A NOTABLE CONCATENATION.

A Hoo-Hoo Anglo-American Alliance at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

While the peace commission has been haggling over the details of the settlement of our little brush with Spain and the war cloud in Europe has been doing its periodical lowering act to the tune of several million dollars' worth of new battle ships and equipments, the enterprising Junior Hoo-Hoo, Brother Platt. Beaugard Walker, of Minneapolis, was quietly laying his pipes for a bloodless conquest of that great province of Canada, Manitoba, which was successfully consummated at the big concatenation at Winnipeg on November 12. Mr. Walker interested a number of the Minnesota brethren in this enterprise, and they responded with true Hoo-Hoo enthusiasm and loyalty. It is something like five hundred miles from Minneapolis to Winnipeg, the capital of Manitoba, and the fact that these men so promptly agreed to go indicates a degree of devotion to the cause that is most gratifying. In addition to the Minnesota men who were present at the meeting, there were a number from other States who entered into the work and helped to shed over the occasion that measure of effulgent glory befitting an international concatenation.

The names of the men who assisted Mr. Walker in this most successful concatenation are as follows: J. B. Thompson, Emory White, G. P. Thompson, T. R. Case, James G. Wallace, Harry Collins, Casper Wackman, Fred. H. Gilman, W. H. Bogart, Chas. Esbjornson, D. H. McMullen, H. T. Alsop. The formal report on another page shows the names of the Initiates.

Mr. Walker and his assistants displayed a great deal of ingenuity and originality in the details of this concatenation, and it was probably the most unique affair ever to occur in the Queen's domain. A brass band and masquerade costumes are not usually among the accessories at a concatenation, but all this, and more, did Mr. Walker and his energetic assistants bring into use. In fact, the men with whom Mr. Walker consulted regarding the matter of inaugurating Hoo-Hoo in Manitoba were unwilling to participate except upon the distinct agreement that this concatenation should be carried out in the most elaborate manner. Not only was everything done on a splendid scale and carried out in the most artistic manner, but the material taken in was most excellent. Of the fourteen candidates admitted, twelve are the heads of different representative lumber companies in Manitoba. By a general understanding among the Winnipeg lumbermen, they were desirous of having this concatenation strictly one to include only such persons as belonged to that class.

In a personal letter to the Scrivenoter, Mr. Walker says: "It has never been my pleasure to witness the initiation of a more enthusiastic class than those who were taken in at this meeting. Each and all are anxious that the Order shall be enlarged and continue on a thoroughly representative basis. About the middle of February there will be held in the city of Winnipeg the annual meeting of the Manitoba lumbermen, and I am assured by a great many of the recent initiates that a class of not less than fifty will be secured. At the banquet I requested an expression of opinion from all present as to their preference for a Vicegerent for Manitoba. Without exception, they all voted for Mr. J. C. Graham. Personally, I can heartily concur in their choice, and will recommend him to the Snark for the office."

Mr. Graham has been duly appointed Vicegerent for Manitoba, and will at once enter upon his duties. It is believed that Manitoba will prove a good field for Hoo-Hoo.

The following is the breezy account of the concatenation written by Mr. Walker and published in his journal, the "Mississippi Valley Lumberman":

"Not since the boom days of 1881 has this city seen so much excitement as it did last Saturday. The advent of thirteen lumbermen and trade journal representatives into any community is an event of considerable note; but when these same persons have come five hundred miles to enlighten a class of fellow-lumbermen in the mysteries of Hoo-Hoo, something is bound to happen.

"At 7 o'clock that evening something did happen. The Winnipeg Brass Band came tramping down the street discoursing sweet melodies, never halting until the parlors of the magnificent Manitoba Hotel were reached. Awaiting their escort was as grotesque an assembly as soft gaslight or the glare of the electric lamps ever shone on. First, Uncle Sam, with his mammoth hat, peaked chin whiskers, and suit of stars and stripes, was waiting arm in arm with Johnnie Bull, the form of the latter ornamented with the allegorical costume so well known the world over. Over the shoulders of each of these individuals waved the flags that stand for freedom and justice. Behind them was a long line of nondescript characters. A pair of yellow kids looked as though they had just stepped out of a Sunday issue of a New York daily. The Chinese and Irish were for once in peace; at least they were to be seen standing side by side. The Dutchman, the old plantation negro, and the Indian chief were all there. His Satanic Majesty might be seen keeping an eye on old Dinah and Biddy, the Irish washerwoman, although Humpty Dumpty and the Bowery boy acted as though they considered themselves favored suitors. To show how universal was the feeling of peace and good will, the tiger, bear, and monkey were all hobnobbing. As if to prevent the possible return of these grotesque phantoms to Brownie Land, each was securely shackled about the ankles and fastened to a heavy chain. Keeping faithful guard of this band of nomads were the stern officers of Hoo-Hoo in their somber black gowns, with the well-known emblem blazing on their breasts. This weird procession filed down the broad stairway to the music of the band and the clanking of the heavy chains, greeted with hearty laughter and loud applause from every guest of the hotel. Out on the street this gorgeous procession wended its way, and, to the inspiring strains of 'God Save the Queen,' 'The Star-spangled Banner,' and 'Marching Through Georgia,' traversed the principal streets of the city. If there were any of the citizens who were not out to view the unique parade, their absence was not noticeable.

