A CLEAN COLLAR AND YOUR OWN PAJAMAS

All you'll have to bring to The Thirty-third Annual
Minneapolis, Sept. 8-9-10

A REAL CONCAT FOR THE BIG TOWN.

There's quite a difference between "taking the bull by the horns" and "throwing the bull."

Take, for instance, the newly appointed and youthful Vicegerent, Tom Jenkins, Jr., of the New York City district; F. W. Naylor, the indefatigable state counselor, and Supreme Arcanoper J. A. Mahlstedt. They have taken the bull by the horns, but they haven't thrown him.

Instead, they've lined things up for a red-hot concat at the Pennsylvania Hotel in New York City the evening of February 5, in connection with the convention of the Northeastern Retail Lumbermen's Association, and besides have made arrangements for a Hoo-Hoo booth at the hotel during the entire convention, February 5, 6 and 7.

A real, live concat this will be, comes the word from these live-wire cats—one, in fact, that will be a credit to Hoo-Hoo history.

Your head is the greatest pal you ever had. It is anxious to help you.

Unless a man's NO is respected, his YES will be doubted.

Duluth's Gay Kittens Now Happy Cats!

Twenty-four eager and glossy kittens frolicked delightedly under the affectionate and paternal gaze of a bunch of old cats at an immensely interesting Concatenation in Duluth, December 14.

Vicegerent Snark H. S. Robb of the Duluth district had emitted quite a few far-reaching catcalls before the time for the meeting, and there was an excellent attendance from Minneapolis, St. Paul, Cloquet, Minn., and Superior, Wis.

Supreme Scrivener Ted T. Jones headed a large delegation from Minneapolis, which included A. C. Lauran, Paul Carlson, Grant Gray, T. M. Partridge, A. J. Berndgard, Roy Norbeck. Vicegerent Snark Julius Villuame of St. Paul also was on the job. The total attendance was eighty.

The Spaulding Hotel was the scene of the doings. An excellent orchestra was on hand and a fine feed was served. The entertainment committee, composed of Harvey Strassburger, William Burns and Philip Heimbach, did its part to making the affair a lively one from the standpoint of entertainment.

Vicegerent Robb's ineffable grin betokened the satisfaction he was entitled to feel at the enthusiastic turnout, for he had worked like a Trojan to make the affair the success it was. An interesting feature of the attendance of the delegation from the Twin Cities was the delaying of a train for one hour to permit them to see the concat through to the finish. The Soo line had hooked on three cars to bring the Hoo-Hoo to Duluth and the train didn't go back home until the cats were ready to be on the move.

The work of Vicegerent Robb in staging the party was imitated by Junior Hoo-Hoo Howard Carrier, whose conduct at the ceremonial stamped him as one of the leading Junior Hoo-Hoo of the country.

BECKWITH APPOINTED STATE COUNSELOR.

Scrivener Ted T. Jones used excellent judgment in appointing H. E. Beckwith, of Chetek, Wisconsin, state counselor for Wisconsin.

Mr. Beckwith, besides being president of the Chetek Lumber and Supply Company, operating a line of yards in northern Wisconsin, also is president of the Wisconsin Retail Dealers' Association. He has a wide acquaintance among lumbermen of the state and is recognized as a man of action.

His appointment assures that the Big, Black Cat will not suffer for want of attention in the state, and it assures Hoo-Hoo of the services of a man well qualified to assist in the direction of its future.

Congratulations, Counselor Beckwith; likewise Scrivener Jones!

New York Names Naylor Counselor; Jenkins Made Vicegerent

Sickness and inclement weather cut down the attendance, but a cyclone couldn't have detracted from the enthusiasm which characterized the dinner and concatenation in the McAlpin Hotel, New York City, the night of December 5.

Four kittens took the trail from darkness into the Land of the Cat. Following this there was a dandy dinner and speeches concerning the welfare and progress of Hoo-Hoo by Supreme Arcanoper J. A. Mahlstedt, State Counselor George W. Whitbread, Past Supreme Gurdo P. J. Wilson, and Brother

Cats Macauley, Varcoe and others.

The energetic and accomplished Vicegerent Snark F. W. Naylor then was unanimously nominated to succeed Brother Whitbread as State Counselor of New York, the nomination being approved by Supreme Arcanoper Mahlstedt. Mr. Naylor pledged himself to devote his utmost energy in carrying on the excellent work of his predecessor, George Whitbread, who has earned for himself the undying admiration and gratitude of Hoo-Hoo of the New York district.

Needing a live-wire Vicegerent to fill the ever-moving boots of Brother Naylor, Tom A. Jenkins, Jr., was suggested for the place, and his nomination was approved by the Supreme Arcanoper. Mr. Jenkins, a young man full of that mystic condiment called "pep," is connected with the firm of Arthur E. Lane & Company, well-known New York wholesalers. Mr. Jenkins not only has the acquaintance of a great many New Yorkers, but has won for himself the very necessary assets of a good vicegerent—the friendship and confidence of the industry.

coat of arms, nothing, in fact, but these words: "Friendship, Confidence, Education and the Golden Rule." They wear no uniforms and there is no pay-day; Hoo-Hoo luncheons are their "chow call;" Concatenations their oath of allegiance and victory the achievement of those ideals for which Hoo-Hoo speaks.

The Supreme Nine—the big chieftains whose devotion to the cause of Hoo-Hoo has won them the admiration and respect of lumberdom—direct the Black Cat's forces, each having an individual jurisdiction.

Then come the State Counselors—thirty of them—who have been appointed by the respective Supreme officers and who counsel with their chiefs on matters pertaining to the general welfare and progress of Hoo-Hoo, and who assist and advise in the matter of selecting the Vicegerent Snarks for the different districts of his state.

Next are the Vicegerent Snarks—men upon each of whose shoulders falls the burden of carrying Hoo-Hoo's message in the community in which he lives—and who are placed in a position to render service to the industry and to their fellow men that would not be afforded them outside the realm of the Big, Black Cat.

Then comes the House of Ancients—seventeen honored members whose devotion is unquestioned—men who act in an advisory capacity to the Supreme Nine. Their qualifications are based on a long and thorough understanding of the ideals of Hoo-Hoo and they constantly strive for their attainment.

