The Burning of the House of Hoo-Hoo.

The Lumbermen's Club at the World's Fair was destroyed by fire Friday morning, June 24, a fact which has been so widely published by the daily press and in the lumber papers that no extended comment is needed here.

The fire was discovered at 3:30 o'clock Friday morning, June 24, by Joseph S. Hickey, the custodian of the building. Mr. Hickey was awakened from his slumber by the smoke in his room, and in the darkness about him and the confused state of his mind he afterward explained that it was impossible for him to detect the point at which the fire started. It is his idea, however, that it originated in the western part of the building, probably in a closet, and this view was strengthened by his observations after making his escape. His departure from the building was naturally a hurried one, and was made by the roof route to a tree abutting and thence to the ground. He left behind him nearly all of his clothing, some $75 or $80 in money, and two gold watches. The two items first named were, of course, completely destroyed.

There were also in the building at the time Luther E. Jeffries, the chef; the negro porter, John Brown, and his wife, and the watchman. These people also escaped, the colored woman being rescued by Luther E. Jeffries, who performed quite a brave part in carrying her over the roof and descending the friendly tree referred to.

The almost complete destruction of the building was due in part to low pressure in the water pipes in the early stages of the fire, as well as to the inflammable nature of the materials entering into its construction. Within a comparatively short time after the fire alarm had been turned in there was a large force of Jefferson Guards and a considerable representation of the fire department on hand. When it was seen, however, that the building was doomed a good part of the energies of the fire fighters and the guards was directed toward the saving of surrounding buildings, such as the Texas State Building and the German Imperial structure, both of which were in imminent danger of being destroyed.

The official report concerning the fire, as issued by the St. Louis Fire Prevention Bureau, through Electrical Inspector James H. Fenton, was as follows:

"There was no evidence as to what started the fire. We found quite a quantity of painter's clothing that had been left in the building in a room known as the press room, and upon inquiry it was learned that the painters had been at work in this room yesterday.

"I made an examination of the electric wiring, which had not been destroyed by the fire, and found it in good condition.

"The fuses in the branch circuit feeding the portion of the building in which the fire occurred were intact. These fuses were of the proper kind and size used for a safe installation."

The loss on the building and its contents is estimated to be about $40,000, exclusive of the restaurant and cafe department, which suffered to the extent of something like $6,000. The unexpired insurance held by the club amounts to about $15,000.

The salvage from the fire includes the complete records of the Secretary's office in unmarred condition, a redwood table taken from the redwood room, a few chairs, a variety of articles belonging to the restaurant concessionaires, and a badly singed, and worse frightened, black cat.

The building was insured for $19,000, but the policies contained a "diminishing clause." Some people may not know what a diminishing clause is, but if you will think a moment you will readily understand that if the amount of insurance remained the same throughout the entire period of the exposition, a great many of the buildings would burn along towards the last—a sad commentary on human nature. Wherefore the insurance men are foxy, and a policy on an exposition building is like the candle in the nursery rhyme—"The longer it stands the shorter it grows;" or like mortal man in the old-time Methodist hymn—"As soon as we begin to live, we all begin to die."

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the House of Hoo-Hoo was held in the office of the St. Louis Lumberman at 1 o'clock on June 27. There were present President N. W. McLeod, Secretary Barns, J. A. Freeman, Chairman of the House Committee; C. M. Jennings, J. E. Long, W. A. Bonsack and F. C. Bonsack, architect. The insurance agencies through which the insurance on the building had been placed as represented by Mr. James N. Brown, of the American Central Insurance Company, of St. Louis, and Wall and Whittemore, made an immediate and prompt settlement of the loss. As might be expected, there was a very large demand for insurance when the World's Fair was opened, and what is known as the diminishing clause was inserted in all of the policies. The clause provided that commencing on May 15 the face of the policy was diminished one-half of one per cent for each day, so that at the end of the Exposition there would have been no insurance whatever on the buildings. The diminishing clause had been in effect from May 15 to June 24. The net amount received was about $15,100. With this amount as a basis for rebuilding, the committee deemed it wise and proper to instruct its architect, Mr. Bonsack, to proceed at once with the construction of the building, same to be ready for dedication not later than July 25. On Tuesday morning, June 28, the work was begun with all the men that could be profitably employed. There will be considerable salvage and orders have already been placed with the furniture houses for a practical duplication of their former orders. It is therefore safe to say that the new House of Hoo-Hoo will be in all of its essential parts almost a duplicate of its former self. There will, of course, be an exception in the case of the sugar pine room, where the beautiful carvings and columns cannot be duplicated in the time at its disposal. The room, however, will be finished in sugar pine, and while it may not be quite as remarkable as the old one, it will be a great advertisement for the Sugar & White Pine Agency of San Francisco. The architect, contractor, planing mill people and laborers are working with might and main to restore the building to its former beauty in the limited time at their disposal. The Executive Committee accepted the kind invitation extended by the Washington Commissioner to make the temporary headquarters for all the members at the Washington State Building. It is probable also that the press room will be finished in fir and cedar and may be known in the future as the Washington room.