"Arriving at Orange Hall, a farewell serenade was given by the band, and the candidates silently mounted the stairs to the fates that awaited them. There may have been Hoo-Hoo concatenations where more fun and merriment were created, but it will take a good deal of argument to convince any of those who were present on this occasion of that fact.

"After the ceremony was completed, an adjournment was taken to the Holmes Restaurant, where an elegant banquet was participated in. Short addresses were made by all present, and the most cordial and friendly relations established between those who, while living in different countries, have very many interests in common. Over the fragrant Havana and the sparkling glass not a few links were welded in the great chain of Fate, which will one day unite these people of a common tongue and a common origin in one grand federation.

"After the very liberal exchange of compliments had been indulged in to the fullest extent, witty stories became the order; and it was not far from the time when the industrious cock begins his crowing when the happy party bade each other good night—or, rather, good morning.

"The appointment of a Vicegerent for Manitoba was referred to the newly-initiated members, and John C. Graham was unanimously selected for that honor. Mr. Graham is one of the representative lumbermen of the province, a genial gentleman, and a general favorite. At the next annual meeting of the Manitoba Lumber Dealers' Association it is expected that not less than fifty candidates will be necessary to satisfy the desire of the new members to get even with somebody.

"Without exception, the Manitoba lumbermen who are initiated in this class are all well known and representative business men. They control almost the entire output of lumber in the province, and are each at the head of thriving companies. Hoo-Hoo has thus been assured of the hearty cooperation of men of weight, dignity, and influence."

A Handsome Thing.

The cut below shows a very handsome thing in the way of a Hoo-Hoo watch charm, or fob, made by the B. H. Sleaf Jewelry Company, of this city, for Brother A. H. Barnard, of Minneapolis, Minn. Of course the electrotype shows nothing but the design in outline, and gives but a poor idea of how the thing appeared as finished with a combination of dull and burnished gold. The two sides of the charm are identical, which is the only way we know to prevent the wrong side of a charm from always hanging outward.

Brother Barnard is not a bit selfish about his design, and says if any other brother wants a similar charm he can have it made. Here is a good suggestion for some member's sweetheart who has been puzzling her pretty head about what to give him. The only trouble is, "The Bulletin" does not reach the women folks. Still, if a man hasn't got enterprise enough to accidentally leave a copy around where it must be seen, he would probably lose "his tag" if he had one.

A Handsome Christmas Present.

The season draws on apace when the average man's fancy lightly turns to buying a Christmas present for somebody. Occasionally you run across a man who registers an ostentatious kick against the expense the season brings, but the fact remains that the most miserable creature in the world must be the man who has no one to give a present to. He is to be pitied, but there must be something the matter with such a man that nearly puts him outside the pale of pity. No Hoo-Hoo can ever possibly be in that condition. We are men of large families and acquaintance and of just and liberal hearts.

All of which is a preface to what we rise to remark: that there is no handsomer Christmas present for a wife (present or prospective), a mother, sister, or daughter than one of the Hoo-Hoo stick pins shown in the accompanying cut.

We have never seen a woman who did not want one of these pins as soon as she saw it. The pin is useful as well as handsome and unique and "cute." What more could a woman want?

The pins are sent to any address by registered mail, engraved with the purchaser's number, for $1.60 each. Except the postage and the cost of engraving, this is just what the pins cost direct from the manufacturers in lots of one hundred. A stick pin of equal value would be sold for $3 at any jewelry store in America, and about Christmas time would cost $5. Order early, and avoid the rush. We would be glad to have our emblem worn by every good woman in the country. Only a member in good standing can purchase.

Personal Mention.