Too much praise cannot be given these men—men who are reflecting in their daily lives the happiness and prosperity that the strict application of the Golden Rule has brought to them, and who are eagerly striving to acquaint the less informed with the tremendous influence for good expressed in the doctrines of Hoo-Hoo.

CATNIP—NOT BULL!

"Say, Old Timer," observed the toothy brindle to his back-fence friend, the Big, Black Tomcat, "how'd you ever develop your vocal talents? I listened to you all last night and every time you yowled another member of your family yowled down the alley; real friendly like, too."

"Well, ain't it a lot better to yowl all night than to growl every time anybody comes near enough to say 'howdy' to you? The only guys who don't like my voice are birds like your boss, and he's always got the hammer out."

"I tried to learn your refrain," responded the brindle, gloomily, "but it sounded like an elephant tryin' to mock a roller canary. Tell me why it is that I can't do as you do and why nobody seems to like me. Seems to me I'm missin' out on a lotta fun and friends."

"Sure you are," returned the sage old Tommy, "and if you were a cat I wouldn't have to tell you how to do it. You'd just naturally want to make friends so they'd stroke your back and let you eat all the mice in the house. But the trouble with you is—yes, and that bird who owns you, too—is that you're both too full of bull!"

IOWA RETAILERS EXTEND INVITATION FOR CONCAT.

There's a welcome on the mat for the Big, Black Cat at the convention of the Iowa Retail Lumbermen's Association, in Creston, Iowa, in February.

After a meeting of the officers and directors of the association, December 4, it was announced that an invitation was extended to Hoo-Hoo to take over the second night's program of the convention, February 6, for a live-wire concatenation.

W. S. Richardson, of the association, is collaborating with Secretary-Treasurer Isherwood in arranging plans for the concat. Parson Simpkin, chaplain of Hoo-Hoo, has been invited to address the association on the afternoon following the concat.

The friendly spirit of co-operation which has stamped the relations between the association and Hoo-Hoo assures a large class of candidates and a goodly number of reinstatements.

VICEGERENT OLSON—YOUNG, BUT ALL HOO-HOO!

"Youth will be served," some sage once remarked, and while that doesn't always prove to be the case, Supreme Jabberwock J. H. Kurth made no mistake in his appointment of the popular and energetic young lumberman, C. H. Olson, president of the Atlas Lumber Company of Waco, Texas, as vicegerent snark of the Waco district.

Mr. Olson is well-known and well-liked in his community and, possessed of the real spirit of Hoo-Hoo, he should find little difficulty in making excellent progress for Hoo-Hoo in the Waco district.

Twin Cities Lead Again

AL IS MY NAME—NOT MISTER!

Call a Twin Cities Hoo-Hoo "Mister" if you want to get him mad!

Or, if you want to get him still madder, subject him to the stilted etiquette of a formal introduction.

In either case, he'll probably rise up in all his offended dignity and call your attention to a button three inches in diameter, hanging to the left-breast pocket of his coat, which apprises all the world that he's just "Bill," or "Tom" or "Al," as the case may be.

For the lively and alert Albert S. Bliss, president of the club, has won the approval of the club to a suggestion that a large button, bearing at the top the inscription: "Hoo-Hoo Club," at the bottom: "Twin Cities," and in the circle in the center the emblem of the order, together with the abbreviated first name of each member, his full name and business, be worn at all meetings and affairs of the club.

The button has had the effect of adding to the club's pep and at the same time aiding members who were previously not so well acquainted to get the habit of calling each other by their first names.

Having no photograph of Billy Mack, the new and energetic vicegerent of the Coos Bay district, we'll have to paint a mental picture of him.

Billy writes that it might be unwise for him to permit the printing of his photograph in a publication having the extensive circulation of The Bulletin, as he formerly made his home in the east. He is now associated with the Stout Lumber Company, of North Bend, Oregon.

He is an enthusiastic and intelligent Hoo-Hoo worker in the northwest, and his vigorous support of Hoo-Hoo ideals won for him the appointment of vicegerent. His appointment assures Hoo-Hoo of a lively organization in that district.

TAR BABY HOO-HOO MOORE HAS IT ON MEXICAN HAIRLESS PUPS.

Despite the fact that he's now in a position to own a Mexican hairless pup, Frank Risdon Moore, No. 9096, just can't bring himself to give up Tar Baby Hoo-Hoo Moore, the four-legged Hoo-Hoo cat, which has become a concatenation hero.

In writing to national headquarters, Brother Moore announces that he's now field secretary of the Mexican Chamber of Commerce in the United States, and has offices in the Woolworth building, New York City. He has been intimately associated with the business life of the southern republic since boyhood, when he made a horseback journey from San Antonio to Mexico City for the treasurer of the United States, on secret mission.

He holds the distinction of having promoted the first Hoo-Hoo concat in Mexico, in 1902, and during his association with the firm of Lucher & Moore, as Mexican representative, did some valuable missionary work for Hoo-Hoo. He's been an ardent booster ever since.

His letter to national headquarters contains the following postscript: "Tar Baby Hoo-Hoo Moore" is the finest specimen of black cat to be met anywhere in this country and he stands ready to officiate again at the next big concatenation in New York, as he has done in the past."

Mr. Moore is residing in Mahwah, New Jersey.

SENATOR WERDEN, HOO-HOO 714, HEADS BIG LUMBER CORPORATION.

Hoo-Hoo and lumberdom will be delighted to learn of the election of Senator C. H. Werden, No. 714, as president of the British Columbia Spruce Mills Company, Ltd., a Canadian corporation with a paid-up capital stock of $1,500,000.

The new president was elected at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the company in Wausau, Wis., December 18. The stock of the company is owned by prominent Wisconsin lumbermen, most of whom are residents of Wausau. Senator Werden resides in Ashland, Wis.

The corporation has more than 600,000,000 feet of choice white spruce timber in the vicinity of Cranbrook, B. C., and a modern lumber manufacturing plant at Lumberton, B. C. The corporation was organized in 1919 and the mills began operation in 1920. The annual capacity of the mills is 30,000,000 feet.

Besides Senator Werden, the following other officers were elected: Vice president, M. P. McCullough, Wausau; secretary, B. F. Wilson, Wausau; treasurer, A. P. Woodson, Wausau; directors, Walter Alexander, C. C. Yawkey, W. H. Bissell and John F. Ross, all of Wausau; manager, G. C. Robson, Lumberton, B. C.