During the less than two months that the lumbermen had been permitted to enjoy their club house the place had become extremely popular. Not only did every day bring hundreds of visiting lumbermen to eat their meals on the broad veranda, to lose the dust and sense of weariness that they had acquired in tramping around the grounds, and there entertain their families and meet their friends, but a number of notable gatherings of lumbermen were held in the structure and a successful concatenation was enjoyed by the disciples of the Black Cat. A series of Thursday night dancing parties served to bring out the social side of the enterprise and gave the visiting lumbermen a degree of enjoyment within the reach of no other visitors to the exposition grounds. The average daily number of lumbermen and their friends who visited the building since the opening of the fair and enjoyed its privileges was approximately one thousand. Several important meetings, including those of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, the Southern Lumber Manufacturers' Association, the Yellow Piners and the American Institute of Architects, had been held in the beautiful auditorium.

Within a few hours after the conflagration telegrams of condolence began to come in, and within a few days hundreds of letters were received by the Board of Directors and various officers from lumbermen all over the country, most of whom duplicated their former subscriptions, though many increased the original amount. Fortunately the records of the house, including card case, list of members, all correspondence, receipts, etc., went through the fire and came out in fair shape, so that there will be no delay in the transaction of business.

The House of Hoo-Hoo.

Some of our members seem to confuse the House of Hoo-Hoo with the executive office of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo, and frequently the Scrivenoter of Hoo-Hoo receives remittances intended to cover the cost of shares in the House of Hoo-Hoo. To make the matter clear this little notice is published and will appear in The Bulletin from time to time for the next several months:

J. H. Baird is the Supreme Scrivenoter of the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo. He keeps all the records and handles all the money. Remittances for dues to Hoo-Hoo should be sent to him at 513 Willcox Building, Nashville, Tennessee.

The House of Hoo-Hoo is an enterprise recently incorporated and having for its object the erection of a club house for lumbermen at the St. Louis World's Fair in 1904. The office of the House of Hoo-Hoo is 1200 Fullerton Building, St. Louis, Mo. The officers are as follows: President, Nelson Wesley McLeod, St. Louis; Vice President, Benjamin LaFon Winchell, St. Louis; Treasurer, William Ashley Rule, Kansas City; Secretary, William Eddy Barns, St. Louis; Assistant Secretary, George Edward Watson, St. Louis.

This enterprise is worthy of your support. Its field of usefulness is broad and it is receiving the enthusiastic support of many of the most prominent business men in the country.

A share of stock in the House of Hoo-Hoo costs $9.99.

Detailed information can be secured from Mr. Geo. E. Watson, Assistant Secretary, 1200 Fullerton Building, St. Louis, Missouri.

Hoo-Hoo Watch Charm.

This cut of the Hoo-Hoo Watch Charm does not really do it justice. In fact, it gives but a faint idea of the beauty of this exquisite piece of jewelry. The design embodies a wealth of Oriental symbolism, as set forth at length in the Special Jewelry Circular, and the workmanship is first-class. This Watch Charm can be worn as a fob, and, being alike on both sides, will never hang wrong side out. The price is $7.50. Like all other articles of Hoo-Hoo jewelry, the Watch

Charm is sold for spot cash, and only to members whose dues are paid.

The Special Jewelry Circular shows cuts and description also of the Hoo-Hoo Souvenir Spoon and the various styles of Hoo-Hoo Brooches.

"De ole worl' is gittin' better," says a sable philosopher, "but human natur' is still wid us, en dar's room fer a good deal er-preachin' along de lines of a blazin' hereafter!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Comments on Concatenations

San Francisco, Cal.

The report of the concatenation held by Vicegerent Edward F. Niehaus at San Francisco, May 7, was unavoidably delayed, due to miscarriage of the mails and through no fault of any of the officers assisting in the ceremonies. Twenty initiates were led through the onion patch at this concatenation. The Session on the Roof took place at "The English Inn" where was served the following menu:

Menu.