Brother Howard Anderson (No. 2589), of Atlanta, traveling representative of the well-known belting company of Graton & Knight, of Worcester, Mass., paid our office a pleasant visit about the first of the month. He was in his usual spirits, and reported business good. Brother Anderson has concluded that his peculiar type of beauty is creating too much havoc among the susceptible fair ones of his acquaintance, and hereafter the major portion of his physiognomy will be tenderly shielded from their view by a long and flowing beard, cut after the most approved Populist pattern. Brother Anderson will, however, continue to wear his hair in the same old way.

Brother E. A. Donnelly (No. 3733), traveling salesman for J. A. Fay & Egan Company, dropped in to see us on the 21st inst. For some time past Brother Donnelly has made his headquarters at Atlanta; but last August he was transferred to St. Louis, since which time there has been weeping and wailing on the part of the majority of the maidens in the "Cracker State;" for, in the estimation of the ladies, Donnelly is the rose of Sharon, the lily of the valley, and the Delaware peach crop all rolled into one. Brother Donnelly's new territory will embrace Arkansas, Missouri, and West Tennessee; and that he will prove popular with the trade in that section goes without saying, as he has in a high degree the happy gift of making friends where other people only make acquaintances. The good wishes of "The Bulletin" follow him to his new field.

"The Bulletin" had a pleasant visit last week from Mr. Luke "Windowblinds" Russell, the newly-appointed Vicegerent for the Southern District of Indiana. Mr. Russell is an old Nashville boy, though a native of Athens, Ala. He was connected with one of the leading lumber firms of Nashville for several years. He is now the representative of the St. Louis Sash and Door Works, and makes his headquarters at Evansville. He travels in Southern Indiana and Western Kentucky and Tennessee. His business takes him to all important towns in the southern half of Indiana, and he has a large personal acquaintance with the lumbermen and planing mill men. He says his State is now the very center of Hoo-Hoo, in that it is the State of the Snark, and that he is going to make it so in the record of the year's work. Mr. Russell is working up a concatenation at Evansville for a date early in January, and expects to have a large class. Though it is an important lumber center, Evansville, through a combination of circumstances, has never had a concatenation. Only two members of the Order live there, but Mr. Russell has arranged with Nashville, St. Louis, and Cincinnati parties to come over and assist him.

Obituaries.

J. E. Hansen, No. 503.

Brother J. E. Hansen died at his home, at De Forest, Wis., October 23, of abscess of the brain. He had been too ill to attend to business for nearly a year. He leaves a wife and five children. Brother Hansen, for several years before his death, had been engaged in the lumber, building material, and agricultural implement business at De Forest. In this business ex-Snark Heinenway, of Tomahawk, Wis., was a partner; and the latter gentleman furnishes these particulars. Brother Hansen was a good business man and a valuable citizen, having the esteem and confidence of all with whom he came in contact.

Julius Elias Hansen was born at Westport, Wis., November 25, 1861. He became a Hoo-Hoo at Watertown, Wis., March 22, 1893.

R. E. L'Blank, No. 4825.

The following particulars of the violent death last summer of Brother LeBlanc are furnished through the kindness of Brother George K. Smith, of New Orleans, and Brother A. W. Stevens, of Chtawa, Miss. Brother LeBlanc's death had never been reported to the Scrivenoter; and Mr. Smith, who knew of it, and who saw his name in "The Bulletin" as a delinquent for dues, took the matter up in justice to his memory. In response to Mr. Smith's letter, Mr. Stevens writes:

"Yours of the 18th inclosing letter from J. H. Baird, Scrivenoter, regarding Mr. LeBlanc's death, received. I will say I was absent at the time of this sad event, being in attendance at the lumbermen's meeting at Shreveport and spending a few days with relatives in Monroe and Bastrop, La. My recollection is that Mr. LeBlanc was killed on the morning of July 13, and his body was not found until Saturday at 2 o'clock P.M., July 16. Mr. LeBlanc had told some of his friends the evening before that he was going to New Orleans the next morning. The next morning at 4 o'clock the night watchman reports that he showed up at the mill, and sent one of the night watchmen over to his logman, a half-mile away. On sending this man away, he turned around and started to the store. Putting his hands in his pockets for the keys, he turned around to the other man and said: 'Take these books; I will be back in ten minutes; I have left my keys at home.' This was the last seen of him until he was found Saturday evening in the river with his head tied up and a bullet hole through his brain.

'Every effort was made on the part of the coroner's jury, which was in session for ten days continuously trying to ferret out some clue of this dastardly murder. They finally adjourned with a verdict as follows: 'We, the jury, after due deliberation, find that Mr. LeBlanc came to his death at the hands of a party or parties, and by means, unknown to this jury.'