It is only "I" that can change "united" to "united."

DOINGS OF THE HOO-HOO CLUBS

Los Angeles Cats Learn to Phone

Cats shouldn't act like bears if the telephone service is rotten, the cats of the Los Angeles club learned at a luncheon, December 6.

Milton Metzler, of the Miller Lumber & Box Company, saw to it that the cats present learned something of the operation of a telephone system at this luncheon and the difficulties under which it is conducted.

Mr. Metzler put on a program, as chairman, that didn't have a single dull feature. He started off by presenting Miss Hendrick, a soloist of rare ability and charm. She rendered one solo and heard so many lusty Hoo-Hoo encores that she appeared a second time.

Mr. Sawyer, efficiency expert of the Southern California Telephone Company, had installed switch boards, telephone instruments and other apparatus necessary to the operation of a telephone system in the dining room. Young women instructors from the operators' school were on hand to explain how it worked. Calls were made and completed.

Roars of laughter greeted a little skit which showed in satire some of the uses and misuses of the telephone. The cats present were amazed to learn that proper telephoning is quite an art and that they frequently have been guilty of blunders for which they heaped abuse upon the girl at the switchboard.

Two homes were portrayed, with two young men and two young women as the cast of characters. All were employees of the telephone company. The disparaging references of the girls to their husbands must have struck a feeling of kinship in some of the old cats, for there were gusts of mirth that almost stopped the program. The program, a thoroughly interesting one, was concluded with the rendition of two excellent solos by a telephone girl.

LOS ANGELES CATS LOOKING FOR HOME.

Fifty cats got together at a Los Angeles club meeting December 13 and, as cats will do, talked long and ardently about things of vital importance to the future health and prosperity of the Big, Black Cat.

Seven cats were appointed as a committee to work out the details for the establishment of a permanent Los Angeles Cat Home. Their report is eagerly awaited. Plans also were discussed for a concatenation the following evening, at which a large class and an excellent attendance was promised.

SPOKANE HOO-HOO INVITE YOU.

If a visiting lumberman fails to feel at home in Spokane it's his own dern fault. So says R. L. Bayne, president of the Hoo-Hoo Luncheon Club of that city, which meets every Friday in the Davenport Hotel, and which brings together for a feast of food and friendly "chinning" the representative elements of the industry in Spokane. Heretofore the club has met each Tuesday, but the day was changed for the convenience of members.

Marcus Sperry, Editor of Lumber, Passes On

Hoo-Hoo and lumbermen will be grieved to learn of the sudden passing of Marcus Elliott Sperry, No. 22871, Editor of Lumber, and a former Vicegerent Snark of the Orange, Texas, District.

The tragedy of his passing is enhanced by the fact that only six weeks ago he and Mrs. Sperry joyfully celebrated the arrival of their first-born, a rosy-cheeked daughter. The heartfelt sympathy of Hoo-Hoo and lumbermen goes out to the bereaved widow, and Hoo-Hoo has extended the helping hand in the form of the $100 benefit which goes to beneficiaries of members.

Mr. Sperry was stricken while in the bathtub at his home, 5951 Washington Avenue, St. Louis, December 4th. His head was found submerged under water in the tub, and an autopsy revealed that the tragedy was due to a hemorrhage of the lungs.

Since his initiation into Hoo-Hoo in Tampa, Florida, February 20, 1909, Mr. Sperry had been a loyal and ardent champion of the cause of the Order. He had been associated with lumber manufacturing interests in Florida and with newspapers in Texas before coming to St. Louis as a member of the editorial staff of Lumber. A year ago he was appointed editor of the publication.

His service as Vicegerent was in 1917. He also served his country during the war, having been in the army.

L. A. CLUB GETS BUSINESS PROSPECTUS.

The Los Angeles club had two very interesting speakers at one of its recent meetings, each with a message of importance concerning the progress and development of the industry in southern California during 1924. The program, arranged by the energetic Berne Barker, was thoroughly enjoyable to the large attendance. Will G. Farrell, of the Farrell Company, insurance estate builders, spoke on the financing of building during the coming year, while Motley H. Flint, vice president of the First National bank and the Pacific Southwest Trust & Savings bank, discussed the business outlook for the new year.

Snappy Cat Club for San Antonio

San Antonio Hoo-Hoo Club, No. 20, is off to a flying start.

Holding its initial organization meeting in the Army room of the Genter Hotel the evening of December 12, the national constitution and by-laws were adopted and officers elected. N. L. Petrich was chosen president, while the following other officers were elected: William H. Hearne, vice-president; John A. Mitchell, secretary-treasurer; Ralph S. Davis, Albert Steves, Jr., Maury Maverick, John T. Wilson and George C. Vaughan, directors.

The election was hardly over when the cats got busy discussing the future of Hoo-Hoo. It was decided to hold a monthly meeting of the club on the second Wednesday of each month at 6:30 p. m. Various other matters for the good of the club were discussed, such as the establishment of a permanent home and the investigation of the need for an advertising campaign featuring "Building a Home First" and "Building Homes of Lumber."

Watch these San Antonio cats—they're trying to crowd their nine lives into one!

WHEN RILEY SPOKE AT SPOKANE.

Frank Branch Riley, lecturer, whose hobby is the Pacific Northwest, has taught Spokane Hoo-Hoo a few things they didn't fully realize about their own territory and the attraction it holds for people of the East.

Lecturing at a recent luncheon of the club, at Culbertson's Tea Rooms, which was splendidly attended, he told of the natural resources of the Pacific Northwest and advised those present that it is their greatest talking point when attempting to bring new industries to that country.

The club decided to hold weekly luncheons at the Culbertson Tea Rooms, and to assure lively program for each week, appointed the following members of a program committee: E. R. Edgerton, J. M. Brown and M. F. Cronkhite.

KATS KIND TO KIDS.

When men are surrounded by an atmosphere of friendship, sincere sympathy and co-operation, it is not hard to understand the establishment by the Los Angeles, Calif., Hoo-Hoo club of a third free bed in the Orthopaedic Hospital there. Fines for tardiness in attending meetings, together with contributions of members, have made their worthy work possible.

LOS ANGELES CLUB LEARNS MORE OF HOME TOWN.