Tan Bark with Belt Dressing	Redwood a la Jabberwock
Delayed Cars	Side Track Dressing
Cat Tail	Rubber Hose Noodle
	Prima Vera a la Hoo-Hoo
Spruce Fish Box Shook Sauce
Cat Fish a la Scrivenoter	Yellow Pine Door Stile
Spanish Cedar Patties	Oregon Pine Croquettes
	Mahogany Sweetbreads
Bird's-Eye Maple	Plain Sawed Hare, Hunter Style
	Pigeon Stuffed with Lignum Vita
	Dove Tailed Sugar Pine
Tongue and Groove	Mauled Mulligan
	Occipito Frontals
Shingle Layer Cake	Salted Pine Knots
Door Jamb's	Hoo-Hoo Port
	Cherry Cordial
	Band Sauterne and Steam Beer

South McAlester, I. T.

The concatenation at South McAlester, June 11, was the sort of meeting that particularly pleases the Supreme Nine—clean cut and smoothly conducted, and the class not too large. It is a mistake to try to initiate forty-five or fifty men. Small classes and good ones are what Hoo-Hoo needs. Bro. Harry A. Gorsuch has kindly sent the following write-up of this very enjoyable occasion:

Vicegerent J. E. Crawford, of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, conducted an interesting and enthusiastic Hoo-Hoo concatenation at South McAlester, I. T., on the evening of Saturday, June 11. The train service in that territory was considerably demoralized because of washouts, and nearly all trains were late, and quite a number of candidates and Hoo-Hoo that had expected to be present were unable to attend. However, there were about fifty present, fourteen of whom were candidates, and what was lacking in attendance was fully made up in enthusiasm, and those present agreed that it was one of the nicest concatenations that have been held in that territory. The officers were well up on their parts, and the floor work was conducted with a snap and vigor that was interesting and enjoyable. At the close of the concatenation, which was held in the Masonic Hall, the usual Hoo-Hoo banquet was held, and the meeting adjourned about 1 o'clock.

The following letter from Vicegerent Crawford further emphasizes the smoothness and dignity which characterized the proceedings:

We had a very successful meeting, initiating fourteen good men, and the boys all had a good time generally. The meeting was free from any objectionable features, which, I am sorry to say, are often found in the meetings. If it had not been for the floods and the abandonment and delay of so many trains on the different roads, we would have had a much larger attendance, and would have initiated many more men, as I had applications for about twenty-six or twenty-eight candidates.

St. Louis, Mo.

The World's Fair Vicegerent, Bro. T. A. Moore, some time ago planned to hold a series of concatenations during the summer. He has held several meetings, all of which have been extremely successful. His concatenation of June 11 was particularly enjoyable. Bro. W. E. Barns did the Junior work in his own inimitable style, and Major Mapes, of Chicago, presented the illustrated closing ceremony. Twenty-two candidates were shown the mysteries. The Bulletin regrets not having more extensive particulars of this delightful occasion.

Atlantic Beach, Fla.

Vicegerent J. E. Borden is doing a great deal to uphold the standard of Hoo-Hoo in his District. At his concatenation at Atlantic Beach, June 13, a large number of the representative men of Jacksonville and other nearby towns were present, and the eligibility clause was strictly enforced. The class numbered sixteen. The meeting occurred at the Continental Hotel, the genial manager of which magnificent hospitality contributed much to the enjoyment of the evening by his accommodating spirit and kind attentions to all present.

Beaumont, Texas.

Vicegerent B. F. Williams held a good concatenation at Beaumont, June 18. Twenty-one candidates lined up for initiation, each man receiving as much as he expected, if not more.

Orillia, Ontario, Canada.

The Canadian Vicegerents continue to bestir themselves vigorously in the interests of the Order, and the membership is steadily increasing up that way.

A successful concatenation was held by Vicegerent W. C. Laidlaw in Orillia, Friday evening, June 24, when thirty-one kittens were introduced to the kindly light of Hoo-Hoo. This was the first gathering of Hoo-Hoo in Northern Ontario, though a number of meetings have occurred in other parts of Canada. The lumber trade was represented by an attendance of seventy-five members from many towns and cities in various parts of the province. The old members of the Order are always interested in seeing that the candidates are well and properly concatenated and that no detail in the ceremony of initiation is overlooked. There was no complaint made at Orillia on that score—certainly not from the kittens. The local committee had arranged for the continuous entertainment of the visitors, and the programme was thoroughly enjoyed. Early in the evening the party enjoyed a sail on Lake Couchiching on the steamer Longford.