Robert Edward LeBlanc was born at New Orleans, La., January 27, 1871. He became a Hoo-Hoo at Memphis, Tenn., February 2, 1897, at which time he was connected with the Chitawa Lumber and Gravel Supply Company. He was unmarried.

Prospective Concatenations.

Vicksburg, Miss., November 30.

As we go to press, a concatenation is being held at Vicksburg, Miss. This concatenation is one of the features of a sort of holiday week at Vicksburg. They are holding down there a sort of street fair, exposition, peace jubilee, or something of the sort; and Brother T. A. Middleton, who represents the "Q. & C." Road at Vicksburg, thought the occasion opportune for an assembly of the Hoo-Hoo in that territory and for the admittance to the waving greenness of a few men who still sprawl in the darkness of precarious chance and circumstance. The veteran Mississippi Vicegerent, John Mason—he who is entering upon his second term of office, for the reason that the membership of his State would not consent to have him superseded—is looking after the meeting, and will be on hand to preside.

Biloxi, Miss., December 9.

Following the Vicksburg meeting, noted above, Mr. John Mason has arranged, with the assistance of Mr. Frank Sutter, of that place, to hold a meeting at Biloxi on the date named in the heading to this. A schooner load of the famous Bayou Cook oyster, which you may say is the Gulf Coast national "bird," has been contracted for to arrive just at the hour of the "Session on the Roof;" and the affair will be a Queen's jubilee, Thanksgiving dinner, and a Christmas celebration all rolled into one. Mr. Sutter, with his characteristic energy, began work on the meeting early, and has kept it up late. He has awakened the interest of all the mill men in the lower part of the State, and has letters from them saying they will be on hand in numbers.

Cordele, Ga., December 7.

Savannah, Ga., December 22.

The two Vicegerents of Georgia, being Mr. C. M. Killian, of the "Western Reserve," at Cordele, and Mr. William Denhardt, of 'way down on the eastern shore, at Savannah, assisted by Harry W. Anderson, ex-Vicegerent, Custocatian on the present Supreme Nine, and the Henry of Navarre of Hoo-Hoo in the Southwest, where the "platform of ability" had its birth and still exists, have opened up a campaign that ere it closes, we predict, will again put Georgia in the Abou-Ben-Adhem position. The tripartite alliance starts off with a concatenation at Cordele on December 7, to be followed by another at Savannah on December 22, with one in prospect for a later date at Augusta. Both the meetings for which the dates are definitely announced are to be made notable and memorable occasions. No inside facts as to the arrangements are to be given away, but we can say that he who misses either meeting misses much, and he who misses both of them has met with an irreparable disaster.

The officials named have joined hands in advertising these two meetings. Besides a letter to all the members in the State, letters to desirable "eligibles" have been sent. Of the latter letters the following, which is being sent out for the Savannah meeting, is a sample:

"Savannah, Ga., December 1, 1898.—To the Unenlightened: Great Hoo-Hoo, the Black Prince, through his Vicegerent Snarks, sends greeting.

"There will be a grand concatenation held in Savannah, Ga., at the Knights of Pythias Hall, corner of Barnard and York streets, on Thursday, December 22, 1898. The grand procession through Hoo-Hoo Land and its fragrant gardens will start promptly at 8.01 o'clock P.M., Savannah local time, on the above-mentioned date.

"Are you a Hoo-Hoo?
If not, why not?"

"You are tendered the serene privilege of walking in the borders of Hoo-Hoo Land, and through its fragrant and balmy gardens, and drinking of its life-giving springs, there to receive the genuine light which glows in the domain of 'Health, Happiness, and Long Life.'

"Please send in application promptly, and be sure to join us in the grand procession. The traditional banquet will follow the concatenation.

"Hoping to welcome you at the time and place above mentioned,
Yours sincerely,

"WILLIAM DENHARDT,
"Vicegerent Snark for Georgia (Eastern District),
"Savannah Ga.

"C. M. KILLIAN,
"Vicegerent Snark for Georgia (Western District),
"Cordele, Ga.

"HARRY W. ANDERSON,
"Supreme Custocatian,
"Atlanta, Ga."

In addition, the letter contains full and explicit instructions as to who are and who are not eligible. The idea is a good one, and the whole thing shows business sense and judgment.

Jonesboro, Ark., December 9.

The above is the date fixed by Mr. H. A. Culver for the second concatenation of this Hoo-Hoo year in his State. The meeting has been well advertised, and there is no doubt but that it will be quite up to the high standard set by these several North Arkansas meetings. No more successful meetings were ever held anywhere than the last three in Arkansas.