The Los Angeles club, always a booster for the home city, has a new wealth of civic knowledge as a result of a very informative address delivered at a recent luncheon of the club by C. B. Raitt, who is in charge of the Los Angeles city playgrounds.

As Scribe C. J. Laughlin informs us, "Los Angeles and southern California are known as the 'playgrounds of America,' and have made strenuous efforts to live up to their reputation."

The enthusiastic gathering of Hoo-Hoo who attended the luncheon learned many things about the recreational facilities of their home city which they evidently did not know before Mr. Raitt's address. The speaker explained that Los Angeles has twelve municipal playgrounds, each from twelve to fourteen acres in area, not including Griffith Park, the largest municipal park in the world.

Several of these playgrounds are provided with swimming pools, tennis courts and gymnastic paraphernalia, and there is a director in each park for men and women. There are thirty-five vocational playgrounds on school lots which are used during the summer vacation. There are five free swimming pools in charge of instructors. There is a definite program to provide healthy recreation for the youngster, as for those threatened with hardening of the arteries.

The city also maintains three club rooms for persons who cannot afford the luxury of a club membership, where such facilities as pool tables, billiard tables, bowling alleys, bath rooms, etc., are available. A special club which charges a membership fee of twenty-five cents a month is another feature.

Mr. Raitt explained the advantages to persons with a moderate income of visiting the municipal camps maintained by the city in the mountains near Los Angeles. There are three such camps, and a man may take his family to any one of them at a maximum cost of $26.50 for two weeks, which includes transportation, meals and a cabin. One hour of work each week is required of each person in order to properly keep up the camps.

Los Angeles, Mr. Raitt announced, also had a bond issue of $1,500,000 for the extension of the playgrounds system, and a plan is being considered for taking over a considerable beach frontage for municipal recreational purposes.

In introducing the speaker, Cliff Estes, senior Hoo-Hoo, acting as chairman, briefly spoke of the interest Hoo-Hoo has for the advancement and encouragement of affairs of a purely civic nature.

The optimist always sees the light in a dark room and the pessimist is the guy who tries to blow it out.

Frisco Hoo-Hoo Club Sees Stars; Put Silver Lining in Gump Cloud

After they had "seen stars"—a whole firmament of them, in fact—the seventy-seven members of San Francisco Hoo-Hoo Club, No. 9, at a rousing meeting and luncheon in the French room of the Palace Hotel, December 27, voiced their sympathy for the long-suffering Andy Gump, in a resolution.

Earl G. Linsley, professor of astronomy at Mills College and also director of the Chabot Laboratory, showed those present the stars. His address on "Why is an Astronomer?" illustrated with stereopticon slides, carried those present far from this mundane sphere and conjured for them a vista of the "Milky Way."

When they came down to earth they found that they had adopted a resolution commiserating with the unfortunate and calling for immediate action toward the apprehension of the villain who had brought disaster to the Gump fortunes.

Yoo-Hoo! Hoo-Hoo! Thirty-third Annual, Sept. 8-9-10 MINNEAPOLIS

R. A. Hiscox, president of the club, was in charge of this unusual and altogether enjoyable meeting of lumbermen, and there wasn't a dull moment during the program.

After the visit to the "milky way" and the passage of the resolution, an attendance prize, a box of cigars, donated by Mr. Riley of the Fife building, was received by R. E. Conahan, of the Dimmick Lumber Company. A miniature red-wood bungalow, donated by the Redwood Salesmen's Club, was awarded to A. B. Wastell of the California Retail Lumbermen's Association.

Here is the resolution for poor Andy: Whereas, Great financial disaster has recently overtaken one of the great industrialists of this age; and believing that the difficulties that have beset his path have been due to circumstances and conditions entirely beyond his control; and further believing that this great character is worthy of our continued confidence and esteem; be it

Resolved, That Hoo-Hoo Club Nine, at meeting assembled, this twenty-seventh day of December, 1923, hereby extends its heartfelt sympathy and expresses its complete confidence in the Hon. Andrew Gump, the erstwhile president of the Combination Hair Brush and Mirror Company, and that we wish him and his devoted wife, Min, and little Chester, health, happiness and long life, with a return to prosperity in the New Year, and also commend Uncle Bim Gump for bringing to their cheerless household all the joy of Christmas through his wise use of that Australian bank roll in scattering sunshine, and, be it further

Resolved, That we do hereby denounce the unethical methods and dastardly action of J. Ambrose Hepwingin, in wrecking the fortune of said Andy Gump and recommend that he be apprehended forthwith and turned over to the custody of the State Prison Board and Governor Richardson for punishment that shall be agreed upon by these harmonious agencies; and be it still further

Resolved, That the carrying out and execution of this resolution be referred for action to the committee on public affairs of this club, of which Gus Russell is chairman, in conjunction with the League of Nations.

LOS ANGELES HOO-HOO MEET DRAWS CROWDS DESPITE SANTA.

Although the impending visit of Santa was a rival attraction, the Los Angeles Hoo-Hoo Club had an excellent turnout and a fine meeting at the City Club, December 21. The meeting was in charge of Sam Hayward, of the Hayward Lumber and Investment Company.

Before turning the meeting over to Mr. Hayward, Mr. McCall, assistant secretary of the Western Retail Lumber Dealers' Association, spoke of the plans and aspirations for the big convention which will be held in Los Angeles in February.

The principal speaker for the occasion was Arthur M. Loomis of the firm of Loomis and Dow, certified public accountants, and retiring president of the Advertising Club of Los Angeles. His subject, "Facts and Figures," dealing largely with successes and failures in business and the causes of each, was interesting.

WHEN THIS CAT HOWLS, HE HOWLS!

Whenever the Big, Black Cat emits one of his lusty calls he gets a ready response from Minneapolis lumbermen.

He was in good voice for the Hoo-Hoo Club's big Christmas party in Noble's Academy, Minneapolis, December 28, and his followers came so fast that it was some time before the club's own augmented orchestra could appropriately render "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." When the opening excitement had somewhat subsided, a count of noses showed 200 on hand, including the Mrs. Cats.

Cards were played and the orchestra kept the feet of dancing devotees in lively motion. The room was decorated in accordance with the holiday season and the affair was voted a big success.

Happy? You Bet! Hungry? Say—Look!