The new kittens after their initiation were honored by an elaborate banquet at the Orillia House. The menu was printed on thin boards, and each was decorated with a bouquet plucked from the onion bed. There was not a dull moment, and all express their appreciation of the kind entertainment in Orillia and congratulate the Orillia committee on the thorough success of this meeting.

Los Angeles, Cal.

Vicegerent C. H. Griffen's concatenation at Los Angeles, June 18, resulted in the addition of ten new members, all of whom expressed themselves as thoroughly satisfied with the blessings received. The following menu was served at the session on the roof:

Special Board a la Nofziger.

SOUP
Clear	Merchantable	Select
Salter-ed Almonds O-lives (9)
Salary Catfish
Salesman's Tongue	Stuck Potatoes
Punch the Roman on your right
Roast Griffin	Montgomery Sass
Kann-Ear Corn	Pine Chip Potatoes
Yard Truck with Lubricating Oil
I Scream-can you?	Gilles-Pie
Cough-fee the waiter	Cheese it
Ask the Undertaker for a Bier
Lath and the world laths with you.

Baltimore, Md.

The second concatenation that has occurred in Baltimore since the big fire took place June 29, when twelve good men were initiated, "New building for the St. Louis Exposition" and "Liverpool for our next Annual Meeting" became the watchwords of the gathering. Vicegerent John L. Alcock was in charge of the meeting and delivered an interesting address. He said that Maryland had produced some of the most prominent men in the lumber trade, and that the Maryland district should consequently rank among the strongest in membership in the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo. He invited those present to attend the annual concatenation of the Order in St. Louis, September 9, and promised that by this date a new building would be erected in the place of the one destroyed by fire. He also stated that it was the wish and hope of the Maryland members that the annual of 1906 be held in Liverpool. Addresses indorsing Vicegerent Alcock's sentiments were made by Messrs. Norman James, Theodore Mottu, Lewis Dill, William D. Gill, Jr., and E. C. Mantz. The district membership is growing rapidly and gives promise of realizing Mr. Alcock's wish as to strength.

Approaching Concatenations.

Vicegerent G. B. Housser will hold a concatenation August 3, at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. Hoo-Hoo has been very active in Canada this year and this meeting at Winnipeg will doubtless be a successful one.

A concatenation will be held August 9, at Coffeyville, Kan., under the auspices of Vicegerent Edmond L. Luther. Prospective candidates should communicate with Mr. Luther at Leavenworth, Kan.

Vicegerent Gus. K. Jones is arranging for a concatenation at Little Rock, Ark., August 25. Mr. F. Price, of 414 West Second street, Little Rock, Ark., is looking after the preliminary arrangements.

Dues for 1904.

WHEN the clock struck twelve on the night of September 9 last, dues became payable for 1904. The Hoo-Hoo year begins and ends on September 9. Look up your receipts, and if you find that you have not paid 1904 dues, send 99 cents to the Scrivenoter at once. Any form of remittance will do except stamps that are stuck together. Your individual check will be all right.

"Women claim that the way to get on with a man is to give him plenty of nicely cooked food."

"Well," answered Mr. Sirius Barker, "why don't some of them try it?"—Washington Star.

Notes and Comments

This office always gets into trouble when dues notices are sent out. We used to have to pay exchange on checks, and members were in the habit, therefore, of sending money orders or currency by registered mail. Either plan was troublesome. It is a bore to have to send out for a money order, and it is more or less inconvenient to register a letter. When we managed to induce the bank to let up on the exchange it was supposed to be a decided advantage. Then it was that there was printed on the dues notices "Any form of remittance goes at this office—your personal check is good enough." A short time after this it was noticed that an awful lot of stamps were coming in—most of them stuck together. Life is too short to soak out several hundred stamps a day. In fact, this office just simply draws the line at soaking out stamps. Therefore the last dues notices bore the legend, "Any form of remittance goes at this office except stamps that are stuck together." Now, would you believe it—a man at Shoal Lake, Manitoba (a bright disciple he), sent in a check (he's English and spells it "cheque") for $1.86, one Canadian two-cent stamp and two street car tickets. He calls all that "any form of remittance except stamps that are stuck together." Have you ever heard of a meaner joke than this? A reward of nine cents will be given any one who suggests a way for us to get even.