Shreveport, La., December 9.

The simple announcement of the place and date is all that is necessary in the case of a Shreveport concatenation. It only needs be added that the new Vicegerent for the State, Mr. Curtis Seovell, is determined that the splendid work of his predecessor, Mr. T. Q. Martin, last year, shall be fully kept up. Mr. Seovell writes, under date of November 24, to say: "Judging from the numerous inquiries I am receiving, we will have one of the largest attendances that has ever been at a concatenation held in this country. I have been up and down the P. & G. Road for the last week; and from the numerous inquiries that I have had personally, we are going to have a splendid crowd from that section."

Mr. Seovell has the promise of several members of the Supreme Nine to be on hand, and is expecting prominent members from New Orleans and St. Louis.

At Other Places.

Mr. W. H. Wilson, the Vicegerent of the Eastern District of Tennessee, has a concatenation under way at Knoxville, for which the exact date has not yet been fixed. It will probably not occur until after the first of the year. Several of the resident members at Knoxville are behind the movement, and are very anxious that their town shall have a visitation of Great Hoo-Hoo. Mr. Wilson, the Vicegerent, is the business manager of "The Tradesman," of Chattanooga, and, of course, is in very close touch with the men prominent in industrial lines all over his section. He is but a new Hoo-Hoo himself, but a good one, and will make a good Vicegerent.

Mr. Luke "Windowblinds" Russell, of Evansville, Ind., the newly-appointed Vicegerent for the Southern District of that State, will hold a concatenation at Evansville early in January. This will be the first event of the kind ever to occur there, which is somewhat singular, as it is a considerable lumber center and has a large number of eligible men who have several times made an effort to get into Hoo-Hoo. The exact date will be announced soon and the meeting well advertised. All effort will be put forth to make the meeting a big success.

Some Business Opportunities.

Dalton, Ga., November 21, 1898.—J. H. Baird, Scrivenoter, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: I inclose my check for $1, dues for 1898. After January 1, I will need a foreman, a man capable of setting up planing mill machinery, keeping saws, bits, etc., in good repair, and capable of handling a crew of men in the planing mill. If you know of such a party, I will be pleased to have his address. A Hoo-Hoo preferred.
SHERRY MAULEY,
Secretary Cherokee Manufacturing Company.

Minneapolis, Minn., November 17, 1898.—J. H. Baird, Scrivenoter, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: We contemplate adding one or two traveling salesmen to our force in the near future; and if you learn of any first-class, A No. 1, thoroughly reliable gentleman seeking such a position, we should be pleased to have you advise us his address.

Thanking you in advance, we remain,
Yours truly,
E. W. BACKUS LUMBER CO.

Indianapolis, Ind., November 22, 1898.—J. H. Baird, Esq., Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Sir: I am anxious to get a position with some good yellow pine concern on salary. If you have any inquiries for a man, I will consider it a great favor if you will use your good offices for No. 1895.

Chicago, Ill., November 25, 1898.—J. H. Baird, Scrivenoter—Dear Sir: Please put a notice in "The Bulletin" that I want a position as planing mill foreman. Have had twenty-five years' experience in white and yellow pine and poplar; understand planing-mill machinery and grading of lumber thoroughly.
Yours very truly,

J. C. CARMODY (No. 5821),
132 West Eighteenth Street, Chicago, Ill.

In this connection see also the advertisement on the back page of this issue of No. 5743, who wants a position as stenographer and general office man with some lumber firm North or West where the climate will suit his health.

The Vicegerents.

On our front page is a list of the Vicegerents for the current year, so far as they have been appointed. It will be seen that only a few appointments remain yet to be made, and that the number of Vicegerents is larger than ever before. This is an evidence of the growth of the Order. Quite a number of new territories have been opened up and provided with Vicegerents. Three of the present Vicegerents are on foreign soil—one in Her Majesty's domain to the north of us, and two in our sister republic of Mexico. The first, thanks to the zeal of our Junior Hoo-Hoo and other good Minneapolis brethren, has a working force of members already in his territory. An effort will be made during the year to send some missionaries down into Mexico to assist the Vicegerents to hold a consecration or two. An examination of the list of Vicegerents will show with what care they have been selected. Without an exception, they are prominent business men, of weight and influence in their respective jurisdictions, and so situated as to give the work proper attention. A better corps of workers was never put in the field, and that they have already started things to moving is shown by the numerous consecrations in prospect.