Orphan Kiddies Guests of Twin City Hoo Hoo Club.

SANTA'S OTHER SELF—OUR CAT.

Meet Hoo-Hoo's Big, Black Cat in his latest role—Santa Claus!

Thirty orphan kiddies of the Augustana Mission still recognize Santa as a bewhiskered gentleman with high boots and a big, red coat, but they'll stoutly maintain, too, that they've seen Santa reincarnated in the shape of a big, black cat.

They met the bewhiskered gentleman and his reincarnated self through Hoo-Hoo Club, No. 12, Twin Cities, December 20, and had such a time as they'll never forget. And they'll never again throw rocks at a black Tommy.

It would be difficult to adequately tell of all the fun the youngsters had, but there wasn't a dull moment during the party. The club's own orchestra rendered excellently a number of Christmas pieces to get the program under way. Then a great Christmas tree, laden with gifts which would delight the heart of even a youngster whose Mother and Daddy had carefully selected them, was uncovered.

Juvenile eyes almost popped out. There was a rush for the tree, kidlike, and it was soon surrounded. Then came another surprise. Mrs. Hoo-Hoo had been on the job and she did it as tenderly as she did for her own tots. There was a turkey dinner and Mrs.

LOOK OUT FOR MRS. CAT— YOU'RE IN LOVE!

Even though he has long since been Oslerized—though his heart no longer may beat with the hectic "trip, trip" of his honeymoon days—man is in the grip of romance.

If you doubt it, commune with any of the cats who sat in at a recent meeting of the Los Angeles Hoo-Hoo Club, where H. A. Nater, assistant vice-president of the Bank of Italy, was the speaker.

There's none of the alluring feminine in the romance which he pictures to these cats, although the old saying "true love never runs smooth" holds good. It is the romance of business of which Mr. Nater spoke, and his remarks presented to many of the cats present an aspect to their daily toil which they never before had taken time to consider.

Mr. Nater's subject was "The Romance of Business," and he soon convinced that he was admirably fitted to discuss the subject. He had been an officer of the Sears-Roebuck Company of Chicago for many years prior to his connection with the Bank of Italy. His talk was so interesting and illuminating that he was urged and accepted the invitation to make another address in the very near future.

J. E. Lloyd Jones of the Woodhead Lumber Company, failed to put in an appearance at the meeting, due to illness, and a substitute for him had to be selected as chairman. However, in arranging for the appearance of Mr. Nater, Mr. Jones fully compensated for his inability to be on the job.

Lansing Club Urged to Help Fight Radicalism

"Hoo-Hoo is a weapon of inestimable value against the undercurrent of radical propaganda in America."

This was the keynote of an address at the monthly meeting December 12 of Hoo-Hoo Club, No. 17, in Lansing, Mich., by O. C. Smith of the attorney general's office, who prosecuted the famous communist trials in St. Joseph, Mich., and who described in detail the testimony adduced at the trials and the eruptive possibilities it presented.

The largest meeting in the history of the club, it was also one of the most interesting. The attendance was eighty-three, and every one left the meeting more sold than ever on the far-reaching value of Hoo-Hoo. The club decided to hold a big concatenation January 30, at which a class of at least forty kittens is expected. Secretary-Treasurer Henry R. Isherwood will attend this concatenation. The club appointed a convention committee to arrange for a big attendance at the meeting of the state association.

The invocation pronounced at the big meeting, by Elmer W. Hammond, indeed was a masterpiece and is worthy of publication. Here it is:

"Lord, we ask Thy blessing upon this assembly of Hoo-Hoo and their guests. Grant that friendships may here be formed, staunch as the oak, flexible as the hickory, and eternal as the cypress. Keep us from pathways crooked as the tamarack, two by four, and from the ways checkered as the hemlock board. Give us wisdom to meet the wiles of those who approach us with first clear manners and shaky clear souls. Help us to so heal our faults that they may beautify our characters even as the Tennessee red cedar is beautiful by its defects. Help us to discount our bills, especially help us to discount tales of our neighbor's sins. And at last, when the mill of life be silent and the last piece tally is written in the ledger of destiny, guide us and deliver us, surfaced four sides and sanded, F. O. B., Thine Eternal Kingdom, for Hoo-Hoo's sake, Amen."

Those present were impressed with the seriousness of the radical situation by the address of Mr. Smith. He lamented the fact that during 1922 there was expended for radical propaganda a quarter of a million dollars, while nothing was spent for the education of the alien in the principles of Americanism.

"Lack of education of these peoples in the basic principles of Americanism is responsible in a large measure for the influence radical agitators have among them," Mr. Smith said. He added that radical agitation, however, is not confined to the uneducated alien. Following his address the club accorded him a rising vote of thanks.

J. C. Patterson, of Toledo, was called upon for a speech but pleaded unpreparedness. He suggested, however, that he would be ready to talk at the next meeting if the club was willing to listen to him. He's busy on that speech now, no doubt.

Bob Haskins, of Detroit, was in much the same dilemma, although he reached into somewhere and produced a couple of pages of manuscript, which he proceeded to render. The principal feature of his talk was that the club owes its success to the personal contact it makes possible. Napoleon, he added, did not raise his army by mail, but by personal contact.

Others who were called upon and made short talks were Carl Bornheimer of Club No. 19; John Krielic of Kalamazoo, who was accompanied by seven of his dealers; Bert Thatcher and Mr. Cornell, general agent of the Pere Marquette railroad. The meeting was adjourned, the date set for the next gathering being January 3, at which further details will be worked out for the big concatenation and the state convention.

Frisco Club Hears From Mayor Stringemalong and I. Yeeta Tamata

Mayor Frank D. Stringemalong and I. Yeeta Tamata couldn't get to the Christmas party of San Francisco Hoo-Hoo Club, No. 9, December 13, but they sent dispatches to the eighty-one cats and guests who were on hand for the wonderful event.

In accord with the spirit of the occasion, gifts were lavishly bestowed. Each of the nine guests seated at the nine tables received nine gifts, while Jerry Casey of the Hart-Wood Lumber Company drew an eversharp pencil as the attendance prize.

There wasn't a single person in the party room of the Palace Hotel who failed to have a good time. Pep was the watchword of the occasion, and it proved to be the password to a good time.