The ancient Egyptians worshiped the goddess Sechet, a creature with a human body and a cat's head. Sechet's shrine was at the once famous city of Bubastis. Hither an average of 700,000 devotees resorted annually, each district delegation taking all the dead cats which had "quitted the sphere of action" in their respective localities during the year. These dead cats, all of which were carefully wrapped and embalmed, were buried at the celebrated "cat cemetery," on the plains of Zakasik, that being the place where the image of Sechet was set up. One of the greatest curiosities of present day Egypt are the catacombs, where the remains of these countless thousands of cats are to be seen, each wrapped in linen and sealed up in a red earthenware jar.

The foregoing newspaper clipping was sent by No. 7292, who asks the very pertinent question, "How do you see through the jars?" The same brother sends the following in regard to the number nine:

Nine is a trinity of trinities, and indicates perfection or completion. There are nine earths, nine heavens, nine gods, nine muses, nine worthies, nine crosses, nine points of the law, nine rivers of hell, nine orders of angels and nine circles of rank in Clines society. Milton, in "Paradise Lost," says: "The gates of hell are thrice threefold—three folds are brass, three folds iron and three folds adamantine rock. They had nine folds, nine plates and nine linings." When the angels were cast out of heaven "nine days they fell."

A cat has nine lives. There are nine crowns in heraldry. Possession is nine points of the law. The whip for punishing evil doers had nine tails, the superstition being that a flogging by a trinity of trinities would be sacred and more efficacious. The hydra had nine heads. Leases were formerly granted for 999 years. Even now they run for ninety-nine years, the dual of a trinity of trinities.

As the weird sisters in "Macbeth" danced round the cauldron they sang, "Thrice to thine and thrice to mine and thrice again to make up nine," and then declared "the charm would up." The nine o' diamonds was considered the curse of Scotland.

That conception of the thrice threefold gates of hell is a horrible one, is it not? Of course, the idea is that this triple armor-plate arrangement was to keep the sinners in hell from escaping—if the three-ply doors were to keep people out, they were a failure. "The gates of hell cannot prevail against a man who wants to go there." It will be a happy day when some bright genius hits on a plan to keep folks from going to a hell of their own making—or rather from carrying hell about with them and diffusing it around in their immediate neighborhood.

Have you contributed to the Imminent Distress Fund this year?

On another page appears the "Unknown List." The names in that list are those of members whose present addresses are unknown to this office and whose mail has been returned to us. Sometimes an "unknown" man gets mad because his name is published, and forthwith writes a furious letter stating that he isn't lost at all. This is quite unnecessary—there is no obloquy attaching to the printing of a name in the unknown list; it doesn't mean that a man has absconded or has landed in a lunatic asylum or anything like that. It simply means that we are not informed of his change of address, and that mail sent to the address as given in the unknown list has been returned to this office. Every reader of The Bulletin is respectfully requested to read carefully the unknown list and write me if any light can be thrown on the subject. I am particularly anxious to ascertain the whereabouts of Bro. Howard Benton, formerly of Washburn, Wis. There is some very important mail here for this man, and any information concerning him will be greatly appreciated.

The following letter is from the Louisiana brother who last winter got into hot water by expressing his opposition to women stenographers. It will be remembered that this bad break was exploited at some length in the columns of The Bulletin, and that the cynical member from the Pelican State came out of the fray a good deal worse for wear:

PASADENA, CAL., June 23, 1904.

Your darned old dues notice only reached me today, as I have been wandering (in my mind, of course), and much mail has reached me here, where I have come to escape the women stenographers whom you have had camping on my trail. Say, I slipped into St. Louis "incog." and slipped out again before Zeinicker had a chance to put them on my trail.

I am here in Pasadena and we have rented one of the doll houses on the avenue and are doing pretty well, and pay 25 cents for a double-barrel porter house steak and get it cooked a la Louisiana.

Fraternally.

BALTIMORE, MD., July 2, 1904.

* * I expect to shake you by the hand and introduce Mrs. Mantz at the St. Louis meeting. Mrs. M. is an ardent member of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

E. C. MANTZ (No. 5471.)

The foregoing is from a letter accompanying the report of the Baltimore concatenation. If I am not mistaken, there is a handshake coming to me. I think I helped Bro. Mantz to get married. It seems to me that I have a very clear recollection of receiving a letter from him several years ago in which he said that if he didn't have a Hoo-Hoo ladies' pin to present to his best girl on a certain date, the jig was up. Unfortunately I am possessed of a vividness of imagination that amounts almost to a disease, and there immediately dawned on my mental vision a picture of a wild-eyed young man with red hair—I don't know why I thought about red hair unless I unconsciously connected flaming locks with a strenuous temperament. At any rate, instead of letting the pin order take the usual course, it was filled at once and the package was sent to the postoffice at noon by special messenger. Soon after that I learned of Bro. Mantz's marriage, and as he seems to be supremely happy, I presume it is no harm for me to throw a bouquet at myself as Cupid's coadjutor.