When the bestowal of gifts was completed, packages were opened, and here were some of the things uncovered: a miniature of Spark Plug, which went to Charles Ward, of the Western States Lumber Company, and a miniature nursing bottle, which was presented to Theodore Lerch, of the Albion Lumber Company.

Other fortunate recipients of novel gifts of much the same nature were Frank Harris, of the Van Arsdale-Harris Lumber Company; Charles B. Stelson, of Portland; H. F. Kalvelage, of Trower Brothers; Reginald Smith, of the William Smith Company; M. S. Conklin, of the Hart-Wood Lumber Company and Dave Albert, of C. A. Hooper & Company.

Bon-bons were freely distributed and each guest was provided with a paper cap and it was not long before the rather dignified assembly took on an appearance of a crowd of New Year revelers.

J. Walter Kelley, vice-president, conducted a brief business meeting following the sumptuous feed, during which the following spoke: George Cornwall of Portland; Dr. Sye of the United States Consular Service; D. A. Williamson, vicegerent snark of the Sacramento Valley district; H. W. Taylor of Berkeley and Frank J. Sine of Frisco. The latter two are Hoo-Hoo life members.

The shingle situation was the subject of a report by F. H. Hammatt and Frank Trower, who told of the publicity favoring shingles which had been given in Stockton by C. G. Bird, of the Stockton Lumber Company. The latter was given a vote of thanks for his work.

Photographs and descriptions of the Berkeley fire area, illustrating remarkable examples of how shingled roofs had withstood the flames, which had been on display in the Stockton Hotel for two months to offset anti-shingle propaganda, were on display at the meeting and created plenty of interest.

The popular Rod Hendrickson got his hands on the meeting about this time, and the chairman of the entertainment committee went into action immediately. He was interrupted by the appearance of a uniformed messenger, bearing the following radiogram:

FEDERAL TELEGRAPH COMPANY.
Radiogram.

Berkeley, Calif.,
December 13, 1923.

F. H. Hammatt, Secretary, California Redwood Association, care Rod Hendrickson, Hoo-Hoo Club Nine, Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Calif.

As you and Gus Russell and many other Hoo-Hoo are suffering from an attack of the SHINGLES, I hasten to inform you that our city council has come to your aid and will hereafter permit the use of any kind of shingles and roofing in our college city, provided, that they are of the educated brand, and are dipped in gasoline or covered with asbestos. If we must have fire-proof buildings, why waste your money on insurance.

(Signed)
FRANK D. STRINEMALONG,
Mayor.

Three rousing cheers greeted the reading of the radiogram, and the uniformed messenger handed the expectant Rod another important looking envelope. This time it was a cablegram, as follows:

CABLEGRAM.

Hon. Rodman Hendrickson, San Francisco Lumberman who cuts lumber but not prices, in custody of Hoo-Hoo Club Number Nine, Palace Hotel, San Francisco, Calif.

I have honor to inform you that

THE CAT IN CANADA

"Meet Sparks, 21157"

SPARKS KNOWN AS LEADER IN CANADA AND THE STATES.

Meet the Sparks who fired the flame of Hoo-Hoo enthusiasm in Canada!

Theodore Sparks, Sales Manager of the Theodore A. Burrows Lumber Company of Winnipeg, and Vicegerent Snark of the Province of Manitoba, is the man.

The name of Theodore Sparks is one to conjure with in the lumber industry of Canada, and in the United States he has a host of friends and admirers. A great organizer and a believer in organized effort, Mr. Sparks took up the work of putting Hoo-Hoo on the map in Western Canada possessed not only of the knowledge of how to do it, but of the spirit to do.

For the past seventeen years Mr. Sparks has been with the Burrows Company, most of that time being on the road. More recently he has been sales manager for the same company. For a number of years he has been manager of the Burrows Company's Retail Yard Organization, the Northern Lumber Company, which recently was absorbed into the parent organization, augmenting the company's retail yards until there now is a total of twenty-seven in operation.

The qualities of leadership possessed by Mr. Sparks may be indicated by the fact that in 1920 and 1921 he was president of the Retail Lumbermen's Association; in 1918 he was vice-president, and for five years previous he was on the board of directors.

Mr. Sparks was born at Vars, Ontario, in the Ottawa white pine district, July 11, 1882.

WINNIPEG'S HOO-HOO HOME.

There's a "welcome" on the mat at the Marlborough Hotel in Winnipeg, Manitoba, which has been designated by Secretary-Treasurer Isherwood as another Hoo-Hoo home.

The cordiality of the reception to Hoo-Hoo at this excellent hostelry is assured by the fact that the man who presides over its destinies is none other than the extremely likeable Colonel Webb, No. 19546, a former vicegerent in the eastern Ontario district and a loyal Hoo-Hoo.

This is the first Canadian hotel to be designated as a Home for Cats.

To the Hoo-Hoo and Lumbermen of Canada.

Greetings Neighbors:

Anything which contributes to that spirit of Friendship, of Confidence, and of Co-operation—the spirit which has made of the border line between us but an imaginary barrier—strikes a responsive chord in the heart of Lumberdom on either side of the line.

For Lumberdom is the only industry united in Fellowship by an international fraternal organization, which has as its sole aim the fostering of ideals which make for the progress and betterment of the industry and the individuals composing it, so that they may better serve society.

Hoo-Hoo is fired with the same spark which makes the home a wondrous place in which to live, the business an enjoyable expression of the qualities of individuals and organizations, and the achievement of success a spiritual attainment more than mere selfish gain.

The heart and soul is devoted to the establishment of unbreakable bonds of friendship among those making up the sinews of the lumber industry, and to the promotion of the ideals of Confidence, Education and Co-operation.

The Western Retail Lumbermen's Association graciously accorded Hoo-Hoo the second night of the organization's annual convention in Winnipeg, January 24th. It is with pleasurable anticipation that we are preparing to go to Winnipeg for the Convention and big Concatenation. And in crossing the border we'll have the feeling that we're really not away from home at all.

One can see far beyond the meeting in Winnipeg, and visualize stretched across this great Continent of ours the friendly hand of Canadian Lumberdom, grasped tightly in that of American Lumberdom, and each is stamped deeply with lines of strength—strength which will be thrown in the balance to win all of the things espoused by Hoo-Hoo.

TED T. JONES, Scrivenoter, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

HENRY R. ISHERWOOD, Secretary-Treasurer, St. Louis, Missouri.

"Meet Ritter, 20151"

HATS OFF TO FRED RITTER, NEW MANITOBA COUNSELOR!

The capable and energetic Fred W. Ritter, secretary of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, is an ardent ally and booster for the big Concat in Winnipeg, January 24.

As counselor for the Province of Manitoba, the genial and hard-working secretary didn't let any grass grow under his feet. He has transmitted to many of his great hosts of friends throughout Western Canada his own enthusiastic spirit of anticipation.

Fred predicts that the big, Black Cat will get a reception in Winnipeg rivaling the handsomest ever accorded him. He adds that the visit of the Cat promises to be a factor in creating greater interest and attendance for the big convention of the Western Retail Lumbermen's Convention.

In appointing Brother Ritter to the responsible post of counselor, Supreme Scrivenoter Ted T. Jones of Minneapolis showed excellent judgment, for Ritter's acquaintance in Canada is of such an extensive nature as to permit him to give to Hoo-Hoo future there a most promising outlook.

Carry on, Fred!

"PEP" JONES—BUT CALL HIM TED.

Here's to Ted Jones, Ted, the irreplaceable!

When the Supremo Scrivenoter sets out with a job to do he always does it up "brown." Witness his recent pilgrimage to Winnipeg, Manitoba, where

FOREST LIFE

Timber Champions of the Future—Boy Scouts

By Samuel N. Spring, Professor of Silviculture, Cornell University

The establishment in 1923 of a special camp for forestry instruction of scouts was a unique event in the history of the work conducted by the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York City.

The camp was one unit of the many camps at Kanohwahke lakes in the Palisades Interstate Park, but differed in that it dealt with one subject, forestry, and gave a month's program of work in July and again in August made up of practice in forest planting, thinning, improvement cuttings, measurement of felled and standing trees, timber estimating and the like. This was supplemented by illustrated tables on the life and growth of trees and forests and of the progress of forestry in the United States. Such are the bare facts but the real delight of it was to see fifty selected older scouts, ranging in age from fifteen to seventeen years, doing hard work each day and liking it, learning by doing the tasks of establishing new forests and upbuilding existing ones.

Picture a camp site on a hardwood ridge just above a beautiful natural lake in the wooded Ramapo Mountains, a semi-circle of 16x16 foot tents in a clearing, a big canvas roofed pavilion serving for kitchen and mess hall, everything in the rough, so to speak, nothing groomed or fancy, just the out-of-doors camp that a real boy likes.

Opening day brings the boys singly or in groups, packs on back, perspiring under the first hard work of climbing an old woods-road of stiff grade or coming by the trail, later known as the "goat trail," because of its steepness and rockiness. First in order comes registration, physical examination by the doctor and settling in camp. That completed and lunch over, the first lesson is in the use of the axe and the two man cross-cut saw. Later each boy received an axe for his own, which he had to hang and keep in A 1 condition.

The next instruction comes in the late afternoon on the lake in canoeing and in swimming—a preliminary test to find out what each boy can do and needs to learn. After this the days pass swiftly, the spirit of the camp becoming more evident daily, to tackle every job, whether camp detail, planting or woods work, with promptness and to stick at it. Ability to do hard work is "the thing" and boys have a way of dealing with shirkers or those having a bit of yellow in them.

Of course the whole program was carefully organized in advance and its outstanding feature was that it was practical, doing things not learning theory, though the leaders never omitted a clear explanation of the reason for doing and the result to be expected.

The general camp schedule will illustrate the proportion of time devoted to work and recreation.

6:15, rising hour and morning plunge in lake.

6:45, breakfast.

7:15—7:45, camp duty.

8:00—12:00, forestry work.

12:00, lunch.

1:00—4:00, forestry work.

4:00, swimming and canoeing, recreation and instruction.

5:00, free hour.

6:00, dinner.

7:30—9:30, camp fire or illustrated talks on forestry.

9:45, lights out.

Saturday mornings were devoted to camp improvement, including trail building, dock and canoe stand construction and the like. Saturday afternoons were allotted to water sports and contests.

The following list of topics indicate by way of summary the subjects of instruction in forestry which were adapted to the location of camp and the facilities of the region:

Professor Samuel N. Spring of Cornell University, Director of the Camp

General character of the region—topography, rocks, soils, and forests.

The forest—study of forest types and identification of the plants, shrubs and trees therein.

Forest protection—fire, insects and fungi.

Forest utilization.

Identification of woods and their uses.

Growth and measurement of trees.

Forest survey and estimates of standing timber.

Forest planting and study of plantations.

Thinnings, improvement cuttings and reproduction cuttings.

Progress and development of national and state forestry.

All of the above projects were covered in field work, excepting identification of the kinds of wood and the history of the development of forestry. The latter were covered by camp fire talks and by illustrated lectures, including Government lantern slides and movie reels.

Recreation at Camp.

"To work hard and to play as hard as we work" was the motto of the forestry camp. For the two hours from four to six every afternoon and on Saturday and Sundays the shores of Spruce Pond echoed and reechoed with the shouts of the boys.

Upon arrival at camp every boy was taken out in a canoe and taught the fundamentals of canoeing. He was shown how to get from a canoe into the water and back again, and how much a canoe could tip without going over. He was then permitted to go out alone only after he had demonstrated that he was thoroughly at home in the water. Many water games were played. Canoe tilting, wrestling, and tag brought many laughs to the onlookers as well as the participants. Races, single, double, and stunt, speeded away the all-too-short periods for sport.

Perhaps most interesting of all were the "pioneer contests." Every boy was furnished with an axe and helve and introduced to the "bicycle" (a foot-power grindstone). After having hung and sharpened their own axes they were eager for chopping and splitting contests. These were supplemented by two-man sawing contests. Enthusiasm always ran high in these events and the most envied man in camp was the best woodsman. It might be well to mention that the scouts were so impressed with the keenness of their blades that not one of them in spite of their eagerness to use an axe, received an axe injury during the summer.

No "town" games were played; in fact, the boys had no time for them, and did not care to play them. The woods were becoming to them a storehouse of pleasure as well as of work. Expert instruction was given in swimming and the lads so profited by it that four of them passed the requirements for the Senior Red Cross Life Saving, and nine, the Junior Red Cross.