This office has received from Bro. Norman L. C. Mather, No. 2705-A, a copy of "The Globe," of Toronto, Ontario. It bears the date of July 2, and has seventy-six pages, a big edition having been published in celebration of the paper's sixtieth birthday. It is a magnificent publication. Among other good things which it contains is the following brief write-up of Hoo-Hoo:

The lumberman's order, known as the "Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo," has recently entered Ontario, and has a growing membership throughout the province. "Hoo-Hoo" is unique in that it is strictly a trade organization, and limits its membership to those engaged in the lumber business, or those directly interested in the allied industries which are so closely interwoven with the conduct of the lumber business as to make them practically a part of it. The lumber trade is unique in having a social organization of this nature. All lumbermen are not "Hoo-Hoo," but all "Hoo-Hoo" are lumbermen, or in some way identified with the trade.

There may be some people who take their nonsense as they take life—seriously, but it is a safe assertion that there is a strain of fun in every man's make-up, and that no matter how grave he may appear to his fellow-men, there are times when he lays aside the serious and becomes once more the boy.

But the Concatenated Order of H. H. is not all frivolity. The promotion of good fellowship among those who have in a business sense a common interest is an object of which any organization can well be proud. The performance of charitable work in an unostentatious way, the promulgation of an unselfish spirit and the broadening of fraternal feeling among the trade—such is the creed of "Hoo-Hoo."

VALDOSTA, GA., July 5, 1904.

Received new Constitution and By-laws for 1904 for the Concatenated Order of Hoo-Hoo. I am glad to note the growth of Hoo-Hoo, and feel sure that it is largely due to the good work of its officers.

Yours truly, D. A. DENMARK.

DENVER, COL., June 18, 1904.

I am in receipt of the grip tag and ladies' pin. I had excellent business during the past two days, and I attribute at least a part of my success to the new tag.

Enclosed find Milwaukee draft No. 199999 for 99 cents for dues. I believe there are more 9s on this draft than I ever saw on any other.

ST. LOUIS, MO., July 5, 1904.

I want to tell you that Hoo-Hoo trunk No. 14, while somewhat scarred by the House of Hoo-Hoo fire through which it passed, is still in the circuit, and no doubt will do its duty for some time to come. I went out Saturday afternoon and found it in the basement of the Texas building, where it was put immediately after the fire, and while the outside is muddy in spots, and the hinges and fastenings rusty, the result of our muddy Mississippi River water being thrown upon it, still the contents were found dry, not a drop of water having soaked into them.

The erection of the new House of Hoo-Hoo is progressing very rapidly, and it won't be long until we are again occupying the House of Hoo-Hoo, enjoying its hospitality and pleasures.

Hoo-Hoo handbook for 1904 was handed me on my return from a trip this morning. I hasten to acknowledge receipt of same with many thanks. I find this little volume of untold value to me during my trips all over the country, and fully appreciate your kindness in sending the same.

Yours most sincerely, 599-A.

The new handbook is all right and is a beauty for plumpness, which shows the popularity and rapid growth of our Order.

KIBLAH, ARK., June 2, 1904.

Herewith my check for 99 cents for dues. I don't know whether I paid dues for 1904 or not and haven't time to look up to see. Anyway pass this to my credit as dues. I think Hoo-Hoo a great order and The Bulletin the most important mail I get. I read it with great pleasure.

No. 7264.

MAUSTON, WIS., July 8, 1904.

Soon after I wrote you of the non-arrival of my 1904 handbook, it came. I find now on my arrival home another, which I return to you with many thanks for your promptness—a favor which I highly appreciate.

The Bulletin and handbook are my faithful friends. Out of twenty-two periodicals that I receive, The Bulletin is the only one that I read from the beginning to the end.

Yours with respect,
J. T. HANSON (No. 3097.)

PASADENA, CAL., June 30, 1904.

Forgot to send you the I. D. F., so find my check on Los Angeles for 99 cents.

Have just read the June Bulletin and I want you to second for me the motion of No. 1749 (he ought not to hide his light under a bushel) to banish beer from the concatenations, and especially when the law has to be violated to get it there.

Fraternally,

SAM R. GUYTHER (No. 4916.)