The purpose of all these contests were two-fold. The boys were shown how to get a lot of fun out of these opportunities which surrounded them on every side in the woods. They were put on their own resources and taught how easy it was to get real enjoyment out of the simple things about them. The biggest purpose of it all, however, was to teach the men what true sportsmanship is. There is no place like the woods to do this and full use was made of the opportunity. Rarely was anything done which was not fair to an opponent. Axes were even loaned in emergencies to an opponent in contests. This spirit was shown off the field of sport also. The boys were very considerate of their tent mates as well as of the rest of the camp. They absorbed that spirit which always plays square but never admits defeat.

Results Attained.

The first season's work was a great success. Broadly, the results were two-fold. First, the city boy acquired a tangible knowledge of forestry, which is of such vital importance to the nation. As a citizen he will later be able to vote intelligently and to assist constructively in any national or state forestry program.

Second, and of equal if not greater importance, he has learned how to undertake and carry out responsible tasks and to act as group leader, since the boys were given an opportunity in turn to be the chief of party in different projects of forestry instruction.

Forestry has simply been the means of attaining the primary objective of all scout work, to make better citizens and to develop leaders.

FRIENDS OF THE FOREST.

We can always learn something from the other fellow—even if the other fellow happens sometime to be a kid.

There are the Boy Scouts, for instance, youngsters who are devoting themselves heart and soul into gaining knowledge of the value of the trees, how they grow and why they grow—youngsters who, in years to come, may be the much-needed influence to re-establish America as a land of trees.

The Rock Oak Forestry Camp at Tuxedo, N. Y., conducted by the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York, is an institution which is admirably fitting Young America to work out its own salvation in the matter of saving for the future and building up the tree life which has been devastated by the wood cutter's axe.

This camp is not merely a recreational spot for the boys; it's a school wherein a brand of education is given which even we grown-ups could well afford to assimilate. The course there includes a general study of the region, topography, rocks, soils and forests; studies of the trees, plants and shrubs of the forest; of forest protection against fungi, insects and fire; the growth and measurements of trees; identification of woods and the uses to which they may be put; forest planting and the study of plantations; thinning, improvement cutting and reproduction cutting; forest survey and estimates of standing timber; progress and development of national and state forestry.

These studies are conducted on a plan which is certain to bring results, and the men who give the course are men eminently fitted for the job. This kind of work is not confined to the New York Camp, but is finding a place in the Scout activities throughout the land.

A Scout can well be proud when he has obtained his badge of merit which shows that he has met the requirements for forestry, for here are the requirements entailed by the Scout Forestry Division, all of which the Scout must be able to do:

1. Be able to identify twenty-five kinds of trees when in leaf, or fifteen kinds of deciduous (broad leaf) trees in winter, and tell some of the uses of each.

2. Identify twelve kinds of shrubs.

3. Collect and identify samples of ten kinds of wood and be able to tell some of their uses.

4. Determine the height, and estimate the amount of timber, approximately, in five trees of different sizes.

5. State laws for transplanting, grafting, spraying, and protecting trees.

Louis Howbeck, Activities Director

6. Tell what are the effects of fires on forests; what are the three general classes of fires, and how to fight each.

7. Tell how and when to collect tree seeds, how to extract seeds from cones, how to clean and store seeds, and how to care for seedlings and transplants, and to set them out.

There are many lumbermen, probably who would find themselves confounded were they to undertake answering such questions as are put to the Scouts in examination. Hoo-Hoo Clubs would do well to take in these new Allies, hear what they have to say, lend them the help of any knowledge in the possession of older heads, and co-operate with them generally in their program to re-establish America as the Land of Trees.

THE WEALTH THAT LIES IN THE TREE.

How would we, who gauge the wealth of a great city by its monuments of steel and stone, its landmarks of the progress of modernity—how would we judge the wealth of the small town which boasts no skyscrapers, no museums, no galleries of art? What has the small town which is lacking in the big commonwealth today?

The rugged simplicity of shaded streets, the warm hands of an affectionate Nature untrammelled by the

Every man is my friend until he proves he is not, and even then he hurts himself more than he can harm me when he tries to convince others that he is all right and I am all wrong.

rush and thoughtlessness of commercial progress—these are the outward tokens of an inward wealth of the village. The gifts of a kindly nature—trees.

The village was no more favored by the hand of Nature in the bestowal of this wealth than was the big city, but the village treasured its hoard while the commonwealth squandered it, cast it ruthlessly aside as something no longer of value.

Until now, slowly awakening to the folly of its program, the big city has come to the realization that the tree is a thing of life—that it must be born, not made. And for the first time since the beginning of its mad rush; the sophisticated city man is awakening to a distressing envy of the possessions of his rural brother.

Some commonwealths are awakening more rapidly than others, and the more progressive have started to beat back toward a city of trees by appointing tree commissions, official tree advisers, etc. Every city should awaken to this need and put in charge a man or body of men who have at heart the welfare not only of their city but of the tree.

Plant a tree! That's the slogan that may be heard in many big cities today. But it is not well to just "plant a tree," but plant a "good tree," and plant it as an investment in the future health, happiness and beauty of your city.

FRISCO CLUB HEARS FROM MAYOR.

Japan will continue to consumption much lumber in near also distant future. May I express hope that Los Angeles will not require all Pacific Coast woods, but will leave some for my country which is suffering from effects of earthquake. Hoping you are the same.

(Signed) J. YEETA TAMATA.

When the mirth had somewhat subsided, the Lumberjack orchestra, composed of piano, saxophone, banjo and drums, expertly handled by R. J. Gehring, Harry Baix, Clarence Carroll and Ed Nelson of the Hart-Wood Lumber Company's retail yard, San Francisco, swung into a jazz tune and feet started to respond in rhythm.

Frank Thompson, coast agent for the M. K. & T. railway, brought Scrooge and Little Tim of Charles Dickens' fame into the party with an excellent impersonation, a feature which struck the proper spirit of the occasion.

Albert S. Rhine, a realtor, is wasting his time in that business. He demonstrated with a large assortment of tricks that the hand is faster than the eye and illustrated why he is president of the Society of American Magicians. He showed how tricky magicians can convince gullible persons that they are possessed of supernatural powers.

Prosperity and perspiration, like poverty and procrastination, go hand in hand.