There are nearly 2,000 men who have not paid dues for the year ending September 9, 1904. Are you one of them? If you are you should have received by this time two formal notices. The first notice of dues of this year was an informal notice printed in The Bulletin. That notice brought in several thousand remittances. The two formal notices have brought in several thousand more. For awhile after the third notice went out, a month ago, we got them in as fast as one man could write them down on the cash book, look up and verify numbers, names, etc., and mail out the receipts. For the past two weeks the receipts have steadily fallen off until today less than an hour suffices to enter all the dues received. What are you waiting for? Is it a matter of principle with you to wait until you have received the third formal notice? Maybe you want to go even this one better and then run up and hand the Scrivenor a dollar at the Annual Meeting. This is what Sam Pine and only 200 other fellows did at the Buffalo meeting. Sam says he gave me a dollar, and I have no doubt he did, but it never got on my temporary cash book at Buffalo. I must have taken that dollar and spent it for beer. I do not drink beer except at the Annual Meetings. But I am wandering off the point. Why wait to receive even one notice? Then why wait to receive two notices? Then why wait to receive the third notice, and then finally why wait to hand me the money personally at the Annual Meeting? Of course, I want you to give me the money at the Annual Meeting if you do not pay sooner. You will always find me cheerfully and smilingly ready to accept it, but it would suit me a "heap" better to have you send it in now when there is a sort of lull in the other Hoo-Hoo work. If you are one of those old fogies still cherishing that cobweb idea that it looks small to write a check for one dollar, get over it at once. I know lots of concerns—big ones, too—that pay every bill, no matter how small, by check. It is undoubtedly the best way to handle money. Do not bother to add 10 cents exchange unless you want to contribute 10 cents to the Distress Fund. I have repeatedly advised you that I have got the bank fixed here at Nashville on this matter of collecting checks. I do not know how long it will stay fixed, but if it kicks out of the traces I will let you know. There are ten or twelve banks here in Nashville and I stand fairly well with most of them, having personally, during the past twenty years, carried an overdraft at nearly all of them. Now, if you have not paid up—if you do not know that you have paid up—if besides knowing that you have paid up you have not a receipt, send along that one dollar. We make a few mistakes in handling the thousands and thousands of remittances received here during the year, but the chances are a hundred to one that I have got your account correct on my books and that your remittance will be applied as an advance payment if by some accident you should pay twice. The official auditor will take charge of my books about the 15th of August, and it is a tough proposition to be handling a big volume of dues remittances at the time this man is carting the books back and forth between his office and my office. Now do be good and send along that dollar.

Hoo-Hoo jewelry cannot be purchased except for cash. I have said that a hundred times before, and am likely to keep on saying it. Do not send in an order and ask us to "make draft" or send bill. Send your remittance along with the order.

You have doubtless noticed that from time to time there are published in The Bulletin letters of a very complimentary tenor. I am frank to say that these letters please me very much. You may think it is not in good taste to publish them, and if that is your opinion you are at perfect liberty to write and say so. It hardly seems fair, however, to print the nice letters and hide away all the epistles from the knockers. Here is a note of discord emitted by one of the members of the Anvil Chorus:

_____, TENN., July 4, 1904.

I wrote you some time ago asking whether or not my Hoo-Hoo dues were paid for 1904, and enclosed stamp for reply. This letter has not been answered. I am writing again, am asking the same question, and am also enclosing another stamp for the reply I am hoping to receive. If it is not the Scrivenor's business to give me this information, please tell me where to apply.

No. _____.

The letter written by this man "some time ago" bears the date of June 27, and was received here June 28. This other letter, which smells of sulphur and brimstone, is dated July 4, and arrived July 5—seven days after the first letter came. The letter of June 27 was not answered immediately because there was a large pile of important letters to be handled, and it was thought that this brother could wait a few days—especially as he was paid up to September 9, 1904, and had been sent a receipt. However, I like to see a man anxious to settle up his dues, and so it is all right with me.

_____, _____, July 6, 1904.

Is this the use to which you permit members to put our emblem? Your answer will be awaited with interest.

No. _____.

The foregoing comes in attached to an advertisement of a steamer line from Port Arthur, Tex., to Rotterdam, Antwerp and other continental ports—called "The Hoo-Hoo Line." The advertisement bears the picture of the black cat. At least one of the men interested in the steamer line is a member of Hoo-Hoo, as are probably others. I haven't time to look it up now. Besides, this office has nothing to do with the use of the copyrighted emblem of the Order, a fact which has been published in this paper time and again. The House of Ancients has entire charge of this matter, and that body holds that a member may use the black cat on his stationery, business cards, etc., if he so desires. I don't see anything wrong in it myself, but I do know that it seems to jar some people awfully. One member several years ago sent in his resignation on this ground alone. Of course, a nonmember has no right to use the emblem without special permission from the House of Ancients.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., July 6, 1904.

I have just attended a concatenation at Los Angeles, where we had quite a bunch of fun. The kittens in the south, however, are much tamer than at Everett, in the north.

No. 8340.

I shall be very much obliged to any member who will kindly send me a copy of February, March, April or May number of The Bulletin. We are short on these issues, and are very anxious to get hold of a few copies.

Obituary.

Brother J. W. Henderson (No. 8684) died at Woodville, Tex., June 8.

James Winfield Henderson was born at Asheville, N. C., November 13, 1873. He removed to Columbia, S. C., while quite a young man. At the time of his initiation into Hoo-Hoo he was connected with the Carolina Contracting Company, of Columbia, S. C. He joined the U. S. Navy during the Spanish-American war, serving about two years, about twelve months of this time in the Philippines. He obtained an honorable discharge from the navy, going home to Asheville, where he spent some time with his family, several of whom had typhoid fever and whom he helped to nurse. It seems a little strange that he should have had this experience, and then die of the same disease several years after in Texas. Going from Asheville to Hot Springs, Ark., with a relative who was sick, he met some brother Hoo-Hoo who suggested that he take a position with the Kirby Lumber Co., at Woodville, Tex., where he was at the time of his death. Brother Henderson was of a quiet, retiring disposition, and a true Christian gentleman. He was not married.

Brother O. R. Briggs (No. 9154) died May 30 in St. Paul, Minn., where he had gone to have an operation performed for appendicitis.

Orville Rankin Briggs was born at San Jose, Cal., February 28, 1860. At the time of his death he was proprietor of the Arline Mill Co., of Tacoma. He leaves a wife and several children.

Bro. J. O. Heimberger (No. 8622), of Leadville, Col., after a very brief illness, died June 1.

Jacob Oppenheim Heimberger was born in New York City, June 2, 1867. At an early age he was left an orphan and was adopted by Dr. David Heimberger, now of Denver. His adopted father settled in Saguache County in 1878, and the foster son spent his youth there. In 1880 he entered the University of Colorado, from which he was graduated in 1884 with honors. In 1887 Mr. Heimberger went to Leadville and was employed as a reporter on the now defunct Leadville Dispatch, which was started by his father. In 1888 he became connected in a minor capacity with the Leadville Herald-Democrat. For about sixteen years Mr. Heimberger had been on the staff of this newspaper in different capacities, rising gradually to be the owner and proprietor. It was due to him more than to any one else who has been connected with the newspaper that it weathered the storms that fell upon Leadville at various times. He was loyal to a degree to his employers. For years he was advertising manager, and for a considerable time conducted the entire departments of the paper. When the paper became the property of John F. Campion and others Mr. Heimberger was retained as advertising manager, and later became manager. In November, 1902, Mr. Heimberger purchased the newspaper outright, and he had been conducting it successfully ever since. No one in Leadville was better known or more esteemed than Mr. Heimberger. It can be truthfully said that he had not an enemy in the world and his friends were legion. No one who ever knew him or worked with him but became his steadfast friend. His nature was frank and open, and he had a remarkable faculty in making and retaining friends.

If everybody told the truth,

In just about a week

All human beings would feel hurt

And none of them would speak.

O, mother, take the pon away,
I cannot write the rhyemsky
My mindovitch is dull today,
I'll try some other timesky.
I know the jokes about the war
Should all be rattled offskl
In meter made of sneezes, or
In measures liko a coughskl.

The chances are I might collect
Some verses in manner easy
If but I knew the dialect
That ripples Japanesey,
But as it is I simply toy
With penovitch and inksl
And not a bitovitch of joy
Comes to me as I thinkskl.

I've tried to write a jingle on
The movement of each troopskl,
But all my fancies fair have gone
To whooping cough and croupskl.

"Bilkins says he isn't going to drink a drop while his wife is away."

"How strange."

"Well, you know, that's the time he needs it least."

—Life.

Have you received a copy of the new handbook? If not, write the Scrivenoter at once.

"We have a dandy college yell now."

"What is it?"

"We give four Russian battleships, a hiss-boom-ah and three Jap generals."—Puck.

Have you paid your 1904 dues?
